The International Development of China (Classic Reprint) Yat-Sen Sun, 2017-11-19 Excerpt from The International Development of China It _is estimated that during the last year of the World War the daily expenses of the various fighting nations amounted to two hundred and forty millions of dollars gold Take it for granted in a most conservative way that only one half of this sum was spent on munitions and other direct war supplies that is one hundred and twenty millions of dollars gold Let us consider these war supplies from a commercial point of view The battle field is the market for these new industries the consumers of which are the soldiers Various industries had to be enlisted and many new ones created for the supplies In order to increase the production of these war commodities day by day people of the warring countries and even those of the neutral states had to be content with the barest necessities of life and had to give Up all former comforts and luxuries Now the war is ended and the sole market of these war supplies has closed let us hope forever for the good of Humanity So henceforth we are concerned with the problem as to how a readjustment might be brought about What is to be considered first is the reconstruction of the various countries and next the supply of comforts and luxuries that will have to be resumed We remember that one hundred and twenty million dollars were spent every day on direct war supplies Let us then suppose that the two items mentioned will take up one half of this sum that is sixty millions of dollars a day which will still leave us a balance of sixty million dollars a day to be utilized Besides the many millions of soldiers who were once consumers will from now on become producers again Further more the unification and nationalization of all the industries About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
