Social Life Of Things Commodities In Cultural Perspective:

The Social Life of Things Arjun Appadurai, 1988-01-29 Three of the papers were presented to the Ethnohistory Workshop at the University of Pennsylvania during 1983-84 the others were presented at a Symposium on the Relationship between Commodities and Culture held May 23-25 1984 in Philadelphia Includes bibliographies and index The Social Life of Things Arjun Appadurai, 2000 Contemporary Archaeology in Theory Robert W. Preucel, Stephen A. Mrozowski, 2010-05-10 The second edition of Contemporary Archaeology in Theory: The New Pragmatism has been thoroughly updated and revised and features top scholars who redefine the theoretical and political agendas of the field and challenge the usual distinctions between time-space processes and people. Defines the relevance of archaeology and the social sciences more generally to the modern world. Challenges the traditional boundaries between prehistoric and historical archaeologies. Discusses how archaeology articulates such contemporary topics and issues as landscape and nature's agency, meaning and practice, sexuality, embodiment and personhood, race, class and ethnicity, materiality, memory and historical silence, colonialism, nationalism and empire, heritage, patrimony and social justice, media, museums and publics. Examines the influence of American pragmatism on archaeology. Offers 32 new chapters by leading archaeologists and cultural anthropologists. Commodification Wim M. J. van Binsbergen, Peter Geschiere, 2005 The empirically rich and analytically provocative contributions to this volume focus on Africa and on the process through which commodities come into being. Commodification is shown to be a powerful tool towards understanding the modern world, especially South economies and South-North interactions today. It greatly illuminates the three central concepts: things, agency and identities and thus is conducive to the much-needed dialogue between anthropology and economics. In the book, some of the original contributors of Arjun Appadurai's edited collection from 1986 The Social Life of Things: Commodities in Cultural Perspective meet with today's prominent names in the field: Jean John Comaroff, Paul Jennifer Alexander, R. Dilley, M. Rowlands and award-winning N. Rose Hunt and with scholars of the next generation: B. Weiss, R. van Dijk, J. Roitman, J. Leach and I. Stengs. Together with W. van Binsbergen and P. Geschiere, this team explores the dynamics of commodification. Material Culture Victor Buchli, 2004 Publisher description Social Movements, Cultural Memory and Digital Media Samuel Merrill, Emily Keightley, Priska Daphi, 2020-02-20 This collected volume is the first to study the interface between contemporary social movements, cultural memory and digital media. Establishing the digital memory work practices of social movements as an important area of research, it reveals how activists use digital media to lay claim to, circulate and curate cultural memories. Interdisciplinary in scope, its contributors address mobilizations of mediated remembrance in the USA, Germany, Sweden, Italy, India, Argentina, the UK and Russia. On Value and Valuation John Frow, 2025-11-14 On Value and Valuation asks whether the category of economic value remains theoretically viable, how value is formed and how it should be understood. It explores the interlinkages between economic value and social and cultural values. On the one hand, the book draws on anthropological and sociological accounts of the evaluative frameworks within which things take on their social meanings on the other it explores and critiques the Marxist account of the formation of value in capitalist production Its aim is to reconcile these two conceptions and it does so by arguing that economic value is not a property of goods and services but is formed in specific institutions of valuation It analyses new sources of value generated in markets in derivatives in carbon credits and ecosystem services in expert systems and in new digital entities and seeks to deepen our understanding of value as a force driven by a web of social relations of accumulation that channel power and coercion This book will be of interest to students of heterodox economics and Marxist theory as well as to those with a wider concern with questions of social and economic value

Consumption: Disciplinary approaches to consumption Daniel Miller, 2001 A Cultural History of the Violin in Nineteenth-Century London Tom Wilder, 2025-03-18 Examines the violin's evolution as not just instrument but valued objet d'art through the eyes of musicians collectors makers dealers connoisseurs journalists auctioneers and traders The nineteenth century saw developments in the composition performance and reception of classical music that led to an unprecedented shift in how the violin was appreciated from humble craft object to one of art A utilitarian tool defined in 1800 by its tonal properties became by century's end an expensive objet d'art classified almost exclusively in terms of physical visible properties In London's vibrant musical life Cremonese violins acquired special significance and in turn helped shape the beliefs knowledge and behaviour of the disparate actors connected to the instrument musicians collectors makers dealers connoisseurs journalists auctioneers and traders By 1880 London had supplanted Paris as the centre of the international violin trade One firm in particular W E Hill Sons emerged as a major presence in both the local musical community and the global violin market The Hills were makers restorers dealers and connoisseurs They were also writers collectors and melomaniacs deeply implicated in London's instrument auction and exhibition scene The mutually reinforcing nature of these activities which they consciously turned to account for commercial reasons bear witness to events and developments earlier in the century Their story illuminates this first study of the violin's nineteenth century journey from simple musical instrument to mystified work of art Collecting Art in the Italian Renaissance Court Leah R. Clark, 2018-06-28 In this book Leah R Clark examines collecting practices across the Italian Renaissance court exploring the circulation exchange collection and display of objects Rather than focusing on patronage strategies or the political power of individual collectors she uses the objects themselves to elucidate the dynamic relationships formed through their exchange Her study brings forward the mechanisms that structured relations within the court and most importantly also with individuals representations and spaces outside the court The volume examines the courts of Italy through the wide variety of objects statues paintings jewellery furniture and heraldry that were valued for their subject matter material forms histories and social functions As Clark shows the late fifteenth century Italian court can be located not only in the body of the prince but also in the objects that constituted symbolic practices initiated political dialogues caused rifts created memories and formed associations Theory in Social and Cultural Anthropology R. Jon McGee, Richard L. Warms, 2013-08-28 Social and cultural anthropology and archaeology are rich subjects with deep connections in the social and physical sciences Over the past 150 years the subject matter and different theoretical perspectives have expanded so greatly that no single individual can command all of it Consequently both advanced students and professionals may be confronted with theoretical positions and names of theorists with whom they are only partially familiar if they have heard of them at all Students in particular are likely to turn to the web to find quick background information on theorists and theories However most web based information is inaccurate and or lacks depth Students and professionals need a source to provide a quick overview of a particular theory and theorist with just the basics the who what where how and why In response SAGE Reference is publishing the two volume Theory in Social and Cultural Anthropology An Encyclopedia Features Benefits Two volumes containing approximately 335 signed entries provide users with the most authoritative and thorough reference resource available on anthropology theory both in terms of breadth and depth of coverage To ease navigation between and among related entries a Reader's Guide groups entries thematically and each entry is followed by Cross References In the electronic version the Reader's Guide combines with the Cross References and a detailed Index to provide robust search and browse capabilities An appendix with a Chronology of Anthropology Theory allows students to easily chart directions and trends in thought and theory from early times to the present Suggestions for Further Reading at the end of each entry and a Master Bibliography at the end guide readers to sources for more detailed research and discussion

