Life and Death in the Roman Suburb Allison L. C. Emmerson, 2020-05-24 Defined by borders both physical and conceptual the Roman city stood apart as a concentration of life and activity that was legally economically and ritually divided from its rural surroundings Death was a key area of control and tombs were relegated outside city walls from the Republican period through Late Antiquity Given this separation an unexpected phenomenon marked the Augustan and early Imperial periods Roman cities developed suburbs built up areas beyond their boundaries where the living and the dead came together in densely urban environments Life and Death in the Roman Suburb examines these districts drawing on the archaeological remains of cities across Italy to understand the character of Roman suburbs and to illuminate the factors that led to their rise and decline focusing especially on the tombs of the dead Whereas work on Roman cities has tended to pass over funerary material and research on death has concentrated on issues seen as separate from urbanism Emmerson introduces a new paradigm considering tombs within their suburban surroundings of shops houses workshops garbage dumps extramural sanctuaries and major entertainment buildings in order to trace the many roles they played within living cities Her investigations show how tombs were not passive memorials but active spaces that facilitated and furthered the social and economic life of the city where relationships between the living and the dead were an enduring aspect of urban life

Bootstrap New Urbanism Joseph A. Rodriguez, 2014-08-26 Joseph A Rodriguez critically examines the urban design and revitalization initiatives undertaken by both the government and the people of Milwaukee Wisconsin In the 1990s New Urbanists followed a city tradition of using urban design to solve problems while seeking to elevate the city s national reputation and status While New Urbanism was not the only design element undertaken to further Milwaukee s redevelopment the elite focus on New Urbanism reflected an attempt to fashion a self help narrative for the revitalization of the city This approach linked New Urbanist design to the strengthening of grassroots community organizing and volunteerism to solve urban problems Bootstrap New Urbanism Design Race and Redevelopment in Milwaukee uncovers a practice with implications for urban history architectural history planning history environmental design ethnic studies and urban politics

Questioning Assumptions and Challenging Perceptions Connie L. Schaffer, Meg White, Corine Meredith Brown, 2016-01-15 For a moment consider you don't know what you don't know What individuals know about urban schools is often based on assumptions and perceptions It is important for individuals to examine these assumptions and perceptions of urban schools and the students who attend them While many textbooks support how teachers should teach students in urban settings this book asserts individuals can be effective teachers in these settings only if they first develop an understanding urban schools and the students who attend them As readers progress through the chapters they will realize they don't know what they don't know Within a framework of cognitive dissonance readers will continuously examine and reexamine their personal beliefs and perceptions Readers will also investigate new information and varied perspectives related to urban schools When readers finish this book they will be on their way to becoming effective teachers in urban environments

Herculaneum Uncovered Howard Burton, 2021-01-12 This book is based on an in depth filmed conversation between Howard Burton and Andrew Wallace Hadrill Director of Research and Honorary Professor of Roman Studies in the Faculty of Classics at the University of Cambridge This wide ranging conversation covers his fascinating archeological work done in Herculaneum and Pompeii the politics of excavation and life in the ancient Roman world This carefully edited book includes an introduction Historical Value and questions for discussion at the end of each chapter I What We Know History and geology II Letting Sleeping Dogs Lie Exploring historical motivations III Exploring Roman Society Housing slavery citizenship and status IV Herculaneum vs Pompeii Different eyes on the past V The Future of the Past Excavation preservation and spending effectively About Ideas Roadshow Conversations Presented in an accessible conversational format Ideas Roadshow books not only explore frontline academic research but also reveal the inspirations and personal journeys behind the research     A Thousand Screenplays Sabine Chalvon-Demersay, 1999-05 In 1991 French public television held an amateur screenwriting contest When Sabine Chalvon Demersay a French sociologist examined the roughly 1 000 entries she had hoped to analyze their differences What she found however surprised her Although the entrants covered nearly every social demographic their screenplays presented similar characters in similar situations confronting similar problems The time of crisis presented by the amateur writers was not one of war famine or disease it was the millennial dilemma of representation In a world plagued by alienation individualization and a lack of mobility how can members of a society combat their declining senses of self Although the contestants wrote about life in France their concerns and struggles have a distinctly universal ring A lucid witty writer Chalvon Demersay offers a clear if still developing photograph of the contemporary imagination
