Spatial Technology And Archaeology The Archeological Applications Of Gis:

Spatial Technology and Archaeology David Wheatley, Mark Gillings, 2003-09-02 Geographical Information Systems GIS and related spatial technologies have a new and powerful role to play in archaeological interpretation Beginning with a conceptual approach to the representation of space adopted by GIS this book examines spatial databases the acquisition and compilation of data the analytical compilation of data the analytical functionality of GIS and the creation and utilization of critical foundation data layers such as the Digital Elevation Model DEM The ways in which GIS can most usefully facilitate archaeological analysis and interpretation are then explored particularly as a tool for the management of archaeological resources Formal analysis of archaeological material and the use of trend surface contouring and interpolation procedures are considered along with predictive modeling analysis of visibility and intervisibility Finally there is a discussion of leading edge issues including three dimensional GIS object oriented GIS the relationship between GIS and Virtual Reality technologies and the integration of GIS with distributed systems and the Internet The approach is light and technical detail is kept to a minimum recognizing that most readers are simply interested in using GIS effectively The text is carefully illustrated with worked case studies using archaeological data Spatial Technology and Archaeology provides a single reference source for archaeologists students professionals and academics in archaeology as well as those in anthropology and related disciplines

Spatial Technology and Archaeology David Wheatley, Computational Approaches to Archaeological Spaces Andrew Bevan, Mark Lake, 2016-06-16 This volume of original chapters written by experts in the field offers a snapshot of how historical built spaces past cultural landscapes and archaeological distributions are currently being explored through computational social science It focuses on the continuing importance of spatial and spatio temporal pattern recognition in the archaeological record considers more wholly model based approaches that fix ideas and build theory and addresses those applications where situated human experience and perception are a core interest Reflecting the changes in computational technology over the past decade the authors bring in examples from historic and prehistoric sites in Europe Asia and the Americas to demonstrate the variety of applications available to the contemporary researcher

Using Computers in Archaeology Gary R. Lock, 2003 This is the first comprehensive review of computer applications in archaeology from the archaeologist s perspective The book deals with all aspects of the discipline from survey and excavation to museums and education

Geospatial Technology and the Role of Location in Science Henk J. Scholten, Rob Velde, Niels van Manen, 2009-07-06 Globalisation has not led to the death of geography Intensified relations between communities in different parts of the world have only highlighted the need for understanding and managing phenomena on a variety of geographic scales From global warming to credit crunch and from epidemics to terrorism causes and solutions are sought on local regional national as well as inter continental levels With the advent of Geospatial Technology scholars policymakers and entrepreneurs have valuable tools in hand to proceed This book offers the first systematic account of the science behind this mental and technological revolution Tracing the adoption and dissemination of Geospatial Technology in a range of disciplines it examines the impact this technology has had and is likely to have on the explanation of spatial behaviour phenomena and processes At the same time stressing innovative usage it explores scientific contributions to technology advancement Geographical Information Systems in Archaeology James Conolly, Mark Lake, 2006-05-04 Geographical Information Systems has moved from the domain of the computer specialist into the wider archaeological community providing it with an exciting new research method This clearly written but rigorous book provides a comprehensive guide to that use Topics covered include the theoretical context and the basics of GIS data acquisition including database design interpolation of elevation models exploratory data analysis including spatial queries statistical spatial analysis map algebra spatial operations including the calculation of slope and aspect filtering and erosion modeling methods for analysing regions visibility analysis network analysis including hydrological modeling the production of high quality output for paper and electronic publication and the use and production of metadata Offering an extensive range of archaeological examples it is an invaluable source of practical information for all archaeologists whether engaged in cultural resource management or academic research This is essential reading for both the novice and the advanced user Earth Observation, Remote

Sensing and Geoscientific Ground Investigations for Archaeological and Heritage Research Deodato Tapete, 2019-07-26 This book collects 15 papers written by renowned scholars from across the globe that showcase the forefront research in Earth observation EO remote sensing RS and geoscientific ground investigations to study archaeological records and cultural heritage Archaeologists anthropologists geographers remote sensing and archaeometry experts share their methodologies relying on a wealth of techniques and data including but not limited to very high resolution satellite images from optical and radar space borne sensors air borne surveys geographic information systems GIS archaeological fieldwork and historical maps A couple of the contributions highlight the value of noninvasive and nondestructive laboratory analyses e g neutron diffraction to reconstruct ancient manufacturing technologies and of geological ground investigations to corroborate hypotheses of historical events that shaped cultural landscapes Case studies encompass famous UNESCO World Heritage Sites e g the Nasca Lines in Peru remote and yet to discover archaeological areas in tropical forests in central America European countries south Asian changing landscapes and environments which are arid nowadays but were probably full of woody vegetation in the past Finally the reader can learn about the state of the art of education initiatives to train site managers in the use of space technologies in support of their activities and can understand the legal aspects involved in the application of EO and RS to address current challenges of African heritage preservation

Gli Atti curati da Julian Bogdani e Stefano Costa comprendono 21 articoli che ben testimoniano il successo e la vitalità dell'iniziativa nata nel 2006 cui si è più volte dato spazio nelle pagine della rivista. La seconda parte del volume che raccoglie 14 contributi è stata curata da Carlo Citter e Agostino Sotgia ed è dedicata agli Atti della Sessione speciale Modelling the Landscape From Prediction to Postdiction della settima edizione della Landscape Archaeology Conference I a i Romania 10-15 September 2022. Si tratta di un tema dedicato all'uso dei modelli per lo studio dei paesaggi antichi considerato sia attraverso l'approccio predittivo tradizionale per cui in uso dagli anni Novanta sia attraverso quello postdittivo che i curatori definiscono più sperimentale.

