Visions of Urban Freeways, 1930-1970 Clifford Donald Ellis, 1990

Surrogate Suburbs Todd M. Michney, 2017-02-08 The story of white flight and the neglect of Black urban neighborhoods has been well told by urban historians in recent decades Yet much of this scholarship has downplayed Black agency and tended to portray African Americans as victims of structural forces beyond their control In this history of Cleveland s Black middle class Todd Michney uncovers the creative ways that members of this nascent community established footholds in areas outside the overcrowded inner city neighborhoods to which most African Americans were consigned In asserting their right to these outer city spaces African Americans appealed to city officials allied with politically progressive whites notably Jewish activists and relied upon both Black and white developers and real estate agents to expand these surrogate suburbs and maintain their livability until the bona fide suburbs became more accessible By tracking the trajectories of those who in spite of racism were able to succeed Michney offers a valuable counterweight to histories that have focused on racial conflict and Black poverty and tells the neglected story of the Black middle class in America s cities prior to the 1960s

Diaspora in the Countryside Royden Loewen, 2006-01-01 From the 1930s to the 1980s the North American countryside faced a profound cultural transformation in which a once unified rural society became fragmented and dispersed Families wishing to remain on the farm were required to accept new levels of automation while others unwilling or unable to make the change migrated to nearby towns or regional cities The cultural reformulation that resulted saw the emergence of a genuine rural diaspora The growing cultural and physical separation was especially true for close knit ethno religious communities Mennonites in particular Forced into regional cities the kaleidoscopic urban culture further fragmented the Mennonites into disparate social entities In Diaspora in the Countryside the phenomena of rural fragmentation is examined by comparing and contrasting two closely related but distinctive Dutch Russian Mennonite communities located in different parts of the continent Kansas and Manitoba respectively By systematically comparing these communities two distinctive responses to the mid twentieth century Great Disjuncture are made apparent Royden Loewen also contrasts the cultural changes of these farm families to the cultures their kin adopted in nearby towns and cities Loewen charts not only the dispersion of two rural communities but follows their former residents as they reformulate their lives in new settings
