

Pipeline Hazards

- ◆ Pipeline Hazards:

- Structural hazards: attempt to use the same resource in two different ways at the same time
 - Ex.: combined washer/dryer or folder busy doing something else (watching TV)
- Data hazards: attempt to use item before ready
 - Instruction depends on result of prior instruction still in the pipeline
- Control hazards: attempt to make decision before condition is evaluated
 - Ex.: wash football uniforms and need to see result of previous load to get proper detergent level
 - Branch instructions

- ◆ Can always resolve hazards by waiting

- pipeline control must detect the hazard
- take action (or delay action) to resolve hazards

The Hazards Of Doing A Phd

A. Landgraf, S. Kuebler, E.
Hintersberger, S. Stein

The Hazards Of Doing A Phd:

The Hazards of Doing a PhD Alison L. Booth, Stephen E. Satchell, 1993 A Hazard Model of the Probability of Medical School Dropout in the United Kingdom Wiji Arulampalam, Robin A. Naylor, Jeremy P. Smith, 2001 Emerging Voices in Natural Hazards Research Fernando I. Rivera, 2019-06-07

Emerging Voices in Natural Hazards Research provides a synthesis of the most pressing issues in natural hazards research by new professionals. The book begins with an overview of emerging research on natural hazards such as hurricanes, earthquakes, floods, wildfires, sea level rise, global warming, climate change, and tornadoes, among others. Remaining sections include topics such as socially vulnerable populations and the cycles of emergency management. Emerging Voices in Natural Hazards Research is intended to serve as a consolidated resource for academics, students, and researchers to learn about the most pressing issues in natural hazard research today. Provides a platform for readers to keep up to date with the interdisciplinary research that new professionals are producing. Covers the multidisciplinary perspectives of the hazards and disasters field. Includes international perspectives from new professionals around the world, including developing countries.

Daring the Doctorate Ada Demb, 2012-12-15

One of the best kept secrets about doctoral education is the large proportion of students who are mid-career. Yet few researchers focus on these students. Daring the Doctorate is the first major work to address the life circumstances of these mid-career doctoral students. Based on the experiences of fifteen successful graduates, the author develops perspectives and frameworks to assist those contemplating doctoral study, as well as faculty and staff advisors, and even recent graduates who wonder whether only they found the road to graduation so complicated. In this thorough guide to the doctorate degree, study participants speak freely about their reasons for pursuing doctorates, as well as the financial, personal, intellectual, and professional challenges they faced. Their circumstances reflect a variety of situations: single, married, and partnered; some mothers and fathers, male and female; some as young as twenty-six and others approaching their middle ages. We learn about their passion for learning, about guilt and isolation, the time pressures, the exhilaration, and key supporting roles played by family, peers, advisors, mentors, Wizards, and Guardians. We come away with a profound appreciation of the courage and tenacity of these talented individuals and a better understanding of how to help others like them succeed.

The Lancet: Cardiovascular Disease 2012

The Lancet, 2012-08-24

This book, featuring content from the Aug 11, 2012 issue of The Lancet, has been released to coincide with the European Society of Cardiology (ESC) meeting in Munich, Germany, which is to be held on Aug 25-29, 2012. The Lancet is strongly supportive of cardiology, as can be seen from the substantial relevant content in this compilation. In 2011, The Lancet published more papers in this specialty than any other cardiovascular research contributed about one in four of all published research papers. Featured within are three research articles on lipids and cardiovascular disease, which provide balance on the role of high-density lipoproteins in cardiovascular disease and on statins in prevention of cardiac events. There are also three commissioned reviews being presented at the joint ESC-The Lancet session at the Munich meeting that are focused on hypertension It is estimated that some 40% of the adult population around the world will have high blood pressure and it is well established that hypertension is strongly associated with other cardiovascular outcomes Hypertension is by no means a problem only in high income countries one of the reviews reports on the prevalence of high blood pressure in low income and middle income countries and on specific health problems and solutions in these countries The interrelation between hypertension and diabetes another disease that is rapidly becoming more prevalent is examined in a second review In light of the high prevalence and subsequent outcomes it is important to be able to treat hypertension effectively and the third review discusses drugs and devices that have recently reached the market or are in development These reviews have been commissioned with the advice and help of Lars H Lindholm

Seismicity, Fault Rupture and Earthquake Hazards in Slowly Deforming Regions A. Landgraf, S. Kuebler, E. Hintersberger, S. Stein, 2017-01-30 Palaeoseismic records and seismological data from continental interiors increasingly show that these areas of slow strain accumulation are more subject to seismic and associated natural hazards than previously thought Moreover some of our instincts developed for assessing hazards at plate boundaries might not apply here Hence assessing hazards and drawing implications for the future is challenging and how well it can be done heavily depends on the ability to assess the spatiotemporal distribution of past large earthquakes This book explores some key issues in understanding hazards in slowly deforming areas Examples include classic intraplate regions such as Central and Northern Europe Mongolia Inner Mongolia Australia and North and South America and regions of widely distributed strain such as the Tien Shan Mountains in Central Asia The papers in this volume are grouped into two sections The first section deals with instrumental and historical earthquake data and associated hazard assessments The second section covers methods from structural geology palaeoseismology and tectonic geomorphology and incorporates field evidence
