Source Materials And The Interpretation Of Music A Memorial Volume To Thurston Dart:

Source Materials and the Interpretation of Music Ian Bent, 1981-01-01 Source Materials and the Interpretation of Music Thurston Dart, 1981 Bolognese Instrumental Music, 1660-1710 Gregory Barnett, 2017-07-05 This book the first of its kind is a study of Bolognese instrumental music during the height of the city's musical activity in the late seventeenth century. The period marked by a rapid expansion of the cappella musicale of the principal city church San Petronio by the founding of the Accademia Filarmonica and by increasingly lavish patronage of musical events witnessed the proliferation of repertory for instrumental ensembles. This music not only reveals crucial stages in the development of the sonata and concerto but also recalls the elaborate church rituals and the opulent public and private celebrations in which they figured prominently. Moreover, the late seventeenth century saw the heyday of Bolognese music publishing whose output of sonatas and related instrumental genres easily surpassed that of the once dominating Venetian presses. The approach taken here departs from composer and genre centered monographs on Italian instrumental music in order to illuminate an array of topics that center on the Bolognese repertory: the social condition of instrumentalist composers; the acumen of music publishers in the creation of the repertory; the diverse contexts of the instrumental dances; the influence of liturgical traditions on sonata topoi; the impact of psalmodic practice on tonal style and the innovative climate that led to experiments with scoring and form in the earliest instrumental concertos. In sum, this book not only illustrates the historically significant and defining features of the music but also links the surviving repertory to the flourishing musical culture in which it was created.

The Birth of the Orchestra John Spitzer, Neal Zaslaw, 2004-04-29 This book traces the emergence of the orchestra from 16th century string bands to the classical orchestra of Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven and their contemporaries. Ensembles of bowed stringed instruments, several players per part plus continuo and wind instruments were organized in France in the mid 17th century and then in Rome at the end of the century. The prestige of these ensembles and of the music and performing styles of their leaders Jean Baptiste Lully and Arcangelo Corelli caused them to be imitated elsewhere until by the late 18th century the orchestra had become a pan European phenomenon. Spitzer and Zaslaw review previous accounts of these developments then proceed to a thoroughgoing documentation and discussion of orchestral organization, instrumentation and social roles in France, Italy, Germany, England and the American colonies. They also examine the emergence of orchestral musicians' idiomatic music for orchestras, orchestral performance practices and the awareness of the orchestra as a central institution in European life.

Ars nova John L. Nádas, Michael Scott Cuthbert, 2017-07-05 In the early fourteenth century musicians in France and later Italy established new traditions of secular and sacred polyphony. This ars nova or new art popularized by theorists such as Philippe de Vitry and Johannes de Muris was the among the first of many later movements to establish the music of the present as a clean break from the past. The rich music of this period by composers such as Guillaume de Machaut and Francesco Landini is not only beautiful but also rewards deep study and analysis. Yet contradictions and gaps abound in the ars nova of the fourteenth and early fifteenth centuries how do we read this music how do we perform this music what was the cultural context of these performances These problems are well met by the ingenuity of approaches and solutions found by scholars in this volume The twenty seven articles brought together reflect the broad methodological and chronological range of scholarly inquiry on the ars nova Composing Community in Late Medieval Music Jane D. Hatter, 2019-05-02 An exploration of what self referential compositions reveal about late medieval musical networks linking choirboys to canons and performers to theorists

Devotional Music in the Iberian World, 1450-1800 Tess Knighton, 2017-07-05 From the fifteenth century to the beginning of the nineteenth century devotional music played a fundamental role in the Iberian world Songs in the vernacular usually referred to by the generic name of villancico but including forms as varied as madrigals ensaladas tonos cantatas or even oratorios were regularly performed at many religious feasts in major churches royal and private chapels convents and in monasteries These compositions appear to have progressively fulfilled or supplemented the role occupied by the Latin motet in other countries and as they were often composed anew for each celebration the surviving sources vastly outnumber those of Latin compositions they can be counted in tens of thousands The close relationship with secular genres both musical literary and performative turned these compositions into a major vehicle for dissemination of vernacular styles throughout the Iberian world This model of musical production was also cultivated in Portugal and rapidly exported to the Spanish and Portuguese colonies in America and Asia In many cases the villancico repertory represents the oldest surviving source of music produced in these regions thus affording it a primary role in the construction of national identities The sixteen essays in this volume explore the development of devotional music in the Iberian world in this period providing the first broad based survey of this important genre
