Subsaharan Africa in the 1990s Rukhsana A. Siddiqui, 1997-06-25 The economic performance of African countries south of the Sahara generally has been poor during the past two decades External factors such as high oil prices deteriorating terms of trade and wars and formidable internal factors such as corruption chauvinism authoritarianism and violence have continued to plague the region Whereas in the 1980s the Sub Sahara was overwhelmed by drought devaluation and debt the 1990s have brought the paradox of civil strife and a complex transition to democracy This volume surveys the major political economic social ecological and gender related aspects of Subsaharan Africa s struggle toward democracy Its essays pose two fundamental sets of ideas that the internal equilibrium can be restored only through institutional changes with these countries and that the political and economic dilemmas in the region are closely related to issues of gender and the environment The volume will be of interest to scholars and students of comparative politics developmental economics and African studies

Dan-Bright Dzorgbo,2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2001 When Ghana became independent in 1957 becoming the first country in Sub Saharan Africa to banish colonialism there was a general optimism that irreversible socio economic development was about to unfold But by the end of the 1970s Ghana paradoxically became the first country in Twentieth Century Africa to have experienced socio economic decline What failed Ghana This book seeks to answer this question By combining sociological economic political and institutional perspectives this book focuses on the interplay between state politics and socio economic development It provides a model which suggests that Ghana s postcolonial development has suffered mainly as a result of the failure or inability of governing elites to develop consensual politics and a clearly specified long term development objective that could be widely understood accepted and have relevance for policy making This book presents a much needed self assessment of the post colonial development experience which contends that governance economic management and institution building are basic challenges without which the search for development is likely to falter Civil Society and Democracy in Africa Nelson Kasfir,2013-04-03 This work critically reviews the conventional uses of the concept of civil society in promoting democratization in Africa and suggests omissions and modifications are needed for more accurate analyses African Renaissance in the Millennium Emmanuel Ike Udogu,2007-01-01 The book brings into sharp focus some of the major political social and economic issues that might impede Africa s development project in the 21st century It debates and suggests ways that policy makers might tackle these issues in order to promote the vision of the continent s transformation in the millennium Escape from Domination in Africa Bruce Baker,2001

Obstacles to Democracy in Sub-Saharan Africa Nagmeldin Karamalla-Gaiballa,2025-02-10 This book analyses the failure factors of democratic experiences in Sub Saharan Africa focusing on the Republic of Sudan Through historical comparisons it aims to further our understanding of democratic African state formation in the aftermath of colonialism the impact of military coups on undermining democracy in sub Saharan Africa the formation and structuring of political parties in the region and the failures and successes of popular revolutions in establishing good governance To do so the author weaves a portrait of the current state of democratic governance in Sudan and the broader sub Saharan region by threading primary data analysis such as expert interviews and surveyed participants of the Sudanese revolution along with their personal reflections and observations on life lived in Sudan Arguing that the nation is in a state of political crisis the book posits that Sudan marks a potent example of failing democratic institutions in sub Saharan Africa in the post colonial era Africa and the Arab Spring: A New Era of Democratic Expectations , Africa's Elusive Quest for Development M. Houngnikpo,2006-02-18

Matt Hounnikpo examines how domestic conflict economic stagnation political instability poverty and underdevelopment have plagued Africa for decades He argues that a reversal of the political economic and social plight of Africa lies in better policies good governance and more importantly a new type of African leader and citizen      Governmental Response to Environmental Challenges in Global Perspective Joseph G. Jabbara, O. P. Dwivedi, 1998 In our drive to improve human standards of living we have paradoxically paid scant attention to the need for clean air and water the impact of acid rain on agriculture lakes and rivers the effect of pollutants on the ozone layer the safe disposal of hazardous wastes and the relationship between population growth and the environment It seems that every time governments are faced with an apparent choice between economic development and the protection of the environment priority is always given to the former Short term plans dictated by canons of political survival and expediency always seem to take precedence over long term strategies with politicians and decision makers deftly relegating environmental concerns to the realm of rhetoric This book is an effort to better understand the problems faced by our global ecosystems It is also the result of the authors deep commitment to urge both citizens and their leaders the world over to work together for a better protection of the environment so that our planet may be saved for the present and for future generations      Oppositional Discourses and Democracies Michael Huspek, 2009-09-10 When citizens take to the streets pack assembly halls or share their ideas through the press they give voice to truths and logic that have otherwise been given little or no airing through available institutional channels This collection explores the tensions between democratic states and the dynamics of citizen voice      The Making, Unmaking and Remaking of Africa's Independence and Post-Independence Constitutions Nicodemus Fru Awasom, Hlengiwe Portia Dlamini, 2024-10-09 This book provides a collection of chapters that critically explore the making and development of Africa's independence constitutions through the different phases in their full generality Since independence various constitutions from African countries have undergone a succession of changes triggered by either the domestic or international environment or both These processes constitute autonomous epochal waves or phases of constitution making which need to be unpacked historicised and explored in a systematic manner This work intended as a distinctive object of positive analysis historicizes the independence constitutions of selected African states on either a country specific or a comparative basis A historical approach to the continental study of constitutions is rare meaning the continental coverage of the book is justified by Africa's rich diversity reflected in its multiple monarchical and colonial backgrounds The book is of interest to academics interested in having a panoramic view of Africa's constitutional development from a historical perspective      The African Philosophy Reader P.H. Coetzee, A.P.J. Roux, 2004-03 Divided into eight sections each with introductory essays the selections offer rich and detailed insights into a diverse multinational philosophical landscape Revealed in this pathbreaking work is the way in which traditional philosophical issues related to ethics metaphysics and epistemology for instance take on specific forms in Africa's postcolonial struggles Much of its moral political and social philosophy is concerned with the turbulent processes of embracing modern identities while protecting ancient cultures

