Sustainable Agriculture In Central America:

Sustainable Agriculture in Central America R. Ruben, 1997-07-14 Agricultural development in Central America is based on extensive growth supported by macroeconomic policies that marginalize small peasants Deforestation erosion and resource depletion are particularly severe This book offers a comprehensive review of the perspectives for state policies and local action to enhance sustainable agriculture Macroeconomic conditions and institutional arrangements for the establishment of sustainable production systems in different eco regional settings hillsides humid tropics frontier areas are discussed as well as policy instruments to improve property rights management rules and financial mechanisms to enhance sustainable resource use Report on a workshop on sustainable agriculture on the hillsides of Central America opportunities for interinstitutional collaboration , The Puzzle of Latin American Economic Development Patrice M. Franko, 2007 Provides the basic economic tools for students to understand the problems in the countries of Latin America This third edition analyzes challenges to the neoliberal model of development and highlights macroeconomic changes in the region It explores the contradictions of growth and focuses on factors of competitiveness Macro-economic Conditions for Sustainable Agriculture in Central America Andy Thorpe, 1996 Campesino a Campesino Eric Holt-Giménez, 2006 Campesino a Campesino tells the inspiring story of a true grassroots movement poor peasant farmers teaching one another how to protect their environment while still earning a living The first book in English about the farmer led sustainable agriculture movement in Latin America Campesino a Campesino includes lots of first person stories and commentary from the farmer teachers mixing personal accounts with detailed analysis of the political socioeconomic and ecological factors that galvanized the movement Campesino farmer leading a farmer to farmer training session in Mexico by Eric Holt Gimenez Many years ago author Eric Holt Gimenez was a volunteer trying to teach sustainable agriculture techniques in the dusty highlands of central Mexico with little success Near the end of his tenure he invited a group of visiting Guatemalan farmers to teach a course in his village What he saw was like nothing he had known The Guatemalans used parables stories and humor to present agricultural improvement to their Mexican compadres as a logical outcome of clear thinking and compassion love of farming of family of nature and of community Rather than try to convince the Mexicans of their innovations they insisted they experiment new things on a small scale first to see how well they worked And they saw themselves as students respecting the Mexicans deep lifelong knowledge of their own particular land and climate All they asked in return was that the Mexicans turn around and share their new knowledge with others which they did CAC campo3_photo by Food First This exchange was typical of a grassroots movement called Campesino a Campesino or Farmer to Farmer which has grown up in southern Mexico and war torn Central America over the last three decades In the book Campesino a Campesino Holt Gimenez writes the first history of the movement describing the social political economic and environmental circumstances that shape it The voices and stories of dozens of farmers in the movement are captured bringing to vivid life this hopeful story of peasant farmers helping one another to farm sustainably protecting their land their environment and their families future The Campesino a Campesino Movement Eric Holt-Gimenez,1996 Report on a Workshop on Sustainable Agriculture on the Hillside of Central America ,1991 Agriculture and Climate Beyond 2015 Floor Brouwer,Bruce A. McCarl,2006-02-20 Interactions between agriculture climate and patterns of land use are complex Major changes in agriculture and land use patterns are foreseen in the next couple of decades in response to shifts in climate greenhouse gas management initiatives population growth and other forces The book explores key interactions between changes in agriculture patterns of land use and efforts to reduce greenhouse emissions from agriculture The volume is based on inter disciplinary science and policy interactions exploring the way land use may aid in addressing or be affected by the onset of climate change and alterations in food demand Future forces shaping land use decisions are examined and its sensitivity to climate change is highlighted Patterns of land use and the agricultural role in climate change mitigation are explored Also policy and social responses to the new perspectives on future land use patterns are identified The perspective of the book is beyond the year 2015 Community Capacity and Resilience in Latin America Paul R. Lachapelle,Isabel Gutierrez-Montes,Cornelia Butler Flora,2020-05-20 Community Capacity and Resilience in Latin America addresses the role of communities in building their capacity to increase resiliency and carry out rural development strategies in Latin America Resiliency in a community sense is associated with an ability to address stress and respond to shock while obtaining participatory engagement in community assessment planning and outcome Although the political contexts for community development have changed dramatically in a number of Latin American countries in recent years there are growing opportunities and examples of communities working together to address common problems and improve collective quality of life This book links scholarship that highlights community development praxis using new frameworks to understand the potential for community capacity and resiliency By rejecting old linear models of development based on technology transfer and diffusion of technology many communities in Latin America have built capacity of their capital assets to become more resilient and adapt positively to change This book is an essential resource for academics and practitioners of rural development demonstrating that there is much we can learn from the skills of self diagnosis and building on existing assets to enhance community capitals Chapter 3 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at http www taylorfrancis com under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4 0 license South America, Central America and the Caribbean 2003 Europa Publications,2002 Introductory surveys cover topics of regional importance individual country chapters include analysis statistics and directory information plus information on regional organizations Integrated Crop and Land Management in the Hilly Terrains of Central America Richard G. Barber,1999-01-01 A report identifying and evaluating strategies methods and technologies being used to promote the adoption of sustainable agricultural techniques on hillsides in Central America The key elements of procedures and technologies that have been successfully adopted by farmers are illustrated and discussed Using the Agricultural, Environmental, and Food Literature Barbara S. Hutchinson, Antoinette Paris-Greider, 2002-07-17 This reference provides the groundwork tools and terminology required when conducting specialized searches for information and resources pertaining to traditional and emerging fields of agriculture The editors present 16 contributions from librarians and other information workers that offer information on research resources across the academic a Green Guidance for Latin America and the Caribbean Lori Ann Thrupp, 1993

