Surviving In Healthcare:

Surviving Work in Healthcare Elizabeth Cotton, 2017-03-08 The book takes as its starting point the crisis of healthcare in the UK impossible health targets managed through command and control management and a stomach churning rise in racism whistleblowing and victimisation in the NHS The use of nationally set productivity targets combined with austerity cuts have increasingly put clinical best practice into direct conflict with funding Health targets have become politically controlled and performance has become a cynical exercise in ticking boxes cascaded within trusts and bulldozed through frontline services This has led directly to a precarious system of employment relations subject to the continual restructuring of services rather than the goal of creating functioning interdisciplinary teams that stand a chance of capturing clinical excellence This book is written for workers and managers who are on the frontline of the battle for decent healthcare The content of this book is based on the ordinary expertise of the people who are actually surviving it and helpful ideas about making the best out of a bad lot Surviving Work in Healthcare will be of interest to healthcare professionals and anyone working on the frontline of healthcare as well as students of management human resources and psychology Surviving

University of West England UWE Bristol EpiCrim sees crime and offending behaviour including sexual abuse as a public health issue and advocates that to prevent first time or repeat offending behaviour we have to work in a bespoke way across a number of populations individual interpersonal community and societal The book introduces the area of EpiCrim and how it

Surviving to Metaviving Julie Mengert,2025-09-04 As treatments have advanced metastatic breast cancer has become a disease that some women can live with for years which has changed the language that women use to discuss living with this form of breast cancer as discussed in this book Using the framework of Celeste Condit s rhetorical formations which includes uses of metaphors topics and values among other rhetorical features the author examines how language has shifted from one of war and survivor rhetoric to that of metavivor rhetoric which includes metaphors of water and prison among others Another hallmark of this emerging rhetorical formation is existing in a state of liminality where the cancer neither progresses nor retreats leading to women experiencing time differently By examining how women discuss living with cancer in an online breast cancer support group the author analyzes the language shifts taking place and argues that women have moved from the dominant war survivor rhetorical formation to one grounded in metavivor rhetoric Within this evolution comes an understanding of what it means to live with a chronic yet ultimately terminal illness and an acknowledgment of the impact that their lives perceived time has on these language choices Survive the AI Age Elias Julian Carter,2025-03-24
