Stanley Spencer At War:

Stanley Spencer at War Richard Carline, 1978-01 Stanley Spencer's Great War Diary, 1915-1918 Stanley Spencer, 2008-08-21 Stanley Spencer enlisted with the Royal Fusiliers as a private in 1915 and was commissioned in 1917 and thereafter served with the West Yorkshire Regiment until demobilised in 1919 He saw almost continuous active service from 1915 to the end of the War Stanley Spencer - Heaven in a Hell of War Stanley Spencer, Paul Gough, Pallant House Gallery, Amanda Bradley, Howard Watson, Somerset House (London, England) Staff, Pallant House Gallery Staff, National Trust (Great Britain) Staff, 2013-11 The Sandham Memorial Chapel in Burghclere Hampshire is widely upheld as one of the greatest war monuments of the twentieth century built to house Stanley Spencer's celebrated mural cycle in honour of the forgotten dead of the First World War Throughout 2014 Spencer's murals which have been permanently displayed inside the chapel since its completion in 1932 will be removed for restoration Pallant House Gallery will present the complete cycle of predella and lunette mural paintings as part of an exhibition of paintings and drawings organised in collaboration with the National Trust Stanley Spencer Sir Stanley Spencer, Fiona MacCarthy, Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Mexico City Centro Cultural Arte Contemporaneo, British Council, Fine arts museums (San Francisco, Calif.), 1997-01-01 Finding inspiration in his quiet village on the river Thames early 20th century painter Stanley Spencer drew on his familiar world to arrive at an art of epic grandeur though often homely and weird Biographer Fiona MacCarthy investigates Spencer's life sets his work in its cultural context and emphasizes the links between his life and his paintings and sheds new light on this sensitive and enigmatic artist 85 color and 30 b w illustrations Paradise Regained Sir Stanley Spencer, 2014 Prior to the First World War Spencer had painted some of his most spiritual and lauded works of art set within Cookham the village of his birth and it was with great reluctance that he left for war in 1915 initially joining the Royal Army Medical Corps and eventually serving in the front line in Macedonia On his return he soon forsook an official war work commission amidst fears that he had lost his artistic vision Cookham was very important to the artist at this critical point of his career Paradise Regained Stanley Spencer in the Aftermath of the First World War demonstrates how Spencer redeemed the devastating effects of the war upon his personal and professional life renewing the connection with his birthplace Returning to safer ground he once again sought inspiration from his surroundings exclaiming After the war I felt on returning home as if I were performing a miracle every time I beheld the familiar spots Featured within this show are a number of paintings depicting scenes located within the very fabric of the village and their exhibition at the Stanley Spencer Gallery in this Great War centenary year is most appropriate Making a poignant return is Unveiling Cookham War Memorial 1922 lent by a private owner an intriguingly peaceful painting of a ceremony which would have had great importance for the Spencer family as Stanley's elder brother Sydney whose name is carved on the memorial cross had been killed in the last few months of the war Spencer chose to portray the event in a light hearted fashion describing the painting as my Ascot fashions

my sweet pea colours In Christ carrying the Cross 1920 lent by Tate Christ processes down Cookham High Street on his way to Calvary followed by the local builder s men carrying ladders Although the artist s intention was to convey a reassuring feeling of comfort derived from association with the familiar routine of village life critics at the time and since have interpreted this work as very much informed by the trauma of war By 1923 Spencer felt ready to return to his wartime memories drawing up detailed plans for a scheme of paintings designed to decorate a memorial chapel depicting his experiences which was eventually built at Burghclere near Newbury now The Sandham Memorial Chapel Having lost his kit bag containing sketches whilst abroad he referred back to pencil and wash studies made on his immediate return in 1918 19 Newly acquired and on show at the Gallery for the first time are Pack Mules and Wounded being carried by Mules in Macedonia which demonstrate the essential part played by mules which held great sway over Spencer s imagination in the Salonika campaign

A War Imagined Samuel Hynes, 2011-06-30 Between the opulent Edwardian years and the 1920s the First World War opens like a gap in time England after the war was a different place the arts were different history was different sex society class were all different Samuel Hynes examines the process of that transformation He explores a vast cultural mosaic comprising novels and poetry music and theatre journalism paintings films parliamentary debates public monuments sartorial fashions personal diaries and letters Told in rich detail this penetrating account shatters much of the received wisdom about the First World War It shows how English culture adapted itself to the needs of killing how our stereotypes of the war gradually took shape and how the nations thought and imagination were profoundly and irretrievably changed