The Environment and Development in Africa Moses K. Tesi, 2000-01-01 The premise of The Environment and Development in Africa is that current environmental problems in sub Saharan Africa are an outcome of the continent's development activities. Whether these activities have generated economic growth and raised living standards or have led to growth without overall increases in living standards or have even contributed to a decline in people's well-being, developments in that region have produced effects that have degraded Africa's environment in many ways. This book presents a comprehensive and systematic analysis of the context of the environmental issues facing sub Saharan African states. Contributors discuss the problems associated with generating the capacity to manage Africa's environmental concerns, assess the impact of economic development efforts on the region's environment, and examine various societal and policy responses to environmental problems and to development problems linked to ecological decay. This is an important book for scholars and policy advisors concerned with African studies and global environmental issues.

West African Worlds Reginald Cline-Cole, Elsbeth Robson, 2016-02-17 West African Worlds provides a critical assessment of social, economic, and political change in Africa's most populous and arguably most externally focused region. With an emphasis on globalisation and modernisation, case studies and commentary are integrated throughout to highlight the concerns and issues of the region. Enriched by an impressive mix of West African voices, this text combines theory and application with policy and practice to address socio-economic change, the pursuit of livelihoods, and development within West Africa.

Democratization in Africa: Challenges and Prospects Gordon Crawford, Gabrielle Lynch, 2013-09-13 It is two decades since the third wave of democratization began to roll across sub Saharan Africa in the early 1990s. This book provides a very timely investigation into the progress and setbacks over that period, the challenges that remain, and the prospects for future democratization in Africa. It commences with an overall assessment of the lack of progress made from 1990 to 2010, exploring positive developments with reasons for caution. Based on original research, subsequent contributions examine various themes through country case studies, inclusive of the routinisation of elections accompanied by democratic rollback and the rise of hybrid regimes, the tenacity of presidential powers, the dilemmas of power sharing, ethnic voting, and the rise of a violent politics of belonging, the role of donors, and the ambiguities of democracy promotion. Overall, the book concludes that steps forward remain greater than reversals, and that typically, though not universally, sub Saharan African countries are more democratic today than in the late 1980s. Nonetheless, the book also calls for more meaningful processes of democratization that aim not only at securing civil and political rights but also socio-economic rights and the physical security of African citizens. This book was originally published as a special issue of Democratization.

The Political Economy of Globalization Satya Dev Gupta, 2012-12-06 Globalization is transforming the world at an accelerated pace. Integration of the world continues, widening and intensifying international linkages in economic, political, and social relations. Liberalization of trade and finance, lubricated by revolutionary changes in information technology has resulted in significant economic growth at the global level. On the other hand, the process of globalization is changing the nature of production relations, threatening the traditional roles of the nation state and carrying with it far-reaching implications for sustainable growth, development, and the environment. Although both developed and developing countries are actively participating in this saga of globalization, nearly ninety countries, as the United Nations Human Development Report 1996 indicates, are worse off economically than they were ten years ago, leading to global polarization between haves and have-nots. The report further indicates that the gap between the per capita incomes of the industrialized world and the developing countries, far from narrowing, has more than tripled during the last thirty years. Further, a majority of the countries benefitting from this globalization drive have seen a rise in inequality and poverty. This failure of market-driven globalization to reward the benefits equitably led the United Nations to proclaim 1996 as the International Year for the Eradication of Poverty (IYEP) and the decade of 1997-2006 as the international decade for the eradication of poverty and to promote people-centered sustainable development.

Key Thinkers on Development David Simon, 2019-04-02

Since its publication in 2006 as Fifty Key Thinkers on Development, this invaluable reference has established itself as the leading biographical handbook in its field, providing a concise and accessible introduction to the lives and key contributions of development thinkers from across the ideological and disciplinary spectrum. This substantially expanded and fully updated second edition, in the relaunched series without the numerical constraint, includes an additional 24 essays filling in many gaps in the original selection, greatly improving the gender balance and diversifying coverage to reflect the evolving landscape of development in theory, policy, and practice. It presents a unique guide to the lives, ideas, and practices of leading contributors to the contested terrain of development studies and development policy and practice. Its thoughtful essays reflect the diversity of development in theory, policy, and practice across time, space, disciplines, and communities of practice. Accordingly, it challenges Western centrism, Orientalism, and the like while also demonstrating the enduring appeal of development in different guises. David Simon has assembled a highly authoritative team of contributors from different backgrounds, regional settings, and disciplines to reflect on the lives and contributions of leading authorities on development from around the world. These include Modernisers like Kindleberger, Perroux, and Rostow; Dependencistas such as Frank Furtado, Cardoso, and Amin; Progressives and critical modernists like Hirschman, Prebisch, Helleiner, Sen, Streeten, and Wang; Political leaders enunciating radical alternative visions of development such as Mao, Nkrumah, and Nyerere; Progenitors of religiously or spiritually inspired development such as Gandhi, Ariyaratne, and Vivekananda; Development environment thinkers like Agarwal, Blaikie, Brookfield, Ostrom, and Sachs; International institution builders like Singer, Hammar, Skold, Kaul, and Ul-Haq; Anti and post-development thinkers and activists like Escobar, Ghosh, Quijano, and Roy. Key Thinkers on Development is therefore the essential handbook on the world's most influential development thinkers and an invaluable guide for students of development and sustainability, policy makers, and practitioners seeking an accessible

overview of this diverse field and its leading voices
