Globalisation, Employment and Education in Sri Lanka Angela W. Little, Siri T. Hettige, 2014-05-23 Since the late 1970s Sri Lanka has undergone a socio economic transformation from protectionism towards economic liberalisation and increasing integration into the world economy Through a systematic comparison of these periods of economic change 1956 1977 and 1977 to the present Angela W Little and Siri T Hettige examine the impact of this transformation on education youth employment and equality of opportunity in Sri Lanka The book charts Sri Lanka s shift from a predominantly agricultural economy to one dominated by services and manufacturing a reduction in unemployment rising educational and occupational levels expectations and achievements and a reduction in poverty In turn it reveals a growing role for the private sector and foreign interests in post secondary education and a modest growth in private education at the primary and secondary levels as well as widening social disparities in access to qualifications training and skills The Sri Lankan experience of and engagement with globalisation has been tempered by a long running ethnic conflict that hindered economic and social development and diverted considerable public funds into defence and war Now that the war is won the challenge is how to invest in human resource development and the fulfilment of the expectations of youth from all ethnic and social groups This challenge requires serious policy analysis the generation of more state revenues the reallocation of existing public resources and a political commitment to the winning of a sustainable peace and stability This book makes an important contribution to the broader international literature on the implications of globalisation for education policy and practice and to the interaction of exogenous and endogenous forces for educational change It deals with the tension between the high social demand for education and the growing demand for specialised skills in a changing economy As such it has a wide interdisciplinary appeal across education policy and politics Asian education South Asian society youth policy sociology of education political economy of social change and globalisation

Understanding Global Skills for 21st Century Professions Douglas Bourn, 2018-10-24 This book highlights the increasing need for people who will be working in professions such as teaching health engineering and business management to have the skills for living and working in a global society Globalisation and the challenges resulting from recent political events in Europe and North America have given rise to a need for training and further and higher education programmes to address the skills young people all need to effectively engage in the current global society Reviewing the range of theories and debates surrounding skills for the twenty first century the author suggests there is a need to directly address the real world issues of today and move beyond abstract concepts such as team work critical thinking and problem solving as important as these concepts are The author proposes a new framework for global skills using examples from international and national policy makers and evidence from further and higher educational programmes and training courses This pioneering yet practical book will be of value to students and scholars of global education as well as practitioners and policy makers Policy Transfer in Global Perspective Mark Evans, 2017-07-05 The world of public policy is becoming increasingly small due to dramatic changes in global communications political and economic institutional structures and to nation states themselves This book evaluates the implications of these changes and challenges for both the study and the practice of policy transfer and provides a unique understanding of the relationship between systemic globalizing forces and the increasing scope and intensity of policy transfer activity It provides an explanation of policy transfer as a process of organizational learning an insight into how and why such processes are studied by policy scientists an evaluation of its use by policy practitioners and the first published collection of policy transfer case studies between developed countries from developed to developing countries and from developing countries
