Dennis, 1989      Godey's Lady's Book, 1854      Middle Passages and the Healing Place of History Elizabeth Brown-Guillory, 2006 Middle Passages and the Healing Place of History Migration and Identity in Black Women's Literature brings together a series of essays addressing black women's fragmented identities and quests for wholeness. The individual essays concern culturally specific experiences of blacks in select African countries, England, the Caribbean, the United States, and Canada. They examine identity struggles by establishing the Middle Passage as the first site of identity rupture and the subsequent break from cultural and historical moorings. In most cases, the authors themselves have migrated from their places of origin to new spaces that present challenges. Their narratives replicate the displacement engendered by their own experiences of living with the complexities of diasporic existence. Their female characters, many of whom participate in multiple border crossings, work to define themselves within a hostile environment. In nearly every essay, the female characters struggle against multiple yokes of oppression, giving voice to what it means to be black, female, poor, old, and alone. The subjects' migrations and journeys are analyzed as attempts to heal the displacement, both physical and psychological, that results from dislocation and relocation from the homeland, imagined variously as Africa. This volume reveals that black women across the globe share a common ground fraught with struggles, but the narratives bear out that these women are not easily divided and that they stand upon each other's shoulders, dispensing healing balms. Black women's history and herstory commingle the trauma that ensued when Africans were loaded onto ships in chains; this continues to haunt black women and men too wherever they find themselves in this present moment of the Diaspora.      Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, 1992      Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences United States. However, a series of small but inevitable pinpricks, lovelessness, and ambivalent relationships can also ruin a person. A traumatic event touches and invades a person unspeakably deeply. This book attempts to put into words the psychic abyss of trauma which the victim experiences and helps to detect and understand possible traumatization. It wants to encourage traumatized people and their counsellors to choose the path of small steps out of the trauma. In this way, previously traumatized people can rediscover their dignity. The path leads from an existence dictated by the outside world to a self-determined life. Claudia Mari le Wulf studied educational

The Oxford Handbook of Economic Imperialism Zak Cope, Immanuel Ness, 2022 Including thirty four chapters written by academics and experts in the field of international political economy The Oxford Handbook of Economic Imperialism examines the history of economic imperialism from the early modern age to the present The Handbook demonstrates the persistence of economic imperialism in today's postcolonial world and the enduring control wielded by great powers even after the end of formal empire Moreover the Handbook reveals how emerging powers are expanding economic control in new geographic and geopolitical contexts and highlights the significance of economic imperialism in the structures relations processes and ideas that sustain poverty and conflict worldwide The Moral Economies of American Authorship Susan M. Ryan (Ph. D.), 2016 The Moral Economies of American Authorship argues that the moral character of authors became a kind of literary property within mid nineteenth century America's expanding print marketplace shaping the construction promotion and reception of texts as well as of literary reputations Using a wide range of printed materials prefaces dedications and other paratexts as well as book reviews advertisements and editorials that appeared in the era's magazines and newspapers The Moral Economies of American Authorship recovers and analyzes the circulation of authors moral currency attending not only to the marketing of apparently ironclad status but also to the period's not infrequent author scandals and ensuing attempts at recuperation These preoccupations prove to be more than a historical curiosity they prefigure the complex if often disavowed interdependence of authorial character and literary value in contemporary scholarship and pedagogy Combining broad investigations into the marketing and reception of books with case studies that analyze the construction and repair of particular authors reputations e.g. James Fenimore Cooper Mary Prince Elizabeth Keckley Frederick Douglass Harriet Beecher Stowe and E D E N Southworth the book constructs a genealogy of the field's investments in and uses of authorial character In the nineteenth century's deployment of moral character as a signal element in the marketing reception and canonization of books and authors we see how biography both vexed and created literary status adumbrating our own preoccupations while demonstrating how malleable and how recuperable moral authority could be Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Appropriations United States.
