School Management and Effectiveness in Developing Countries Clive Harber, Lynn Davies, 2006-02-08 This book is quite different from existing Western books on school effectiveness It describes and analyses the way in which schools operate in developing countries and also tries to explain why they are as they are Examining them at three levels the macro the meso and the micro the authors use a theoretical framework that they have termed post bureaucracy The book has four interlinked sections First the authors examine the existing economic and theoretical contexts around school effectiveness including an analysis of the causes of economic crisis and its impact on school management In the second section the analysis of schools as bureaucratic facades is proposed The reality of school life from which any theory of school effectiveness must derive is illustrated by an ethnographic account of the job of the headteacher in developing countries The third section explores different ways to understand this reality operating on three levels global relationships national and community cultures and individual agency In the final section Haber and Davies draw these levels and realities together They argue for the democratization of schools as the only way forward for effective education for development

Ghana in Search of Development Dan-Bright Dzorgbo, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2001 When Ghana became independent in 1957 becoming the first country in Sub Saharan Africa to banish colonialism there was a general optimism that irreversible socio economic development was about to unfold But by the end of the 1970s Ghana paradoxically became the first country in Twentieth Century Africa to have experienced socio economic decline What failed Ghana This book seeks to answer this question By combining sociological economic political and institutional perspectives this book focuses on the interplay between state politics and socio economic development It provides a model which suggests that Ghana's postcolonial development has suffered mainly as a result of the failure or inability of governing elites to develop consensual politics and a clearly specified long term development objective that could be widely understood accepted and have relevance for policy making This book presents a much needed self assessment of the post colonial development experience which contends that governance economic management and institution building are basic challenges without which the search for development is likely to falter

Classroom Change in Developing Countries Gerard Guthrie, 2018-04-09 Progressive Education derived mainly from Anglo American culture has been the primary frame of reference for student centered classroom change in developing countries for over 50 years Yet in many developing countries strong evidence shows that progressivism has not replaced teacher centered formalistic classroom practice Classroom Change in Developing Countries From Progressive Cage to Formalistic Frame presents a robust case for why formalism should be the primary frame of reference for upgrading classroom teaching in developing countries Theoretically rich yet grounded in practice the book draws on case studies from Africa China and Papua New Guinea to show how culturally intuitive formalistic teaching styles can induce positive classroom change Synthesising research and evaluation literature on classroom change in developing countries Guthrie examines some of the methodological flaws in the literature The book considers the progressive cage and looks at Confucian influences on teaching in China progressive reform failures in both Sub Saharan Africa and Papua New Guinea as well as offering a critical take on some failings in comparative education It examines the formalistic frame addresses methodological issues in culturally grounded research and offers a model of teaching styles for basic classroom research The book concludes by returning the focus back to teachers and considers the so called teacher resistance to change The book will be an essential purchase for academics and research students engaged in the fields of classroom teaching teacher education and curriculum and will also be of interest to academics aid officials and decision makers in developing countries

Community Participation with Schools in Developing Countries Mikiko Nishimura, 2020-08-04 The Sustainable Development Goals SDGs 2016 2030 set by the United Nations in 2015 restated the importance of universal primary education for all and specifically discuss quality equity and inclusion in basic education To achieve this the role of community has been emphasized and participation has become a buzzword in international development over the past several decades Despite the growing attention to community participation in school management previous literature has shown mixed results in terms of its actual practice and its impacts on quality equity and inclusion in education This book deepens the contextual understanding of community in developing countries and its involvement in schools in general and its impact on quality equity and inclusion of school education in particular By presenting various case studies in Asia Africa Latin America and a post conflict state in Europe the book analyses commonalities and differences in the ways communities are involved and cast their impacts and challenges The book contributes knowledge on the ways in which community involvement could work in developing countries the detailed processes and factors that make community participation work in different dimensions and remaining challenges that scholars and practitioners still need to be concerned and mindful in the field This book will appeal to both researchers and practitioners who are concerned about the community participation approach for the SDGs Civil Society in Action ,2001 At the Crossroads of Development Behar,Cuzán,2021-11-01 The 10 articles assembled in this volume examine old problems and new opportunities in development that are associated with trade communication population distribution and migration culture and institutions They explore possibilities for and obstacles to technological and institutional transfers between developed and developing societies at a time when capitalism and democracy appear triumphant Points of convergence parallel processes and equivalences in social problems and potential solutions across levels of development are noted They point out that the hierarchy of the world economic system and indigenous cultures militate against the homogenization of the globe along Western lines
