The human body is a complex system of organs and tissues that work together to keep us alive. The circulatory system, for example, transports blood throughout the body to deliver oxygen and nutrients.

The respiratory system allows us to breathe in oxygen and breathe out carbon dioxide. The digestive system breaks down food into nutrients that the body can use.

The nervous system controls all the other systems in the body. It sends signals from the brain to the rest of the body to coordinate movement and responses.

The muscular system allows us to move. Muscles contract and relax to create movement. The skeletal system provides support and structure for the body.

THE CIRCULATORY SYSTEM

The circulatory system is responsible for transporting blood throughout the body. It consists of the heart, which pumps blood, and a network of blood vessels.
