Some Problems of Development Financing M. Durdag,2012-12-06 This study originally a Ph D thesis accepted in the University of Bir mingham is intended to present a critical analysis of some important problems of development financing The boundaries of our subject mat ter will be defined as follows First of all the discussion will be confined to the problems of a particular country Turkey during a particular period of time the period of the First Five Year Development Plan of 1963 67 Secondly the problems to be discussed will be chosen from among those concerning the saving aspect of development financing It has now become a widely used method in the literature to assume a dichotomy between the saving and investing aspects of the process of development financing Thirdly even within the saving aspect of development financing no claim will be made to comprehensiveness Preference will be given to analyzing in depth a few main questions rather than touching upon everything con cerning our subject The study begins with an introduction to the social and economic framework of Turkey in Chapter 1 in which emphasis is given to factors that bear upon the problems to be discussed in the following chapters

The Political and Economic Development of Modern Turkey William Hale,2023-05-31 This book outlines the evolution of policy and the course of Turkey s economic development since the foundation of Turkey s republic in 1923 Turkey is a fast developing country with over the last seventy years a radically transformed economic and social structure The concept of planned development was first applied as long as fifty years ago long before other such approaches in the region Furthermore Turkey s post war economic development has proceeded in a rare environment of a predominantly liberal competitive political system This book is the first comprehensive and up to date study of Turkish economic development and its relationship to political change First published in 1981

Global Development Sara Lorenzini,2022-07-26 In the Cold War development was a catchphrase that came to signify progress modernity and economic growth Development aid was closely aligned with the security concerns of the great powers for whom infrastructure and development projects were ideological tools for conquering hearts and minds around the globe from Europe and Africa to Asia and Latin America In this sweeping and incisive book Sara Lorenzini provides a global history of development drawing on a wealth of archival evidence to offer a panoramic and multifaceted portrait of a Cold War phenomenon that transformed the modern world Taking readers from the aftermath of the Second World War to the tearing down of the Berlin Wall Lorenzini shows how development projects altered local realities transnational interactions and even ideas about development itself She shines new light on the international organizations behind these projects examining their strategies and priorities and assessing the actual results on the ground and she also gives voice to the recipients of development aid Lorenzini shows how the Cold War shaped the global ambitions of development on both sides of the Iron Curtain and how international organizations promoted an unrealistically harmonious vision of development that did not reflect local and international differences An unparalleled journey into the political intellectual and economic history of the twentieth century this book presents a global perspective on Cold War development demonstrating how its impacts are still being felt today

Employment and Growth: Issues for the 1980s A. Steinherr, D. Weiserbs, 2012-12-06 The papers published in this book were presented and discussed on occasion of the celebration of Albert Kervyn de Lettenhove's retirement on 29-30 May 1986 This conference was made feasible through the participation of a large audience and the generous financial support of the Commission of the European Communities The sessions were organised under three topics as are the papers in this book The first session chaired by Massimo Russo Director General Commission of the European Communities was devoted to an evaluation of past and current debates of central macro economic problems those of growth and business cycle stabilization The second session chaired by Jean Godeaux Governor of Belgium's National Bank looked at innovations in the conduct of monetary policy and the opportunities offered and problems associated with innovations in financial markets The last session chaired by Baron Michel Woitrin formerly Professor of Economics and Head Administrator of the Universite Catholique de Louvain contains several empirical analyses and policy proposals I 30 years ago growth theory was a very promising research field at the center of macroeconomics and macroeconomics was at the center of economics Robert Solow one of the major contributors to growth theory reexamines the pertinence of that body of theory to problems of our times A Steinherr and D Weiserbs eds Employment and Growth Issues for the 1980s ISBN 90 247 3514 9 Socialism: Institutional,

