Soviet Space Exploration William Roy Shelton,1969 The Red Rockets' Glare Asif A. Siddiqi,2010-02-26 An academic study on the birth of the Soviet space program situating the birth of cosmic enthusiasm within Russian and Soviet history Soviet Space Exploration William Shelton,1968 NASA EP. United States. National Aeronautics and Space Administration,1968 Soviet Rocketry Michael Stoiko,1971 Aerospace Bibliography National Aerospace Education Council (U.S.),1970 Soviet Space Culture E. Maurer,J. Richers,M. R  thers,C. Scheide,2011-08-16 Starting with the first man made satellite Sputnik in 1957 and culminating four years later with the first human in space Yuri Gagarin space became a new utopian horizon This book explores the profound repercussions of the Soviet space exploration program on culture and everyday life in Eastern Europe especially in the Soviet Union itself Congressional Record United States. Congress,1969 Aerospace Bibliography ,1972 Space Exploration in the United States Thomas Gangale,2019-11-11 This select volume of historical documents is organized chronologically spanning from 1914 to the present Divided into eight chapters it includes a narrative introduction to each historical period This collection of historical documents provides insight into the history of the United States in its pursuit of the peaceful uses of outer space with emphasis on the manned space program of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as well as commercial American activities supporting human spaceflight in the early 21st century Rocketry and space technology have served varied goals throughout the Space Age pure research as well as research applied for national security national prestige and commercial profit There have been varied actors as well among them individuals supported by philanthropists as well as governments intergovernmental organizations international consortiums and for profit corporations This book focuses on space exploration and in particular human space exploration leading to the questions Why have humans gone into outer space in the past and Why will they do so in the future These documents help readers to examine the variety of fascinating answers to those questions Astronautics, 1966-1975 United States Air Force Academy. Library,Robert S. Shaffer,1976

Exploration and Science Michael Sean Reidy,Gary Kroll,Erik M. Conway,2006-12-27 This comprehensive volume explores the intricate mutually dependent relationship between science and exploration how each has repeatedly built on the discoveries of the other and in the process opened new frontiers A simple question Which came first advances in navigation or successful voyages of discovery A complicated answer Both and neither For more than four centuries scientists and explorers have worked together sometimes intentionally and sometimes not in an ongoing symbiotic partnership When early explorers brought back exotic flora and fauna from newly discovered lands scientists were able to challenge ancient authorities for the first time As a result scientists not only invented new navigational tools to encourage exploration but also created a new approach to studying nature in which observations were more important than reason and authority The story of the relationship between science and exploration analyzed here for the first time is nothing less than the history of modern science and the expanding human universe Space Exploration and Humanity American Astronautical Society, 2010-08-23

A complete history of human endeavors in space this book also moves beyond the traditional topics of human spaceflight space technology and space science to include political social cultural and economic issues and also commercial civilian and military applications In two expertly written volumes Space Exploration and Humanity A Historical Encyclopedia covers all aspects of space flight in all participating nations ranging from the Cold War era beginnings of the space race to the lunar landings and the Apollo Soyuz mission from the Shuttle disasters and the Hubble telescope to Galileo the Mars Rover and the International Space Station The book moves beyond the traditional topics of human spaceflight space technology and space science to include political social cultural and economic issues and also commercial civilian and military applications Produced in conjunction with the History Committee of the American Astronautical Society this work divides its coverage into six sections each beginning with an overview essay followed by an alphabetically organized series of entries on topics such as astrophysics and planetary science civilian and commercial space applications human spaceflight and microgravity science space and society and space technology and engineering Whether investigating a specific issue or event or tracing an overarching historic trend students and general readers will find this an invaluable resource for launching their study of one of humanity's most extraordinary endeavors Soviet Robots in the Solar System Wesley T. Huntress, JR., Mikhail Ya Marov, 2011-06-28 Soviet Robots in the Solar System provides a history of the Soviet robotic lunar and planetary exploration program from its inception with the attempted launch of a lunar impactor on September 23 1958 to the last launch in the Russian national scientific space program in the 20th Century Mars 96 on November 16 1996 This title makes a unique contribution to understanding the scientific and engineering accomplishments of the Soviet Union's robotic space exploration enterprise from its infancy to its demise with the collapse of the Soviet Union The authors provide a comprehensive account of Soviet robotic exploration of the Solar System for both popular space enthusiasts and professionals in the field Technical details and science results are provided and put into an historical and political perspective in a single volume for the first time The book is divided into two parts Part I describes the key players and the key institutions that build and operate the hardware the rockets that provide access to space and the spacecraft that carry out the enterprise Part II is about putting these pieces together to enable space flight and mission campaigns Part II is written in chronological order beginning with the first launches to the Moon Each chapter covers a particular period when specific mission campaigns were undertaken during celestially determined launch windows Each chapter begins with a short overview of the flight missions that occurred during the time period and the political and historical context for the flight mission campaigns including what the Americans were doing at the time The bulk of each chapter is devoted to the scientific and engineering details of that flight campaign The spacecraft and payloads are examined with as much technical detail as is available today the progress is described and a synopsis of the scientific result is given Soviet Space Programs, 1976-80 (with Supplementary Data Through
