The May 30 Movement Events And Themes:

Projecting A Nation Jubin Hu, 2003-06-01 This is the first major work on pre 1949 Chinese cinema in English As such it represents a major contribution to existing discussions of both Chinese cinema and national cinema and is an indispensable basic resource for scholars interested in Chinese film history The book analyses the wide variety of conceptions of Chinese national cinema between the early years of the 20th century and 1949 and contrasts these to conceptions of national cinema in Europe and China After years of exhausting primary historical research the author has been able to bring to light sources hitherto not widely available The author argues that questions and debates about the status and meaning of the national in Chinese national cinema are central to any consideration of cinema during this period and addresses the issue of Chinese nationalism as part of a complex history of cinema within the early modern Chinese nation The May 30 Movement

Richard W. Rigby, 1980 Proletarianisation in the Third World Barry Munslow, Henry Finch, 2012-07-26 First published in 1984 this collection of twelve case studies examines the emergence of a free wage labour force in all regions of the third world Although the struggle and conflict through which the proletariat has achieved a degree of class consciousness is not neglected the more dominant theme is that of the process and techniques which have created a working class on the capitalist periphery Resisting Spirits Maggie Greene, 2019-08-09 Resisting Spirits is a reconsideration of the significance and periodization of literary production in the high socialist era roughly 1953 through 1966 specifically focused on Mao era culture workers experiments with ghosts and ghost plays Maggie Greene combines rare manuscript materials such as theatre troupes annotated practice scripts with archival documents memoirs newspapers and films to track key debates over the direction of socialist aesthetics Through arguments over the role of ghosts in literature Greene illuminates the ways in which culture workers were able to make space for aesthetic innovation and contestation both despite and because of the constantly shifting political demands of the Mao era Ghosts were caught up in the broader discourse of superstition modernization and China's social and cultural future Yet as Greene demonstrates the ramifications of those concerns as manifested in the actual craft of writing and performing plays led to further debates in the realm of literature itself If we remove the ghost from a ghost play does it remain a ghost play Does it lose its artistic value its didactic value or both At the heart of Greene's intervention is just reading the book regards literature first as literature rather than searching immediately for its political subtext and the voices of dramatists themselves finally upstage those of Mao's inner circle Ironically this surface reading reveals layers of history that scholars of the Mao era have often ignored including the ways in which social relations and artistic commitments continued to inform the world of art Resisting Spirits thus illuminates the origins of more famous literary inquisitions showing how the arguments surrounding ghost plays and the fates of their authors place the origins of the Cultural Revolution several years earlier with a radical new shift in the discourse of theatre
