Airborne Maritime Surveillance in the North Atlantic John O. Birkeland, 2025-07-17 This book offers a comprehensive examination of historical Norwegian and allied airborne maritime surveillance operations in the North Atlantic after World War II until the present Russia's resurgent naval and submarine activity in the High North needs to be closely observed Norway together with her closest allies have monitored such activity in the High North since the end of World War II One of the key instruments in that effort has been Maritime Patrol Aircraft MPA with their Anti Submarine Warfare ASW capabilities However after the Cold War in many nations an atrophy took place within the MPA communities of knowledge resources and experience with airborne ASW This occurred just as the concept of intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance ISR came to play an increasingly important role in modern warfare but without sufficient attention being paid to the specific challenges of maritime airborne surveillance and reconnaissance This book addresses that gap and examines the entwined evolution of airborne maritime surveillance by MPA and ASW in the High North both during and after the Cold War with the main focus being on Norway The discussion identifies the fundamental building blocks of these historical surveillance operations through a portrayal of the development of airborne surveillance and reconnaissance operations These building blocks are then applied to make recommendations for the future for maritime surveillance in the High North This book will be of much interest to students of naval history strategic studies intelligence studies Nordic studies and International Relations Report United States.