Philosophical and Economic Issues S. Pejovich, 2012-12-06 It was Lenin's genius to recognize the importance of socialist system with all the trappings of embellishing the democracy If the people want a constitution give them one and even include the bill of rights If they want a parliament give them that too And a system of courts If they want a federal system create that myth as well Above all let them have electricity for the act of voting is what the common man most clearly associates with democracy Give them all these but make sure that they have no effect on how things are run G Warren Nutter Most research by Western scholars has emphasized macroeconomics and to a considerable extent still does as the method of analysis and growth rates as a standard for evaluating the performance of different economies In the early 1960s Nutter raised questions about the reported growth rates in socialist states the importance of growth policies for human welfare and the ability of macroeconomists to enhance our understanding of social and economic processes In his work Nutter used the standard price theory adjusted to incorporate the incentive effects of property rights in resources He was castigated for defying the tradition of wisdom Not surprisingly history has validated Nutter's theoretical framework and his conclusions

Stabilization and Privatization in Poland K. Poznanski, 2012-12-06 Stabilization and Privatization An Economic Evaluation of the Shock Therapy Program is the first comprehensive account of Poland's economic transition since mid 1989 Monetary stabilization trade liberalization including convertibility and privatization of state capital assets are discussed Sources of economic recession which have accompanied the post 1989 transition are analyzed The role of demand side factors is monetary contraction is weighed against that of supply side factors i.e credit availability The prevailing view is that the recession has been supply type rather than demand type Economic performance has been impacted by the lack of a proper institutional framework e.g a segmented banking sector diluted property rights Arguments in favor of evolutionary reforms and market enhancing measures are presented Stabilization and Privatization examines the main components of Poland's shock therapy program implemented in 1990 Post shock recession lasting at least through 1992 is examined to establish whether a sharp decline in output was caused by excessive demand contraction or lack of accommodating credit policies The merits of an evolutionary approach and a more proactive state are debated

The Privatization Process in East-Central Europe Michal Mejstřík, 2012-12-06 It is beyond any doubt that East Central European countries such as Czech Republic Hungary Poland and Slovakia has dramatically changed its shape through its radical transition from centrally planned to the market economies in last 7 years Many economists divide the process of economic transformation into areas of Stabilization Liberalization and Privatization Restructuring The traditional view is that stabilization and liberalization can be achieved rather quickly by balancing budgets balance of payments tightening money supply freeing prices and liberalizing trade but that the area of privatization is one that could be moved to the future and will require much more time Until 1991 none of the post communist nations except former East Germany which had a large decree of support from West Germany had succeeded in privatizing large numbers of enterprises even though more than two years had passed since the changes in government in these nations The privatization has been however seen as an extremely important part of reform package together with stabilization and liberalization especially in the Czech Republic from the very beginning The Czechs originally as a part of the Czechoslovak Federal Republic embarked on an unprecedented path that should have lead not only to stabilization and liberalization but also to very rapid mass privatization of its sector of large enterprises that have dominated its economy to an extreme extent

Hyperinflation and Stabilization in Postsocialist Economies G.W Kolodko, Danuta

Gotz-Kozierkiewicz, Elz. Skrzyszewska-Paczek, 2012-12-06 One would think states and peoples have had so many bad experiences with inflation that politicians at the helm of these states would do everything within their power to avoid inflation and in particular its very intensive shape i.e hyperinflation However this has not been the case After the big inflations of the twenties and the post war inflations of the forties we still witness intensive economically socially and politically extremely painful inflationary processes And the eighties will be particularly engraved in history as a period in which the inflation has assumed an exceptionally dynamic character with respect to some countries This regards in the first place Latin America but not exclusively Not without reason as will be of particular intensity has also affected shown in this book inflation countries which according to the passed economic doctrine were supposed to be completely immune from this economic illness Most generally the inflation can be assumed to be a uniform phenomenon which in each case can be described by a single universal definition while being divided into a number of forms and types distinguishable according to their original and secondary sources their mechanisms the ways of their manifestation as well as to their effects and the methods of counteracting them

Economic Analysis of Institutions and Systems S. Pejovich, 2012-12-06 Economic Analysis of Institutions and Systems aims to redirect the study of what was previously referred to as comparative economic systems toward analysis of the history and development of institutions and the effects of alternative institutional arrangements on economic behavior To this end the book internalizes into a theoretical framework i the effects of alternative institutions on the costs of transactions and incentive structures ii the effects of the costs of transactions and incentives on economic behavior and iii the evidence for refutable implications of those effects In the process it provides the logical premises for various institutions from which refutable implications can be deduced

