Bell. Sarah R. Davies, Felicity Mellor, 2021-02-03 The relationship between science and its publics has concerned commentators since science itself began Yet in recent years questions of how and how should science and society interact have come to particular prominence A field of practice initially dubbed public understanding of science and later rebranded as public engagement with science and technology has blossomed But although academic studies have informed the development of this practical field to date there has been little opportunity to take stock of the full breadth and variety of academic analyses of science communication In an attempt to reveal the richness of the nascent field of science communication studies this volume presents critical interdisciplinary analyses of some of the many ways in which science intersects with its publics From children s science books to computer advertising news media to lab talk public engagement to science fiction the sites modes and meanings of public science are explored Contributions draw on historical cultural science and media studies All however follow science through popular culture taking critical science studies out of the lab and into society

Religion and Science: A Beautiful Friendship? Robert W. Fuller, 1900 Although grievances leap to mind when we consider making peace with an old foe ultimate success depends on identifying not where each side is wrong but where each is right Seeing some good in others doesn't mean blinding ourselves to what's wrong and harping on the latter is no way to make peace Current attacks on religion are ignoring the fact that it got some very big things right However religion must acknowledge that its spokesmen have repeatedly failed to distinguish between its great discoveries and its mistakes Not only have some religious leaders ignored compelling evidence but they like the leaders of secular institutions have all too often failed to live up to the standards of behavior they espouse Paradoxically science makes even more mistakes than religion but it saves itself by being quicker to recognize and correct them Niels Bohr the father of atomic physics ascribed his breakthroughs to making my mistakes faster than others The difference between science and religion is not that one has babies in its bath water and the other doesn't The difference is that science drains its dirty bath water faster leaving its gleaming babies for all to admire Science gives us reason to think we can vanquish famine disease and poverty Religion heralds peace on Earth goodwill toward men Neither of these venerable institutions can deliver on its promise without help from the other but together there is reason to hope that they can
