The eye is a complex organ that allows us to see. It is made up of several parts, including the cornea, lens, and retina. The cornea is the clear, outer part of the eye. The lens is a small, oval-shaped structure that helps to focus light. The retina is the back part of the eye, where light is converted into signals that the brain can understand.

Light enters the eye through the cornea and passes through the lens. The lens then focuses the light onto the retina. The retina is made up of many small cells called photoreceptors. These cells send signals to the brain, which then interprets the signals as what we see.

Diagram of the Earth showing continents and oceans.

The Earth is a large, round planet. It is covered in water and land. The land is divided into continents, and the water is divided into oceans. The Earth is home to many different types of plants and animals. We live on the Earth, and we need to take care of it.

The human body is a complex machine. It is made up of many different parts, including the brain, heart, lungs, and stomach. Each part has a specific job to do, and they all work together to keep us alive. The brain is the control center of the body. It sends signals to the other parts of the body to tell them what to do. The heart pumps blood around the body, and the lungs take in oxygen and get rid of carbon dioxide. The stomach digests food so that we can get energy from it.