Preferences and Democracy Alb. Breton, P. Galeotti, P. Salmon, R. Wintrobe, 2012-12-06 I Until about a dozen years ago the economic analysis of the relationship between political preferences and political demands was a rather straightforward if dull subject The most common assumption was that the only political instrument available to citizens was the vote Given this assumption the analyst could express the outcome of the voting process in one of two ways One possibility was to make the heroic assumptions necessary to obtain the median voter theorem in which case the political demands of the citizenry are simply the preferences of the median voter The alternative was to make Arrow's Impossibility Theorem in which case even though individual preferences are well ordered no collective preference function exists On either of these approaches institutions such as interest groups political parties or the structures of political representation played no role in the analysis The work of Chicago scholars especially George Stigler Gary Becker and Sam Peltzman took a different approach and emphasized the importance of organization in making political demand effective shifting the focus from voting to political pressure by interest groups However in these models voting as an instrument of political action simply disappears and the relationship between interest group pressures and electoral processes has never been clarified

Privatizing Eastern Europe J.M. Van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This volume is meant to be a modest contribution to the ongoing debate about the transitions away from the administrative planning environment typical of the former communist regimes The central subject matter is a fairly special one namely the privatization of these economies together with the restoration and effective monitoring of property rights These are paramount tasks of the ongoing transformations once progress toward political democracy is secured Though I would not allot divestment of existing state owned assets the kind of pivotal importance that some observers reserve for it changing rules on the utilization of these assets is evidently at the core of what the transition toward market based economic systems should be all about Rather than examining the entire range of issues that surround the controversy on privatization this volume is primarily concerned with the economics of taking the state out of the decision making about existing assets Among the several aspects of this discussion three stand out One is the establishment of clear property rights This is fundamental to minimize transaction costs in an environment where decisions will increasingly be taken by independent economic agents acting on their own account Second I look only incidentally at the various angles of creating capital markets particularly for existing assets in these economies      Europe — Toward 2001 P. Coffey, 2013-12-01

THE BACKGROUND Why a book on Europe Toward the Year 2001 There are two principal reasons why a European should embark upon such a hazardous enterprise First when the Treaty on European Union popularly known as the Maastricht Treaty and hereafter referred to as the Treaty in this introduction was signed in February 1992 it was agreed that the heads of government of the EU Member States would assemble in 1996 to examine its workings This meeting will be known as the Intergovernmental Conference IGC Second by the end of the century it is certain that arrangements will have been made for the admission of some countries of Central and Eastern Europe into the European Union EU Consequently even with or without the holding of the IGC it will be urgently necessary to reform some of the Community's policies notably the Common Agricultural Policy CAP and the structural policies which are linked for example to the Regional and Social Funds before these countries become members Failure to do this could result in bankruptcy for the EU Of almost equal importance is the reform of the institutions and the actual workings of the Community Already with 12 Member States it was difficult enough to manage things on a daily basis Now as more countries join the Union things could literally grind to a stop Thus changes in this area are indispensable      Output Decline in Eastern Europe R. Holzmann, János Gács, G.

Winckler, 2012-12-06 The first phase of transition to a market economy in Central and Eastern Europe was characterized by a sharp output decline The fall in real GDP exceeded 20% while real industrial production decreased even by 40% Output Decline in Eastern Europe aims at providing comprehensive multi factor explanations for this unique painful experience Various hypotheses are analyzed credit and fiscal policies may have been too tight the collapse of the CMEA and the USSR came as a shock domestic producers were neither experienced nor flexible enough to adjust the output to new patterns of demand Output Decline in Eastern Europe contains a unique combination of authors from East and West who extensively analyze new data based on country studies Understanding the causes of recent output decline the subject matter of this volume may help to assess the prospects for Eastern Europe The book is addressed to researchers and students as well as interested officials who deal with the transition of formerly centrally planned economies in Central and Eastern Europe

Main Economic Policy Areas of the EEC — Towards 1992 P. Coffey, 2013-12-01 At the end of 1992 things will never again be the same inside the European Economic Community EEC because as that year draws to a close the aims of the Single Act of European Union SAEU which became law in July this year will have become effective thus creating a real Common Market This will mean that there will no longer be any obstacles to the free movement of goods between the Member States Equally and for the first time in the EEC's history internal capital movements will be absolutely free there will no longer be any exchange controls and it will be possible to freely establish financial services between EEC countries Likewise as currently being proposed by Lord Cockfield wide variations in the levels of value added tax VAT between

