The Geopolitics of Europe's Identity N. Parker, 2008-02-04 This book pursues an original perspective on Europe's shifting extent and geopolitical standing how countries and spaces marginal to it impact on Europe as a center A theoretical discussion of borders and margins is developed and set against nine studies of countries regions and identities seen as marginal to Europe

Globalization and Sovereignty John Agnew, 2017-12-15 This provocative and important text offers a new way of thinking about sovereignty both past and present Distinguished geographer John Agnew boldly challenges the widely popular story that state sovereignty is in worldwide eclipse in the face of the overwhelming processes of globalization He argues that this perception relies on ideas about sovereignty and globalization that are both overstated and misleading Agnew contends that sovereignty state control and authority over space is not necessarily neatly contained in state by state territories nor has it ever been so Yet the dominant image of globalization is the replacement of a territorialized world by one of networks and flows that know no borders other than those that define the Earth itself In challenging this image Agnew first traces the ways in which it has become commonplace He then develops a new way of thinking about the geography of effective sovereignty and the various geographical forms in which sovereignty actually operates in the world offering an exciting intellectual framework that breaks with the either/or thinking of state sovereignty versus globalization

Romanticism and the Biopolitics of Modern War Writing Neil Ramsey, 2023-02-23 Military literature was one of the most prevalent forms of writing to appear during the Romantic era yet its genesis in this period is often overlooked Ranging from histories to military policy manuals and a new kind of imaginative war literature in military memoirs and novels modern war writing became a highly influential body of professional writing Drawing on recent research into the entanglements of Romanticism with its wartime trauma and revisiting Michel Foucault's ground breaking work on military discipline and the biopolitics of modern war this book argues that military literature was deeply reliant upon Romantic cultural and literary thought and the era's preoccupations with the body, life and writing. Simultaneously it shows how military literature runs parallel to other strands of Romantic writing forming a sombre shadow against which Romanticism took shape and offering its own exhortations for how to manage the life and vitality of the nation.

Movement and the Ordering of Freedom Hagar Kotef, 2015-04-07 We live within political systems that increasingly seek to control movement organized around both the desire and ability to determine who is permitted to enter what sorts of spaces from gated communities to nation states. In Movement and the Ordering of Freedom Hagar Kotef examines the roles of mobility and immobility in the history of political thought and the structuring of political spaces. Ranging from the writings of Locke, Hobbes and Mill to the sophisticated technologies of control that circumscribe the lives of Palestinians in the Occupied West Bank, this book shows how concepts of freedom, security and violence take form and find justification via regimes of movement. Kotef traces contemporary structures of global immobility and resistance to the schism in liberal political theory which embodied the idea of liberty in movement while simultaneously regulating mobility according to a racial, classed and gendered matrix of exclusions.

Architectural Affects after Deleuze and Guattari Marko Jobst, Hélène Frichot, 2020-12-27 Architectural Affects after Deleuze and Guattari is the first sustained survey into ways of theorising affect in architecture. It reflects on the legacy and influence of Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari in the uptake of affect in architectural discourse and practice and stresses the importance of the political in discussions of affect. It is a timely antidote to an enduring fixation on architectural phenomenology in the field. The contributors offer a variety of approaches to the challenges presented in discussing the relation between affect and architecture and how this is contextualised in the broader field of affect studies. Ranging from evaluations of architectural and urban productions and practices to inquiries into architectural experience to modes of affective inquiry in education to experimental affective writing, each contribution to this seminal volume suggests ways of developing a more sustained approach to a crucial thematic domain. The volume will be of use to students at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels, researchers, theorists and historians of architecture and related urban and spatial disciplines, the fields of social science and cultural theory and to philosophy in particular, the studies of Deleuze and Guattari and Baruch Spinoza.