Elvis Culture Erika Doss, 1999 Doss fine arts and American studies U of Colorado Boulder examines the image of Elvis from a number of perspectives including as a religious icon honored in household shrines as a sexual fantasy for women and men as an inspiration for impersonators as a not altogether positive emblem of whiteness for many blacks and as a commodity to be protected by Elvis Presley Enterprises Bandw illustrations Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

Memory Work Barbara J. Mills, William H. Walker, 2008-07 Memory making is a social practice that links people and things together across time and space and ultimately has material consequences The intersection of matter and social practice becomes archaeologically visible through the deposits created during social activities Memories are made not just experienced and their material traces allow us to understand the materiality of these practices Indeed materiality is not just material culture repackaged Instead it is about the interaction of humans and materials within a set of cultural relationships In this book the authors focus on a set of case studies that illustrate how social memories were made through repeated patterned and engaged social practices Memory work also refers to the interpretive activities scholars perform when studying social memory The contributors to this volume share a common goal to map out the different ways in which to study social memories in past societies programmatically and tangibly

Consumption Daniel Miller, 2001 Indian Folklore Research Journal, 2002 Seeing Nature Through Gender Virginia Scharff, 2003 Environmental history has traditionally told the story of Man and Nature Scholars have too frequently overlooked the ways in which their predominantly male subjects have themselves been shaped by gender. Seeing Nature through Gender here reintroduces gender as a meaningful category of analysis for environmental history showing how women's actions, desires, and choices have shaped the world and seeing men as gendered actors as well. In thirteen essays that show how gendered ideas have shaped the ways in which people have represented, experienced, and consumed their world, Virginia Scharff and her coauthors explore interactions between gender and environment in history. Ranging from colonial borderlands to transnational boundaries, from mountaintop to marketplace, they focus on historical representations of humans and nature, on questions about consumption, on environmental politics, and on the complex reciprocal relations among human bodies and changing landscapes. They also challenge the ecofeminist position by challenging the notion that men and women are essentially different creatures with biologically different destinies. Each article shows how a person or group of people in history have understood nature in gendered terms and acted accordingly, often with dire consequences for other people and organisms. Here are considerations of the ways we study sexuality among birds, of William Byrd's masking sexual encounters in his account of an eighteenth-century expedition, of how the ecology of fire in a changing built environment has reshaped firefighters' own gendered identities. Some are playful, as in a piece on the evolution of snow bunnies to shred bunnies. Others are dead serious, as in a chilling portrait of how endocrine disruptors are reinventing humans, animals, and water systems from the cellular level out. Aiding and adding significantly to the enterprise of environmental history, Seeing Nature through Gender bridges gender history and environmental history in unexpected ways to show us how the natural world can remake the gendered patterns we've engraved on ourselves and on the planet. Brilliant Effects Marcia R. Pointon, 2009. Pointon examines how small-scale and valuable artefacts have figured in systems of belief and in political and social practice in Europe since the Renaissance. Contributions to Indian Sociology, 2003. Cultures and Globalization Helmut K. Anheier, Christopher Alan Waterman, Yudhishtir Raj Isar, 2010-02-11. Volume 3 of the Cultures Globalization series. Creativity and Innovations explores the interactions between globalization and the forms of cultural expression that are their basic resource. Bringing together over 25 high-profile authors from around the world, this volume addresses such questions as: What impacts does globalization have on cultural creativity and innovation? How is the evolving world map of creativity related to the drivers and patterns of globalization? What are the relationships between creative acts, clusters, genres, or institutions and cultural diversity? Euripideanism Kristi Michelle Wilson, 1999.
