The Schistosomiasis Vaccine - It Is Time to Stand Up Rashika El Ridi, Ahmad Ali Othman, Donald McManus, 2016-01-13 Schistosomiasis is a severe parasitic disease endemic in 74 developing countries with up to 600 million people including many children infected and 800 million at risk of contracting the disease following infection with Schistosoma mansoni S. haematobium or S. japonicum Disease burden is estimated to exceed 70 million disability adjusted life years and leads to remarkably high YLD years lived with disability rates Even more importantly people with schistosomiasis are highly susceptible to malaria tuberculosis and hepatic and acquired immunodeficiency viruses There is only one drug praziquantel currently available for treatment and it has high efficacy low cost and limited side effects However only 13% of the target population has received the drug and those treated are at continuous risk of reinfection necessitating repeated drug administration and the emergence of drug resistant parasites is a constant threat There currently is no vaccine While the target of 40% protection has been achieved with some molecules such as excretory secretory proteins including calpain glyceraldehyde 3 phosphate dehydrogenase and cysteine peptidases very recent articles reiterate the findings published during the last 2 decades of the last century contradicting the established data of the pioneers of schistosome biology A consensus should be reached without delay in order to propose collaborative independent experiments and proceed ahead to pre and clinical trials with efficacious candidate vaccine molecules The proposed plan aims to finally reach an objective and fruitful agreement via inviting established and young researchers from the United States Brazil China Australia and Europe who are working with different vaccine antigens adjuvants and approaches for immunization against S. mansoni S. haematobium and S. japonicum It is hoped that the forum will end with a very few candidate antigens and a consensus approach regarding target immune responses thus leading to encouraging the World Health Organization and other international foundations to sponsor the development and implementation of the urgently required yet still elusive vaccine for preventing and eliminating the transmission of schistosomiasis
