Glover, Fifty years after the British annexed the Punjab and made Lahore its provincial capital the city once a prosperous Mughal center that had long since fallen into ruin was transformed British and Indian officials had designed a modern architecturally distinct city center adjacent to the old walled city administered under new methods of urban governance In Making Lahore Modern William J

Glover investigates the traditions that shaped colonial Lahore. In particular, he focuses on the conviction that both British and Indian actors who implemented urbanization came to share that the material fabric of the city could lead to social and moral improvement. This belief in the power of the physical environment to shape individual and collective sentiments, he argues, links the colonial history of Lahore to nineteenth-century urbanization around the world. Glover highlights three aspects of Lahore's history that show this process unfolding. First, he examines the concepts through which the British understood the Indian city and envisioned its transformation. Second, through a detailed study of new buildings and the adaptation of existing structures, he explores the role of planning, design, and reuse. Finally, he analyzes the changes in urban imagination as evidenced in Indian writings on the city in this period. Throughout, Glover emphasizes that colonial urbanism was not simply imposed; it was a collaborative project between Indian citizens and the British. Offering an in-depth study of a single provincial city, Glover reveals that urban change in colonial India was not a monolithic process and establishes Lahore as a key site for understanding the genealogy of modern global urbanism.

William J. Glover is an associate professor of architecture at the University of Michigan.

The Architecture of Andrew Thomas Taylor Susan Wagg, 2013-04 How Andrew Thomas Taylor advanced the quality of architecture in Canada

Marketing Modernisms Peter Richmond, 2001-01-01 Architect, teacher, journalist, town planner, and cultural entrepreneur Sir Charles Reilly (1874-1948) was a leading figure of the early twentieth-century British architectural scene. Marketing Modernisms is the first book to take an in-depth look at Reilly's career, tracing his evolving architectural ethos via a series of case studies of his built work. Among other issues, the author considers Reilly's involvement in cultural enterprises such as the establishment of the Liverpool Repertory Theatre, his journalism, transatlantic links, and town planning theories. Reilly has been largely overlooked by writers of Modernist histories, but this book restores him to deserved prominence.

Manchester John J. Parkinson-Bailey, 2000 This work offers an examination of Manchester's architecture from its origins to the present-day rebuilding of the city centre. It follows Manchester's growth from a village to what many see as England's second city.

Cotswold Arts and Crafts Architecture Catherine Gordon, 2020-01-24 Between 1890 and 1930, Arts and Crafts architecture proliferated within the Cotswolds. The range and quality of the buildings was exceptional, as the region provided the perfect environment for the Movement's ideals and principles to flourish. Arts and Crafts architects relished the robust vernacular precedent that served to focus their ideas and stimulate their creativity. Its rational basis and dependence on craft skills had lasting relevance, and it was no coincidence that the most influential aspect of their work was its emphasis on conservation. This new and updated paperback edition provides a guide to the general characteristics of Cotswold Arts and Crafts structures, with chapters on the various types of new commissions to be found, as well as repair and remodeling projects. The final chapter discusses the late flowering of Arts and Crafts work that occurred during the interwar period and beyond, and the legacy of this important body of work at a local and national level.

characterize our world and as we design and construct buildings that are to last at least a few decades and sometimes even centuries how can architecture continue to act as an important cultural signifier Focusing on how an important nineteenth century architect addressed the already shifting relation between architecture time and history this book offers insights on issues still relevant today the struggle between imitation and innovation the definition or rejection of aesthetic experience the grounds of architectural judgment who decides and how or fundamentally how to act i e build when there is no longer a single grand narrative but a plurality of possible histories Six drawings provide the foundation of an itinerary through Charles Robert Cockerell s conception of architecture and into the depths of drawings and buildings Born in England in 1788 Cockerell sketched as a Grand Tourist he charted architectural history as Royal Academy Professor he drew to build to exhibit to understand the past and to learn from it publishing his last work in 1860 three years before his death Under our scrutiny his drawings become thresholds into the nineteenth century windows into the architect s conception of architecture and time complex documents of past and projected constructions great examples that reveal a kinetic approach to ornamentation and the depth of architectural representation

The English School (Volumes I and II) Malcolm Seaborne,Roy Lowe,2022-07-30 Britain has a rich heritage of school buildings dating from the later Middle Ages to the present day While some of these schools have attracted the attention of architectural historians they have not previously been considered from the educational viewpoint Even schools of little or no architectural interest are important sociologically since the changing architecture of schools reflects changing ideas about how children should be educated and organized for teaching purposes Documentary material relating to education is often fragmentary and buildings may thus constitute the only real source of knowledge about the development of particular schools and can also throw light on general educational history Originally published in 1971 and 1977 these books are therefore not only a major contribution to architectural history but also a study in the development of educational ideas and practices from the fourteenth to the twentieth century

The English School Malcolm Seaborne,Roy Lowe,2020-09-10 Britain has a rich heritage of school buildings dating from the later Middle Ages to the present day While some of these schools have attracted the attention of architectural historians they have not previously been considered from the educational viewpoint Even schools of little or no architectural interest are important sociologically since the changing architecture of schools reflects changing ideas about how children should be educated and organized for teaching purposes In this second volume originally published in 1977 Malcolm Seaborne and Roy Lowe carry the historical record into our own time Like its predecessor the volume studies the development of school architecture and its influence on the organization of the school and relates architectural questions to the educational and social forces which influence the design of schools The authors have chosen representative examples which illustrate the main trends in the development of school design and construction