Apocalypse in British Art and Visual Culture in the Early Twentieth Century Thomas Bromwell, 2024-11-29 This book is the first substantial study of the presence and relationship with the concepts of apocalypse eschatology and millennium in modern British art from 1914 to 1945 addressing how and why practitioners in both religious and secular spheres turned to the subjects The volume examines British art and visual culture's relationship with the then contemporary anxieties and hopes regarding the orientation of society and culture arguing that there is an acute relationship to the particular forms of cultural discourse of eschatology apocalypse and millennium Chapters identify the continued relevance of religion and religious themes in British art during the period and demonstrate that eschatology apocalypse and millennium were thriving and surprisingly mainstream concepts in the period that remained vital in early to mid twentieth century society and culture This book is a research monograph aimed at an audience of scholars and graduate students already familiar with the core focus of modern British art and cultural histories especially those working on the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries or the concepts of apocalypse eschatology and millennium in Theology Sociology or other disciplinary settings It will also be of interest to scholars and students working on war and visual culture or histories of imperialism It will benefit scholars of early twentieth century British art demonstrating the intersection of art and religion in the modern era and critically qualifies the standard secular canon and narrative of modern British art and the general neglect of religion in existing art historical literature

Edinburgh Companion to the First World War and the Arts Ann-Marie Einhaus, 2017-05-24 A new exploration of literary and artistic responses to WW1 from 1914 to the present This authoritative reference work examines literary and artistic responses to the wars upheavals across a wide range of media and genres from poetry to pamphlets sculpture to television documentary and requiems to war reporting Rather than looking at particular forms of artistic expression in isolation and focusing only on the war and inter war period the 26 essays collected in this volume approach artistic responses to the war from a wide variety of angles and where appropriate pursue their inquiry into the present day In 6 sections covering Literature the Visual Arts Music Periodicals and Journalism Film and Broadcasting and Publishing and Material Culture a wide range of original chapters from experts across literature and the arts examine what means and approaches were employed to respond to the shock of war as well as asking such key questions as how and why literary and artistic responses to the war have changed over time and how far later works of art are responses not only to the war itself but to earlier cultural production Key Features Offers new insights into the breadth and depth of artistic responses to WWI Establishes links and parallels across a wide range of different media and genres Emphasises the development of responses in different fields from 1914 to the present Stanley Spencer Paul Gough, 2006 Stanley Spencer was one of Britain's greatest twentieth century artists This book tells the story of the artist's journey from cosseted family life through the drudgery of a war hospital and the malarial battlefields of a forgotten front to his vision of peace and resurrection in Burghclere British Culture and the First World War Toby Thacker, 2014-09-25 The First World War has been mythologized since 1918 and many paradigmatic views of it that it was pointless that brave soldiers were needlessly sacrificed are deeply embedded in the British consciousness More than in any other country these collective British memories were influenced by the experiences and the work of writers painters and musicians This book revisits the British experience of the War through the eyes and ears of a diverse group of carefully selected novelists poets composers and painters It examines how they reacted to and portrayed their experiences in the trenches on the Western Front in distant theatres of war and on the home front in words pictures and music that would have a profound influence on subsequent British perceptions of the war Rupert Brooke Vera Brittain Richard Nevinson Paul Nash Edward Elgar and T E Lawrence are amongst the figures discussed in this original exploration of the First World War and British collective memory The book includes illustrations and maps to aid further study and research The Real and the Romantic Frances Spalding, 2022-07-07 The 21st century has seen a surge of interest in English art of the interwar years Women artists such as Winifred Knights Frances Hodgkins and Evelyn Dunbar have come to the fore while familiar names Paul Nash Eric Ravilious and Stanley Spencer have reached new audiences High profile exhibitions have attracted recordbreaking visitor numbers and challenged received opinion In The Real and the Romantic Frances Spalding one of Britain's leading art historians and critics takes a fresh and timely look at this rich period in English art The devastation of the First World War left the art world decentred and directionless This book is about its recovery Spalding explores how exciting new ideas co existed with a desire for continuity and a renewed interest in the past We see the challenge to English artists represented by Cézanne and Picasso and the role played by museums and galleries in this period Women artists writers and curators contributed to the emergence of a new avant garde The English landscape was revisited in modern terms The 1930s marked a high point in the history of modernism in Britain but the mood darkened with the prospect of a return to war The former advance towards abstraction and internationalism was replaced by a renewed concern with history place memory and a sense of belonging Native traditions were revived in modern terms but in ways that also let in the past Surrealism further disturbed the ascetic purity of high modernism and fed into the British love of the strange Throughout these years the pursuit of the real was set against and sometimes merged with an inclination towards the romantic as English artists sought to respond to their subjects and their times Your Loving Friend, Stanley Sir Stanley Spencer, Desmond Macready

