The Fourth Dimension in Architecture Mildred Reed Hall, Edward Twitchell Hall, 1975-01-01 This study of how the architecture of a building influences the people who work in it is of interest to architects, behavioralists and management personnel as well as fans of architecture in general The Fourth Dimension in Architecture Mildred Reed Hall, Edward Twitchell Hall, 1995 This study of how the architecture of a building influences the people who work in it is of interest to architects, behavioralists and management personnel as well as fans of architecture in general Mildred Reed Hall and Edward T Hall founded Edward T Hall Associates and together consulted and wrote books and articles in the fields of environmental and urban affairs, international business and intercultural and interpersonal relations The Organizational Complex Reinhold Martin, 2005-09-23 A historical and theoretical analysis of corporate architecture in the United States after the Second World War The Organizational Complex is a historical and theoretical analysis of corporate architecture in the United States after the Second World War Its title refers to the aesthetic and technological extension of the military industrial complex in which architecture, computers and corporations formed a network of objects, images and discourses that realigned social relations and transformed the postwar landscape In depth case studies of architect Eero Saarinen's work for General Motors, IBM and Bell Laboratories and analyses of office buildings designed by Skidmore, Owings, Merrill trace the emergence of a systems based model of organization in architecture in which the modular curtain wall acts as both an organizational device and a carrier of the corporate image Such an image of the corporation as a flexible integrated system is seen to correspond with a humanization of corporate life as corporations decentralize both spatially and administratively Parallel analyses follow the assimilation of cybernetics into aesthetics in the writings of artist and visual theorist Gyorgy Kepes as art merges with techno science in the service of a dynamic new pattern seeing Image and system thus converge in the organizational complex while top down power dissolves into networked pattern based control Architecture as one among many media technologies supplies the patterns, images of organic integration designed to regulate new and unstable human machine assemblages Culture, Communication and Conflict McClure, 2000-08 Western Illinois Regional Studies, 1990 Nexus Network Journal 12,2 Kim Williams, 2013-07-30 Nexus Network Journal 12,2 Architecture and Mathematics Volume 12 National Union Catalog, 1973 Includes entries for maps and atlases The Fourth Dimension in Architecture : the Impact of Building on Behavior Mildred Reed Hall, 1975 Directions, 1975 Architecture in the Fourth Dimension Michael D. Gibson, Stephen Kendall, CIB W104, 2011 The Temporal Dimension of Architecture, 2009 This thesis examines the fourth dimension of architecture the temporal dimension While many social trends show a public yearning for a deeper connection between the built environment and time the general architectural discourse only addresses the issue stylistically Architectural works are evaluated on their newness or heritage respectively based on their degree of novelty or their incorporation of historical imagery This polemic fails to address the human experience of time and its complex phenomena Thus outside of this stylistic discourse can architecture better provide the user with rich sensations of time This thesis examines the works of several architects in order to formulate a design methodology that engages a broader spectrum of this ethereal dimension It proposes that by building in a manner that heightens the awareness of a layered complex model of time one might heighten awareness of time s continuous movement and subsequently generate comfort with its passage Architectural Interventions of the 4th Dimension Sami A.
