Support For Families Helping Children With Learning Difficulties:

Support for Families Peter Burke, Katy Cigno, 1996 Despite many studies of families where there is a child with a learning disability it is clear that such children do not from the beginning of their life enjoy the same opportunities as others inequality is also experienced by their carers almost always parents in their day to day lives This study through the views of carers considers the formal and informal networks used by families The book is in two parts Part one reviews the literature and introduces the research Part two gives basic qualitative and quantitative information about the subjects of the study includes detailed care studies and examines the kind of support received This provides a picture of the resources families use and helps identify gaps in the support that is available The book concludes with the arguments for a holistic approach to services for families and looks at what remains to be done to meet their needs Helping Children Deal with Difficult

Issues, 2007 Supporting Children with Learning Difficulties Christine Turner, 2011-08-11 How do you teach history to a child who can't remember what she had for dinner What difference will it make to a child's counting skills if you place the objects in a line rather than dropped randomly on the table Will breaking down a task into smaller steps help a young person learn how to dress himself Children with learning disabilities do not follow set patterns of learning and yet often they are expected to learn in the same way as their non-disabled peers Christine Turner draws on 25 years experience gained from teaching children with severe profound and multiple disabilities to provide an introduction to learning disabilities and the effect they have on the individual and the family She proposes holistic strategies to ensure that every child makes progress regardless of the extent of their disability All aspects of learning from the simplest forms of non-verbal communication to the way ICT can motivate and inspire are explored in this practical and informal guide for anyone wanting to support a child with learning difficulties Cognitive-behavioural Social Work in Practice Katy Cigno, Diana

Bourn, 2017-07-05 Cognitive Behavioural Social Work in Practice appears at an interesting time for social work and social services More than ever practitioners are required to provide evidence for the effectiveness of what they do while the rights of service users to ethically competent practice in which they are partners is high on the agenda Drawing on a wide area of research as well as the practice experience of its 18 contributors it covers a broad range of cognitive behavioural intervention with different client groups in a variety of settings including child care family work probation and offending behaviour mental health disability and issues concerning older people The first chapter sets out lucidly the theoretical and research basis for cognitive behavioural practice and is rich in case examples Each subsequent chapter adopts a case study approach to its subject either by providing a single case study or by the detailed exploration of an area of practice combined with case examples The volume is unique in not only bringing together practitioners and academics but in presenting the work of the academic reflective practitioner It is thus an accessible informative guide for professionals students and educators who with all their working pressures and constraints strive to provide help based on best evidence Helping

Raising children's interest in reading Mason Armfield, 2023-06-10 Raising children's interest in reading is a comprehensive guidebook designed to empower parents and educators with practical strategies to cultivate a lifelong love for reading in children. Drawing on research-backed methods and real-life experiences, this book offers a wealth of insights, techniques, and resources to enhance early literacy development and foster a deep connection with books. The book begins by emphasizing the importance of reading in a child's life and highlighting the concerning decline in reading interest among children. It explores the various factors that influence children's reading habits, such as age and developmental stages, personal interests and hobbies, social and cultural influences, and learning difficulties. By understanding these factors, parents and educators can tailor their approach to match each child's unique needs. Recognizing the crucial role of parents and educators, the book offers guidance on creating comfortable reading spaces, establishing a reading culture at home and in the classroom, and building a diverse and engaging book collection. It highlights the significance of age-appropriate books and encourages the selection of literature that reflects children's interests and experiences. The importance of embracing diversity and inclusivity in literature is also explored, promoting empathy and understanding among young readers. Addressing challenges such as learning difficulties and limited access to books, the book provides practical solutions and resources to overcome these barriers and ensure that all children have equal opportunities to develop a love for reading. Throughout the book, the significance of tracking progress, offering recognition and praise, and setting reading goals and incentives is highlighted. It emphasizes the role of positive role models and mentors in inspiring children to become avid readers and learners. Furthermore, it explores ways to encourage reading beyond the classroom, involving the wider community and promoting a love for learning and curiosity. By building a strong foundation in reading, children develop essential skills and a lifelong passion for learning. Raising children's interest in reading serves as an invaluable resource, empowering parents and educators to create an enriching reading environment and inspire children to embark on a lifelong journey of exploration and imagination through books.
