The Life Swap Nancy Weber, 2015-06-23. In February of 1973, Nancy Weber put an ad in the Village Voice offering to trade places with another woman, a stranger, for a month. In hopes of better understanding what was fixed and final in each person and what was invented and therefore might be reinvented, they would use each other's names, live in each other's homes, love each other's loves, and do each other's work. After interviewing many of the fascinating women who answered the ad, Weber, single with a longtime lover and straight, chose a polyamorous bisexual married psychologist and academic, the pseudonymous Micki Wrangler. They spent five months getting ready for their adventure, cajoling their nearest and dearest into participating, exchanging thousands of details, and swapping deep secrets. But instead of a month, their wild ride lasted only a week. Wrangler was having a rough time, and Weber too good a time, maybe so they decided to call things off. Wanting The Life Swap to convey more than her own experience, Weber invited Wrangler and ten others to enrich the book with their uncensored reports. Publicity for the book included stints on The Tonight Show with Johnny Carson and To Tell the Truth. The book achieved a kind of cult status in part because it's a relic of 1970s sexual openness, cruelly destroyed by HIV/AIDS and belief in the right of self-invention. Recent critics have credited the book with inspiring life swap reality TV shows and several popular novels and films.

The Cold War Swap Ross Thomas, Stuart M. Kaminsky, 2003-05-16. At the height of the Cold War, two Americans are running a bar in the West German capital called Mac's place. McCorkle, his partner, wisely doesn't ask questions; he knows Padillo has a second job; he's a reluctant US agent. But McCorkle is ready to answer a call for help from Padillo, and he joins his friend in a blind journey with no inkling of what they will encounter at the turn of each dark and dangerous corner.
