Women Can't Park, Men Can't Pack G. W. P. Rolls, 2009 A fascinating look at the psychology behind popular stereotypes Publisher s description Art, Science, and Diplomacy: A Study of the Visual Images of the Macartney Embassy to China, 1793 Shanshan Chen, 2023-04-30 This book examines how the Embassy members approached selected and represented information and how in doing so they helped to shape European perceptions of China The Macartney Embassy of 1793 was the first British diplomatic mission to China seeking to open ties between the two empires As part of the mission the British government commissioned writers and artists to chronicle the geography and culture of a civilization that had until then been shrouded in mystery A central focus of the book is the artwork itself which provides a window into the diplomatic artistic and scientific viewpoints underlying the mission Drawing on archival research the study recreates the processes through which the Embassy s draughtsmen scientists and diplomats collaborated to represent the visual images and how the materials were reworked for publication in London The finished product demonstrates that the artists offered a distinct viewpoint in the representation of China sometimes differing from the textual accounts by blending scientific elements and artistic aesthetics in order to demystify China and make it more knowable to a British audience It was in the interposition of text and image that the British public formulated an ambivalent perception of China that embraced both admiration and disdain In addition to the scholars the book targets general readers who are interested in global art and history and East West interactions It contains important images with detailed visual and historical analysis that enable readers to acquire knowledge on how the British represented China and how that image helped to shape the European perception of China during the British global expansion in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries and beyond A Sweet View Malcolm Andrews, 2021-11-11 From country lanes to thatch roofs a stroll through the enduring appeal of the nineteenth century trope of rural English bliss A Sweet View explores how writers and artists in the nineteenth century shaped the

English countryside as a partly imaginary idyll with its distinctive repertoire of idealized scenery the village green the old country churchyard hedgerows and cottages scenic variety concentrated into a small compass snugness and comfort The book draws on a very wide range of contemporary sources and features some of the key makers of the South Country rural idyll including Samuel Palmer Myles Birket Foster and Richard Jefferies The legacy of the idyll still influences popular perceptions of the essential character of a certain kind of English landscape indeed for Henry James that imagery constituted the very essence of England itself As A Sweet View makes clear the countryside idyll forged over a century ago is still with us today
