State Power And Social Forces Domination And Transformation In The Third World:

State Power and Social Forces Joel S. Migdal, 2007 Authoritarian Origins of Democratic Party Systems in Africa Rachel Beatty Riedl, 2014-02-13 Why have seemingly similar African countries developed very different forms of democratic party systems Despite virtually ubiquitous conditions that are assumed to be challenging to democracy low levels of economic development high ethnic heterogeneity and weak state capacity nearly two dozen African countries have maintained democratic competition since the early 1990s Yet the forms of party system competition vary greatly from highly stable nationally organized well institutionalized party systems to incredibly volatile particularistic parties in systems with low institutionalization To explain their divergent development Rachel Beatty Riedl points to earlier authoritarian strategies to consolidate support and maintain power The initial stages of democratic opening provide an opportunity for authoritarian incumbents to attempt to shape the rules of the new multiparty system in their own interests but their power to do so depends on the extent of local support built up over time Departures from Post-colonial Authoritarianism Elke Grawert, 2009 This study sends the reader on an exciting journey into social and political life in Africa It gives space to the voices of Tanzanian villagers rural associations branches of political parties and local government officers and their views of socio economic and political change during the 1990s This authentic picture is combined with a thorough sociological and political economy analysis showing the dynamics in the relations between state components and social forces in the context of neo liberal globalization The book is not only attractive as a country case study It contains a deep analysis of the paradigmatic shift of African political systems from post colonial rule to governance in response to neo liberalism and provides new insights in processes of political transformation Imagining Macedonia in the Age of Empire Denis Š. Ljuljanović, 2023 During the tumultuous age of empire Ottoman Macedonia became a blank canvas onto which Great Powers and neighboring states projected their aspirations grievances ambitions and state building endeavors This manuscript aims to elucidate these constructs and imaginaries employing a theoretical framework encompassing entangled history post colonial theory and subaltern studies It will examine both inter state and local examples to shed light on the multifaceted nature of this complex issue Wards of Hanoi David Wee Hock Koh, 2006 Analyses state society interaction at the ward level of Hanoi and shows that at that level the mediation space results from the inefficient party state as well as from the social dimensions that party state officials operate when they try to enforce the rule of the one party state Civilization and the Chinese Body Politic Yongnian Zheng, 2022-11-22 In this important and hugely ambitious book one of the world's leading political scientists working on China demonstrates how Western views of China are flawed because the long tradition of Western scholarship studying China views China from the Western philosophical and intellectual perspective rather than viewing China on its own terms through the lens of China's own long established and reputable philosophical and intellectual tradition Providing a deep analysis of Western scholarship on China including work from Leibniz to Marx to Weber and then to Wittfogel and a thorough account of the evolution of China's own thinking about governance as expressed in the practices of successive Chinese dynasties the book goes on to examine how the current Chinese body politic fits with and is the natural outcome of China's own long well thought through and well practiced intellectual consideration of what the nature of civilized governance should be By focusing on philosophical and intellectual approaches rather than on theoretical or methodological ones the book shows how the huge and increasing disconnect between non Chinese views of China and Chinese ones has come about

The Decentralization of Forest Governance Moira Moeliono, 2012 This book provides an excellent overview of more than a decade of transformation in a forest landscape where the interests of local people extractive industries and globally important biodiversity are in conflict The studies assembled here teach us that plans and strategies are fine but in the real world of the forest frontier conservation must be based upon negotiation social learning and an ability to muddle through

Jeffrey Sayer senior scientific adviser Forest Conservation Programme IUCN International Union for of Nature The devolution of control over the world's forests from national or state and provincial level governments to local control is an ongoing global trend that deeply affects all aspects of forest management conservation of biodiversity control over resources wealth distribution and livelihoods This powerful new book from leading experts provides an in depth account of how trends towards increased local governance are shifting control over natural resource management from the state to local societies and the implications of this control for social justice and the environment The book is based on ten years of work by a team of researchers in Malinau Indonesian Borneo one of the world's richest forest areas The first part of the book sets the larger context of decentralization's impact on power struggles between the state and society The authors then cover in detail how the devolution process has occurred in Malinau the policy context struggles and conflicts and how Malinau has organized itself The third part of the book looks at the broader issues of property relations conflict local governance and political participation associated with decentralization in Malinau Importantly it draws out the salient points for other international contexts including the important determination that local political alliances especially among ethnic minorities are taking on greater prominence and creating new opportunities to influence forest policy in the world's richest forests from the ground up. This is top level research for academics and professionals working on forestry natural resource management policy and resource economics worldwide. Published with CIFOR.