Chute, 2011 When serving as an orderly in the Beaufort Military Hospital Bristol during the First World War the young Stanley Spencer met Desmond Chute a 20 year old aesthete and scion of a noted Bristol theatre family A close friendship ensued as the 31 letters in this collection attest Far more sophisticated and better educated Chute introduced the older man Spencer was 24 when they met to classical literature and great music and perhaps most crucially to the Confessions of St Augustine Chute's influence on Spencer's intellectual development cannot be exaggerated Spencer's often illustrated letters include some written while awaiting posting overseas others from the battlefields of Macedonia give glimpses of his tribulations in a theatre of war along with extraordinarily well wrought reminiscences of Cookham colourfully populated with places and characters A few concluding letters were written from Fernlea back in his home village and Hampstead in the 1920s Desmond Chute 1895-1962 was for a while at the Slade School of Art He became an assistant to Eric Gill and involved in the Guild of St Joseph and St Dominic He was admitted as a Catholic priest in 1927 moving to Italy where he was a friend of Ezra Pound He had some success as a published writer and playwright including a radio play broadcast by the BBC in 1955 All the letters are transcribed for the modern reader some are also reproduced facsimile with Spencer's illustrations A series of introductory essays Stanley Spencer at war and peace by Paul Gough give the background to the correspondence discuss its importance to Spencer and provide previously unpublished information about the Chute family Archive photographs provide a visual context

War Paint Brian Foss, Professor of Art History School for Studies in Art and Culture Brian Foss, 2007-01-01 In this groundbreaking examination of British war art during the Second World War Brian Foss delves deeply into what art meant to Britain and its people at a time when the nation's very survival was under threat Foss probes the impact of war art on the relations between art state patronage and public interest in art and he considers how this period of duress affected the trajectory of British Modernism Supported by some two hundred illustrations and extensive archival research the book offers the richest most nuanced view of mid century art and artists in Britain yet written The author focuses closely on Sir Kenneth Clark's influential War Artists Advisory Committee and explores topics ranging from censorship to artists' finances from the depiction of women as war workers to the contributions of war art to evolving notions of national identity and Britishness Lively and insightful the book adds new dimensions to the study of British art and cultural history

Stanley Spencer Sir Stanley Spencer, 1980

The Cambridge Companion to the Literature of the First World War Vincent Sherry, 2005-01-20 The Great War of 1914-1918 marks a turning point in modern history and culture This Companion offers critical overviews of the major literary genres and social contexts that define the study of the literatures produced by the First World War The volume comprises original essays by distinguished scholars of international reputation who examine the impact of the war on various national literatures principally Great Britain Germany France and the United States before addressing the way the war affected Modernism the European avant garde film women's writing memoirs and of course the war poets It concludes by addressing the legacy of the war for twentieth century literature The

Companion offers readers a chronology of key events and publication dates covering the years leading up to and including the war and ends with a current bibliography of further reading organised by chapter topics

War and Remembrance Renée Dickason, Delphine Letort, Michel Prum, Stéphanie A.H. Bélanger, 2022-06-15 Memory while seemingly a thing of the past has much to reveal in the present With its focus on memory War and Remembrance provides new viewpoints in the field of war representation Bringing an interdisciplinary approach to discussions of the cultural memory of war the collection focuses on narratives either fictional or testimonial that challenge ideological discourses of war The acts of remembrance and of waging war are constantly evolving A range of case studies analyzing representations of war in art film museums and literature from Nigeria Australia Sri Lanka Canada and beyond questions our current approaches to memory studies while offering reinterpretations of established narratives Throughout a commitment to Indigenous perspectives to examining the ongoing legacy of colonialism and to a continued reckoning with the Second World War foregrounds what is often forgotten in the writing of a single official history War and Remembrance invites readers to cast a reflexive look at wars and conflicts past some of them forgotten others still vividly commemorated the better to understand the cultural political and social stake of memory as a source of conflict and exchange of resistance and opposition and of negotiation and reconciliation

Facing Armageddon Hugh Cecil, Peter Liddle, 2003-04-01 Facing Armageddon is the first scholarly work on the 1914-18 War to explore on a world wide basis the real nature of the participants experience Sixty four scholars from all over the globe deliver the fruits of recent research in what civilians and servicemen passed through in the air on the sea and on land

Stanley Spencer, War Artist on Clydeside 1940/45 Joan Hughson, Third Eye Centre (Glasgow), Scottish Arts Council, 1975

Men in reserve Juliette Pattinson, Arthur McIvor, Linsey Robb, 2017-02-01 Men in reserve focuses on working class civilian men who as a result of working in reserved occupations were exempt from enlistment in the armed forces It uses fifty six newly conducted oral history interviews as well as autobiographies visual sources and existing archived interviews to explore how this group articulated their wartime experiences and how they positioned themselves in relation to the hegemonic discourse of military masculinity It considers the range of masculine identities circulating amongst civilian male workers during the war and investigates the extent to which reserved workers draw upon these identities when recalling their wartime selves It argues that the Second World War was capable of challenging civilian masculinities positioning the civilian man below that of the soldier hero while simultaneously reinforcing them by bolstering the capacity to provide and to earn high wages frequently in risky and dangerous work all which were key markers of masculinity
