Stanlyan Street & Other SorrowS

by Rod McKuen

The words within these pages are singing words. They sing for themselves of love lost and found and lost again. They are lessons to the dying, comforts to the summer and winter made from the joy of being wanted—even for a night. Love words.
Gentle, direct, beautifully lasting.

These poems were all written by Rod McKuen, one of the best young writers in the country today. Or as Grove's Leaf of the 111th Street Review puts it, the best contemporary song writer around. An opinion shared incidentally by The New York Times, Paris Match and The Times of London as well.

Kitty Bob A. Jackson, 2022-02-25 Sometimes it's funny and strange how things work out in life There are small incidental thoughts sayings and actions that are around us every day that can turn out not to be so small after all So this brings up what planted that little seed to turn into a fictional story about this cat named Mr Riley T Kitty First you need to know that I am Bob A Jackson author of this book a long long time dog lover When I was younger I never could get close to a cat because as you know they run or ignore you unless they have a tie with someone or they know and live with someone They are very finicky with who they socialize with Isolation does not mean much to them as long as they are not hungry know they have a nice place to spend the night and are not in pain from a street fight injury that they cannot sleep or rest I call Mr Kitty many names among them are Mr T Riley T Riley Kitty and Mr Riley He recognizes all of them are about HIM He came to us from a Hereford City Wide Garage Sale My daughter noticed this kitty going through the people at the sale A couple of hours later the same kitty was back doing what cats do curiously looking for something interesting for them to get into My daughter got this brilliant idea to put some milk out for the kitty That was the small action that got the cat's attention The next day I noticed they had gotten home from the eight hour trip Texas is a BIG state They stayed out in the car so I went to see if everything was all right About the time I got to the car this kitty cat jumped into my daughter's lap I ask What is that My daughter said It's our new kitty cat Well so it was When a name was being worked out my daughter insisted on the name Mr Kitty I did not like that name so I came up with my own For some reason I came up with the name Riley named after a man on the old black and white television's shows back then The title of the show was The Life of Riley Several years go by and there is little contact with me and the cat Then one night out of nowhere he jumps upon the bed and came over for me to pet him That little action started a relationship that I never expected He would have his evening routine around the house and then jump upon the bed for me to pet him One time he jumped on the bed and immediately stopped to stare at something in the ceiling corner of the bedroom His continued staring and had convinced me that something was really there So I asked him Riley what do you see He kept staring The next day I thought about that little staring episode and got to thinking Wouldn't it be something if he could have told me about what he saw A simple little reaction that planted the seed for the writing of this book I wanted the book to be entertaining as much humor as I could come up with educational and just a fun book for all ages to read and enjoy I put in some different things like instead of giving chapters I use a one work phrase that described that section I came up with 15 or 16 situations where we talked about the incident NOTE All normal not thicker not darker font is me speaking All the thicker darker font is Riley's thoughts and reactions It took some deeper thoughts and imagination to deliver what I wrote about Riley I do hope you enjoy reading it

Hard Evidence John Lescroart, 2002-06-01 This Dimas Hardy thriller is a compelling combination of courtroom drama and whodunit Sparked with crackling dialogue and vivid scenes of its San Francisco setting Richmond Times Dispatch When the bullet ridden body of a Silicon Valley billionaire washes up on shore assistant D A Dismas Hardy finds himself the prosecutor in San Francisco's murder trial of the century The suspect a Japanese call girl with a long list of prominent clients But when a bizarre series of events blows the case wide open Hardy finds himself on the other side of the law as a lawyer for the defense

Literature belongs on the shelf of every bibliophile and literary enthusiast. It is the essential link to our literary past and present. The Dustbin of History Greil Marcus, 1995. How much history can be communicated by pressure on a guitar string? Robert Palmer wondered in Deep Blues. Greil Marcus answers here more than we will ever know. It is the history in the riff in the movie or novel or photograph in the actor's pose or critic's posturing in short the history in cultural happenstance that Marcus reveals here exposing along the way the distortions and denials that keep us oblivious if not immune to its lessons. Whether writing about the Beat Generation or Umberto Eco Picasso's Guernica or the massacre in Tiananmen Square The Manchurian Candidate or John Wayne's acting Eric Ambler's antifascist thrillers or Camille Paglia Marcus uncovers the histories embedded in our cultural moments and acts and shows how through our reading of the truths our culture tells and those it twists and conceals we situate ourselves in that history and in the world. Rarely has a history lesson been so exhilarating. With the startling insights and electric style that have made him our foremost writer on American music Marcus brings back to life the cultural events that have defined us and our time the social milieu in which they took place and the individuals engaged in them. As he does so we see that these cultural instances as lofty as The Book of J as humble as a TV movie about Jan and Dean as fleeting as a few words spoken at the height of the Berkeley Free Speech Movement as enduring as a Paleolithic painting often have more to tell us than the master narratives so often passed off as faultless representations of the past. Again and again Marcus skewers the widespread assumption that history exists only in the past that it is behind us relegated to the dustbin. Here we see instead that history is very much with us being made and unmade every day and unless we recognize it our future will be as cramped and impoverished as our present sense of the past.

New York Magazine, 1969-12-08. New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country. With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea. Making Real Love Happen Joyce P. Buckner, Joyce Buckner, 2004. A self help psychology title for adults who wish to communicate with empathy respect and authenticity. ERA Background on common miscommunication is provided and readers are invited to use the ERA Process developed by the author from her research and that of others to end communication problems and take their relationship to a more loving honest level.
