Lampis, Mark Swilling, 2015-07-30 An electronic version of this book is available Open Access at www.tandfebooks.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 3.0 license One of the major challenges of urban development has been reconciling the way cities develop with the mounting evidence of resource depletion and the negative environmental impacts of predominantly urban based modes of production and consumption This book aims to re politicise the relationship between urban development sustainability and justice and to explore the tensions emerging under real circumstances as well as their potential for transformative change For some cities are the root of all that is unsustainable while for others cities provide unique opportunities for sustainability oriented innovations that address equity and ecological challenges This book is rooted in the latter category but recognises that if cities continue to evolve along current trajectories they will be where the large bulk of the most unsustainable and inequitable human activities are concentrated By drawing on a range of case studies from both the global South and global North this book is unique in its aim to develop an integrated social ecological perspective on the challenge of sustainable urban development Through the interdisciplinary and original research of a new generation of urban researchers across the global South and North this book addresses old debates in new ways and raises new questions about sustainable urban development

Bruhn, 2011-07-18 Many of our current social problems have been attributed to the breakdown or loss of community as a place and to the fragmentation of connections due to an extreme value of individualism in the Western world particularly in the United States Not all scholars and researchers agree that individualism and technology are the primary culprits in the loss of community as it existed in the middle decade of the 20th century Nonetheless people exist in groups and connections are vital to their existence and in the daily performance of activities The second edition of the Sociology of Community Connections will identify and help students understand community connectedness in the present and future Invisible City John I. Gilderbloom, 2009-02-17 A legendary figure in the realms of public policy and academia John Gilderbloom is one of the foremost urban planning researchers of our time producing groundbreaking studies on housing markets design location regulation financing and community building Now in Invisible City he turns his eye to fundamental questions regarding housing for the elderly the disabled and the poor Why is it that some locales can offer affordable accessible and attractive housing while the large majority of cities fail to do so Invisible City calls for a brave new housing paradigm that makes the needs of marginalized populations visible to policy makers Drawing on fascinating case studies in Houston Louisville and New Orleans and analyzing census information as well as policy reports Gilderbloom offers a comprehensive engaging and optimistic theory of how housing can be remade with a progressive vision While many contemporary urban scholars have failed to capture the dynamics of what is happening in our cities Gilderbloom presents a new vision of shelter as a force that shapes all residents THE FORMS OF RESILIENCE IN URBAN CONTEXTS Celestina Fazia, Kh Md Nahiduzzaman, 2025-02-01 The book The Forms of Resilience in Urban Contexts compiles contributions from a diverse group of scholars professors researchers and doctoral students associated with the research teams led by the two authors Celestina Fazia from the Department of Engineering and Architecture in Kore University of Enna Italy and Kh Md Nahiduzzaman from Citinnov SA for Integrated Territorial Planning and Smart Cities¹ in Mohammed VI Polytechnic University UM6P Morocco The topic of resilience has been addressed on several occasions and in different fields but the approach that has been taken by the authors is to solicit broader disciplinary reflections on the issues and research experiments delving into issues that have remained underexplored Therefore a structure was envisioned that would consider a double key on the one hand insights into the concept of urban resilience and its evolutions declinations and on the other hand experiments trying to bring out the contributions that different fields of intervention provide to make cities more resilient and ready to face the challenges ahead The authors attempted to solícite contributions on the following areas Context and significance of resilience in urban planning The advancement of urban resilience moving beyond sustainability Technological and digital transitions perspectives and opportunities Case studies on resilience learning from contextual experiences The role of heritage and landscape in urban resilience Green and blue infrastructure foundations for resilient urban landscapes Emergency and affordable housing urbanism hypotheses for sustainable regeneration Battleground: Environment Robin Morris Collin, 2008-07-30 The environment inflames passions in people on all points of the political spectrum Controversies over such issues as the rise of cancer in industrialized countries climate change and urban sprawl have skyrocketed as we recognize the impact that humans have on the environment Many people become immersed in these controversies at a local level before they know much about the topic the nuances of many environmental conflicts are often overlooked as the media focuses on the adversarial nature of the conflict This reference resource provides students teachers librarians and citizens as a whole with the necessary first step in understanding these hot button issues Each entry identifies the issue involved who was holding various points of view or positions where and when the conflict occurred and explains the cultural social and political context and dimensions of the conflict Battleground Environment provides in depth analysis of over 100 of the most controversial topics involving the environment including childhood asthma the Kyoto Summit and Treaty smart growth the Three Gorges Dam in China and genetically modified food Entries include descriptions of public policies and discussions of the future of the controversy Each entry concludes with cross references and a short relevant bibliography suitable for student research The resource includes numerous sidebars that discuss in detail particular local controversies that illuminate the complexity of the topics discussed City Futures Doctor Edgar Pieterse, 2013-04-04 Cities are the future In the past two decades a global urban revolution has taken place mainly in the South The mega cities of the developing world are home to over 10 million people each and even smaller cities are experiencing unprecedented population surges The problems surrounding this influx of people slums poverty unemployment and lack of governance have been well documented This book is a powerful indictment of the current consensus on how to deal with these challenges Pieterse argues that the current shelter for all and urban good governance policies treat only the symptoms not the causes of the problem Instead he claims there is an urgent need to reinvigorate civil society in these cities to encourage radical democracy economic resilience social resistance and environmental sustainability folded into the everyday concerns of marginalised people Providing a dynamic picture of a cosmopolitan urban citizenship this book is an essential guide to one of the new century's greatest challenges

Ponzini, 2014-12-05 The regeneration of critical urban areas through the redesign of public space with the intense involvement of local communities seems to be the central focus of place making according to some widespread practices in academic and professional circles Recently new expertise maintains that place making could be an innovative and potentially autonomous field competing with more traditional disciplines like urban planning urban design architecture and others This book affirms that the question of making better places for people should be understood in a broader sense as a symptom of the non contingent limitations of the urban and spatial disciplines It maintains that research should not be oriented only towards new technical or merely formal solutions but rather towards the profound rethinking of disciplinary paradigms In the fields of urban planning urban design and policy making the challenge of place making provides scholars and practitioners a great opportunity for a much needed critical review Only the substantial reappraisal of long standing technical cultural institutional and social premises and perspectives can truly improve place making practices The pressing need for place making implies trespassing undue disciplinary boundaries and experimenting a place based approach that can innovate and integrate planning regulations strategic spatial visioning and urban development projects Moreover the place making challenge compels urban experts and policy makers to critically reflect upon the physical and social contexts of their interventions In this sense facing place making today is a way to renew the civic and social role of urban planning and urban design
