Surviving Dependence Voices Of African American Elders:

Surviving Dependence Mary M. Ball, Frank J. Whittington, 1995 Dealing with home care experience of older African Americans this book attempts to meet the need for recording and interpreting the ordinary life of elderly African Americans on their own terms in their own surroundings and in their own words Surviving Dependence Mary Ball, Frank Whittington, 2020-11-25 To date there has not been a clear look at the home care experience of older African Americans Surviving Dependence Voices of African American Elders attempts to meet the need for recording and interpreting the ordinary life of elderly African Americans on their own terms in their own surroundings and in so far as possible in their own words Ball and Whittington's research is unique in two ways it focuses on older people who are African American and poor and it describes the viewpoint of care recipients and their relationships with the public programs designed to help them This book provides an in depth view of the experiences of these seven frail elders as both care receivers and as active participants in their own care The two primary themes the significant disabilities that often accompany old age and the tenacious will and ability to cope possessed by our informants are reflected in the title Surviving Dependence

Handbook of Communication and Aging Research Jon F. Nussbaum, Justine Coupland, 2004-04-12 This second edition of the Handbook of Communication and Aging Research captures the ever changing and expanding domain of aging research Since it was first recognized that there is more to social aging than demography gerontology has needed a communication perspective Like the first edition this handbook sets out to demonstrate that aging is not only an individual process but an interactive one The study of communication can lead to an understanding of what it means to grow old We may age physiologically and chronologically but our social aging how we behave as social actors toward others and even how we align ourselves with or come to understand the signs of difference or change as we age are phenomena achieved primarily through communication experiences Synthesizing the vast amount of research that has been published on communication and aging in numerous international outlets over the last three decades the book's contributors include scholars from North America and the United Kingdom who are active researchers in the perspectives covered in their particular chapter Many of the chapters work to deny earlier images of aging as involving normative decrement to provide a picture of aging as a process of development involving positive choices and providing new opportunities A recurring theme in many chapters is that of the heterogeneity of the group of people who are variously categorized as older aged elderly or over 65 The contributors review the literature analytically in a way that reveals not only current theoretical and methodological approaches to communication and aging research but also sets the future agenda This handbook will be of great interest to scholars and researchers in gerontology developmental psychology and communication and in this updated edition will continue to play a key role in the study of communication and aging

Older Adults with Developmental Disabilities Claire Lavin, Kenneth J. J. Doka, 2020-11-26 Assesses the needs and lives of the first generation of people with developmental disabilities who have survived into later life

Describes the challenges facing practitioners in gerontology and developmental disabilities to modify programs designed for mid life adults and notes that senior services will need to incorporate the needs of the new po A Current Bibliography on African Affairs ,2008 Invitation to the Life Course Richard Settersten,2018-02-06 Invitation to the Life Course Toward New Understandings of Later Life discusses in depth the challenges of age time and social contexts for the study of aging and later life Understanding aging as a process and later life as a period must be accompanied by serious attention to the life course This brings significant challenges related to time as gerontologists must describe and explain life patterns over many decades It also brings significant challenges related to place as gerontologists must examine how social contexts structure pathways into and through later life and how those contexts affect the nature and meaning of experiences along the way This book is a natural extension of the editor s previous work Lives in Time and Place The Problems and Promises of Developmental Science Baywood 1999 Global Aging Suzanne R. Time and Place R. A. Settersten, 2018-10-04 Time and place are of the greatest significance for scientific inquiry about human lives As we seek to better understand the nature and rhythm of the life course in modern societies its effective analysis and explanation simultaneously becomes more pressing and more complicated This information is crucial for developing and reforming social policies services and interventions aimed at improving human development and welfare Yet as our scientific treatments have become more elaborate they have also become more fragmented within and between academic disciplines across the study of specific life periods and by method Staying Put Susan Lanspery, Joan

Hyde, 2018-12-20 Most existing housing offers a poor fit for older people and people with disabilities and new construction adds less than 2 per cent to the housing each year Ninety nine percent of the housing that will be in use in the year 2000