Member States will not be allowed Also in the case of the Common Agricultural Policy CAP it will no longer be possible nor even necessary to have the monetary compensatory amounts MCAs All these changes but especially the increased freedom in capital movements will have profound consequences for the different regions of the Community and it will be desirable to have a much more dynamic Regional Policy before 1993 Last but by no means least a greater number of decisions inside the Community will be made by majority voting and the Parliament will be endowed with enhanced powers

The Logic of Multiparty Systems M.J. Holler, 2012-12-06 What determines the number of political parties in a democracy Electoral rules certainly influence the incentives to create and maintain parties However a society's political culture can maintain parties despite electoral rules that give them poor prospects of success Thus comparing the number of parties and differences in electoral rules across countries cannot clearly test the effect of the electoral rules A better test would examine a society with a fairly continuous political culture but a change in electoral rules Postwar France is such a society While the basic social order has not changed there was a drastic change in the electoral system in 1958 which theory implies would reduce the number of parties Thus we can test the hypothesis that the number of parties fell with the change in electoral system We can also calculate an equivalent number of parties to see how closely France approached a two party system under the new regime The first section describes the electoral rules under the Fourth and Fifth Republics The second section develops a model that indicates how the change in electoral rules should have affected the incentives for multiple parties The third section tests the hypothesis that the number of parties fell from the Fourth to the Fifth Republic

1 Electoral Rules In the French Fourth Republic 1945 1958 political parties existed largely to serve the direct interests of their members

Regional Price Formation in Eastern Europe J.M. van Brabant, 2012-12-06 This monograph presents a detailed examination of a variety of issues pertaining to pricing in the context of the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance CMEA a designation that I much prefer over Comecon It situates itself within the contours of the pricing problematique that I have recently analyzed as one component of the broader aspects of monetary cooperation essentially among the Eastern European countries see Chapters 4 and 5 of Brabant 1987 The suggestion that I elaborate in detail on the circumstances under which prices for regional trade within the framework of the CMEA are determined was strongly urged by an anonymous referee of Brabant 1986b and Josef Brada the editor of Journal of Comparative Economics Both evidently felt that the comparatively commodity specific pricing issues that I have presented piecemeal in half a dozen articles or so since 1984 had remained too narrow largely configured as they inevitably were by the empirical findings of exercises applied to a small number of commodities as discussed here in Chapter 7 Under the circumstances I saw little point in attempting to set forth these intricate issues in a comprehensive framework Perhaps the central motivation was that many of the regional pricing issues in the CMEA have by and large remained quite obscure and intractable They might be crucial determinants in some isolated cases as I was trying to verify

The Population-Sample Decomposition Method A.M. Wesselman, 2012-12-06

Imports and Economic Growth C.A. van Bochove, 2012-12-06 The research for this project was carried out while the author was at the staff of the Economics Faculty of Erasmus University Rotterdam The core results were recorded in discussion papers 7821 G 7901 G 7910 G and 8002 G of the faculty's Institute for Economic Research Working on the project I incurred considerable debts to some professors and fellow staff members of the faculty Professor P J Verdoorn initiated this study by suggesting its subject and by encouraging me to turn my initially hesitantly held view of imports as indispensable inputs into the cornerstone of the analysis he also read the final manuscript Professor H C Bos enthusiastic encouragement greatly stimulated me in the arduous phase of the writing of the manuscript his advice on style and emphasis considerably improved the presentation while his careful reading of the various versions of the manuscript eliminated many non sequiturs and some errors I am deeply in debt to A S W de Vries who scrutinized not only the manuscript but also the preliminary discussion papers while sharing an office room with him for six years I had the benefit of many stimulating discussions and he equanimously put up with my moods when I was stuck at some point I am also in debt to D P Broer for checking and improving the optimal control theorem in chapter 7 to Professor R Harkema for inducing me to write sections 5.1 and 5.2