Analysis of sustainable development in Central America: set of indicator for agriculture and natural resources

, Rural Latin America in Transition Ray Watters, 2021-01-27 This book provides an in depth and broad study on rural Latin America over a 60 year period Using a case study approach of Mexico and Venezuela peasants and lower rural classes are examined at the local meso and national levels Additionally the study analyzes government policies development and leadership in each country Latin America has tried to ride the waves of globalization worldwide economic and environmental crises the author examines Mexico and Venezuela s relations with the political hegemony of superpowers like the US EU and China The material will appeal to researchers graduate students and policy makers in the fields of rural development Latin American politics and international relations Central America in the Classroom , 1989 Masculinities and Femininities in Latin America's Uneven Development Susan Paulson, 2015-08-20 This book forges a new approach to historical and geographical change by asking how gender arrangements and dynamics influence the evolution of institutions and environments This new theoretical approach is applied via mixed methods and a multi scale framework to bring together unusually diverse phenomena Regional trends demonstrated with quantitative data include the massive incorporation of women into paid work demographic masculinization of the countryside and feminization of cities rapidly increasing gaps that favor women over men in education and life expectancy and extraordinarily high levels of violence against men Case studies in Mexico Chile and Bolivia explore changes influenced by gender practices and expectations that involve men in different ways than women they also highlight dissimilarities and power relations between differently positioned masculine groups Ethnographic studies of culturally diverse arrangements together with particular attention to subordinate versus dominant masculinities complicate the gender binaries that circumscribe so much research and policy Drawing attention to imbalances and conflicts generated by inappropriate models and uneven developments the book points to opportunities for experimenting with and adapting the sociocultural institutions that govern relations among humans and between humans and their environment Integrating Agriculture, Conservation and Ecotourism: Examples from the Field W. Bruce Campbell, Silvia López Ortíz, 2011-06-07 Issues In Agroecology Present Status and Future Prospectus not only reviews aspects of ecology but the ecology of sustainable food production systems and related societal and cultural values To provide effective communication regarding status and advances in this field this series connects with many disciplines such as sociology anthropology environmental sciences ethics agriculture economics ecology rural development sustainability policy and education and integrations of these general themes so as to provide integrated points of view that will help lead to a more sustainable construction of values than conventional economics alone Such designs are inherently complex and dynamic and go beyond the individual farm to include landscapes communities and biogeographic regions by emphasizing their unique agricultural and ecological values and their biological societal and cultural components and processes

Non-governmental Organizations and the State in Latin America Anthony Bebbington, Graham Thiele, 1993

Presents 20 specially commissioned case studies of farmer participatory approaches to agricultural innovation initiated by NGOs in Latin America with case material set within the context of NGOs relations with the state Natural Resource-based Export Initiatives in Central America and the Caribbean Norman Myers, 1990