Research Methods for History Simon Gunn, 2011-11-30. The first guide to the sources, techniques and concepts needed for effective historical research. While historians have become increasingly sensitive to social and cultural theory since the 1980s, the actual methods by which research is carried out in History have been largely taken for granted. Research Methods for History encourages those researching the past to think creatively about the wide range of methods currently in use to understand how these methods are used and what historical insights they can provide. The book covers sources and methods that are well established in History such as archival research together with those that are less widely known. The themes of the different chapters have been selected to reflect recent trends in the subject. Even with more established methods, however, the aim is to present new insights and perspectives and to open researchers' minds to new methodological possibilities.

Enhancing the City. Giovanni Maciocco, Silvia Serreli, 2009-09-30. Departing from a survey on the post-modern landscapes of tourism, this book explores the transformations the city has undergone and the way it has become a simulacrum offered to tourists, spectacularised with the aim of increasing its capacity for attraction. The experiences dealt with in the papers of authors belonging to different disciplinary fields emphasise the city's tendencies to create stage-set contexts of the private type: be it historic quarters, theme parks or hypermarkets. Issues like aestheticisation, thematisation and genericity are dealt with conceptual categories that highlight the weak resistance cities put up against the rules of the leisure industry and, more generally speaking, the consumer economy. The book inquires into the capacity of the urban and territorial project to construct a perspective for a public dimension of space. This is linked with the ethical action of the project involving an active relationship with places and a capacity to understand the dynamics of different urban populations. In this sense, capacity for innovation and creativity can contribute to transforming islands of leisure into places of the city and consumers into citizens.

Marking Place Jonathan Last, 2022-01-11. Much archaeological work is concerned with identifying gaps in our knowledge and developing strategies for addressing them; we perhaps spend less time thinking about how research should proceed when we already know, relatively speaking, quite a lot. The program of dating causewayed enclosures in southern Britain that was published in 2011 as Gathering Time (Oxbow Books) gave us a new, more precise chronology for many individual sites as well as for enclosures as a whole and as a consequence a far better sense of their significance and place in the story of the British Early Neolithic. Arguably causewayed enclosures are now the best understood type of Neolithic monument. Yet work continues and in the last few years new discoveries have been made, older excavations published and further work undertaken on well known sites. Viewing this research within the new framework for these monuments allows us to assess where our understanding of enclosures has got to and where the focus of future research should lie. This volume originates from a Neolithic Studies Group meeting held in November 2019 which aimed firstly to showcase and explore the wide range of current work on causewayed enclosures and related sites and secondly to assess what we still want to know about these sites in light of the monumental achievement of Gathering Time. The papers collected here comprise reports on recent development led fieldwork, academic research and community projects and the volume concludes with a reflection by the authors of Gathering Time.

Animal Husbandry in Ancient Israel Aharon Sasson, 2016-04-08. Animals have been used to human advantage for thousands of years. Animal Husbandry in Ancient Israel presents an analysis of caprines and cattle husbandry in the Southern Levantine Bronze and Iron Age. The book employs key methodological approaches: comparative analysis, taphonomy, Geographic Information System spatial analysis and ethnographic studies to challenge prevalent views on the Southern Levantine ancient economy. Animal Husbandry in Ancient Israel argues that the key concern of nomadic rural and urban populations was survival; the common household maintained a self-sufficient economy rather than profit specialization or trade. The book will be of value to all those interested in the dynamic relationship between humans and animals in ancient Israel.

Archaeology Hannah Cobb, Kevin Greene, Tom Moore, 2024-03-19. This fully updated sixth edition of a classic classroom text is essential reading for core courses in archaeology. Archaeology: An Introduction explains how the subject emerged from an amateur pursuit in the eighteenth century into a serious discipline and explores changing trends in interpretation in recent decades. The authors convey the excitement of archaeology while helping readers to evaluate new discoveries by explaining the methods and theories that lie behind them. In addition to drawing upon examples and case studies from many regions of the world and periods of the past, the book incorporates the authors' own fieldwork research and teaching. It continues to include key reference and further reading sections to help new readers find their way through the ever-expanding range of archaeological publications and online sources, as well as colour illustrations and boxed topic sections to increase comprehension. Serving as an accessible and lucid textbook and engaging students with contemporary issues, this book is designed to support students studying Archaeology at an introductory level. New to the sixth edition: Inclusion of the latest survey and imaging techniques such as the use of drones and extended reality. Updated material on developments in dating, DNA analysis, isotopes and population movement, including consideration of the ethical considerations of these techniques. Coverage of new developments in archaeological theory such as the material turn, ontological turn and work on issues of equality, diversity and inclusion. A whole new chapter covering archaeology in the present including new sections on heritage and public archaeology and an updated consideration of archaeology's relationship with the climate crisis A revised glossary with over 200 new additions or updates

Human Remains: Another Dimension Tim Thompson, David Errickson, 2017-02-16 Human Remains Another Dimension The Application of 3D Imaging in the Funerary Context brings together scattered literature on the topic assimilating disparate pieces that relate to the novel use of non-invasive three-dimensional imaging techniques in the forensic context All chapters are written by specialists in the field who use these types of imaging techniques within their research bringing an engaging and comprehensive view that demonstrates the current use of 3D non-invasive imaging techniques using case studies In addition the advantages for using such methods their current limitations and possible solutions are also reviewed Includes three-dimensional imaging techniques presented from a forensics point of view Written by well-renowned specialists in the field Assimilates disparate pieces that relate to the novel use of non-invasive three-dimensional imaging techniques