Bibliography for the study of British Columbia's domestic material history Virginia Careless,1976-01-01 A bibliographic reference containing over eight hundred entries pertaining to British Columbia's late nineteenth century domestic material history Published in English Housing and Planning References, 1972 Cities Built to Music Michael Bright, 1984 In August of 1861 a congress was convened in Antwerp to consider why it was that the nineteenth century had adopted no distinctive architectural style as its own That such a meeting took place is of substantially greater importance than any business conducted and resolutions passed by the delegates for it suggests the profound dissatisfaction with the state of architecture in Europe that pervaded the continent at the time In England the chief critic of the motley assortment of disharmonious styles was A W N Pugin who in 1843 declared that architecture along with the other arts was passing through a transitional state the phrase was to recur over and over again throughout the century in a variety of contexts an aesthetic wasteland in which following the decay of the Renaissance an anarchic individualism fueled by a runaway eclecticism and a shoddy reliance on shams and disguises was ultimately to prevail Later in the same decade John Ruskin was to propose a stringent indeed a radical reform Professor Bright undertakes an etiological explanation of why the Gothic style was able to satisfy the artistic expectations of the Victorians He dismisses as only partly adequate the frequently offered answers the religious which points to the intimate relations between Revivalist architects and the Ecclesiologists and between Pugin and Roman Catholicism and the literary which relies on the immense popularity of the novels of Sir Walter Scott and the mania for all things medieval they inspired Rather he finds in the return to a style that was dominant before the Renaissance and in the rejection of the nineteenth century's earlier preference for the neoclassical a reflection in architecture of the generally troubled state of Victorian society so apparent in the other arts of the period Matthew Arnold's ignorant armies clash by night and Tennyson's Arthur saw not whom he fought in the dim weird battle of the west John Stuart Mills identifies as the first of the leading peculiarities of the present age that it is an age of transition Mankind have outgrown old institutions and old doctrines and have not acquired new ones Carlyle laments The Old has passed away but alas the New appears not in its stead Restlessness uncertainty and confusion abound and the idea is often repeated throughout the century that the momentum of change far from slowing to the settled condition from which new and universal values can emerge continues to accelerate at an alarming and vertiginous rate that cause Thomas Arnold to comment that we have been living as it were the life of three hundred years in thirty and that left his son twenty years later Wandering between two worlds one dead The other powerless to be born For Matthew Arnold it was culture that would provide the unity the Scholar Gypsy's one aim one business one desire that was to be the cure for this strange disease of modern life With its sick hurry its divided aims It was unity too a singleness of aim of a devotion to and community of effort in the advancement of art that Sir George Gilbert Scott urged as its president on his colleagues in the Institute of British Architects For Pugin and a host of other artists and critics of art and society unity lay in revival of the Gothic The Environmental Tradition Dr Dean Hawkes, Dean Hawkes, 2013-12-16 This text brings together a unique collection of writing by a leading researcher and critic which outlines the evolution of the environmental dimension of architectural theory and practice in the past twenty five years It deals with the transformation of the environmental design field which was brought about by the growth of energy awareness in the 1970s and 1980s and places environmental issues in the broader theoretical and historical context in architecture

Byzantium and British Heritage Amalia G. Kakissis, 2023-07-12 Byzantium was a very influential part of the development of the Arts and Crafts Movement 1880 1910 in Britain and although the influence of the Gothic Revival 1830 80 is well known that of the Byzantine Revival 1840 1910 is not This volume is about the people and the movements that created the Byzantine Revival and shows how they influenced British heritage from architecture to the decorative arts during the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The central pillars of the volume are the architects and scholars who created the Byzantine Research Fund BRF Archive a unique collection of architectural drawings and photographs of numerous monuments across the Byzantine world and the social and professional networks in which they circulated The BRF members an eclectic and little known group who based themselves at the newly founded British School at Athens established the research of Byzantium in Britain and Greece They were trained in the traditions of the Arts and Crafts Movement which sought authenticity in design and decoration in reaction to the styles that had developed through industrialisation Their work uniting a distinctively British design tradition with Byzantine arts and crafts represents a highly significant and under researched link between Britain and the Hellenic world This volume is the first contribution to try to fill this knowledge gap Byzantium and British Heritage will appeal to all those interested in the relation between Byzantine and British culture and Byzantine art

"Visions of the Industrial Age, 1830?914 " Amy Woodson-Boulton, 2017-07-05 Providing a comprehensive interdisciplinary assessment and with a particular focus on expressions of tension and anxiety about modernity this collection examines visual culture in nineteenth century Europe as it attempted to redefine itself in the face of social change and new technologies Contributing scholars from the fields of history art literature and the history of science investigate the role of visual representation and the dominance of the image by looking at changing ideas expressed in representations of science technology politics and culture in advertising art periodicals and novels They investigate how during the period new emphasis was placed on the visual with emerging forms of mass communication photography lithography newspapers advertising and cinema while older forms as varied as poetry the novel painting interior decoration and architecture became transformed The volume includes investigations into new innovations and scientific development such as the steam engine transportation and engineering the microscope spirit photography and the orrery as well as how this new technology is reproduced in illustrated periodicals The essays also look at more traditional forms of creative expression to show that the same concerns and anxieties about science technology and the changing perceptions of the natural world can be seen in the art of Armand Guillaumin Auguste Rodin Gustave Caillebotte and Camille Pissarro in colonial nineteenth century novels in design manuals in museums and in the decorations of domestic interior spaces Visions of the Industrial Age 1830 1914 offers a thorough exploration of both the nature of modernity and the nature of the visual

History and Community Florence S. Boos, 2016-04-14 The essays in this volume originally published in 1992 examine some of the pervasive implications of Victorian medievalism and assess its creative manifestations and dual capacities for expression of reformist anger and escapist retreat Some of the emotional and intellectual reasons for the strong Victorian attraction to medieval history and literature are discussed and emblematic responses to this attraction are examined
