wrote it and also how his attempts to communicate that vision were received by his contemporaries and have continued to be interpreted since his death the author posits distortion as key an intrinsic aspect both of human creation and of human interaction What we intend to make to say to do and have done often mutates in the process of being expressed or put into effect we live amid distortion Love the affective appreciation of one another is then a means by which we accommodate distortion and its consequences in our lives An illustration through Stanley Spencer's story of significant aspects of a human condition this book will appeal across disciplines including to art historians and students of Spencer's work as well as to scholars of anthropology with interests in creativity perception and interpretation

Exceptional Experiences Petra Rethmann, Helena Wulff, 2023-07-14 Looking at encounters that can puncture or jolt us this volume uses art as a lens through which to register and understand exceptional experiences The volume also includes the fieldworker's experience of unexpected events that can lead to key understandings as well as revelatory moments that happen during artistic creation and while looking at art By exploring exceptional experiences through art the volume asks probing questions for anthropology In recognizing that art is all encompassing including as it does narrative performance dance and images Exceptional Experiences situates itself within a number of conversations on methodological and conceptual issues in anthropology and beyond

Stanley Spencer Paul Gough, 2006 Stanley Spencer was one of Britain's greatest twentieth century artists This book tells the story of the artist's journey from cosseted family life through the drudgery of a war hospital and the malarial battlefields of a forgotten front to his vision of peace and resurrection in Burghclere

The Image of Christ in Modern Art Richard Harries, 2016-03-03 The Image of Christ in Modern Art explores the challenges presented by the radical and rapid changes of artistic style in the 20th century to artists who wished to relate to traditional Christian imagery In the 1930s David Jones said that he and his contemporaries were acutely conscious of the break by which he meant the fragmentation and loss of a once widely shared Christian narrative and set of images In this highly illustrated book Richard Harries looks at some of the artists associated with the birth of modernism such as Epstein and Rouault as well as those with a highly distinctive understanding of religion such as Chagall and Stanley Spencer He discusses the revival of confidence associated with the rebuilding of Coventry Cathedral after World War II and the commissioning of work by artists like Henry Moore Graham Sutherland and John Piper before looking at the very testing last quarter of the 20th century He shows how here and even more in our own time fresh and important visual interpretations of Christ have been created both by well known and less well known artists In conclusion he suggests that the modern movement in art has turned out to be a friend not a foe of Christian art Through a wide and beautiful range of images and insightful text Harries explores the continuing challenge present from the beginning of Christian art as to how that which is visual can in some way indicate the transcendent

Easels of Utopia John Baldacchino, 2018-10-03 Originally published in 1998 Easels of Utopia presents a discussion of art's duration and contingency within the avant garde's aesthetic parameters which throughout this century have constructed influenced and informed our definitions of modernity In this context the book reads Umberto Boccioni's Futurism as reminiscent of Thomist realism proposes Caravaggism's historical relevance to the election of individuality in post war realism and draws the readers attention to the aesthetic implications in Carlo Carr's metaphysical art and its reappraisal of the early Renaissance Following a contextual analysis of the historic avant garde in Part One Part Two presents parallel discussions of Italian and British questions articulated by the works of Marino Marini Francis Bacon Renato Guttuso and Stanley Spencer in their return to individuality within art's aesthetic construct The author argues that this initiates a return to lost beginnings where form seeks knowledge content regains an ability to anarchize and art recognizes its contingent condition
