State Security in South Africa James Michael Roherty, 1992 This work is a study of civil military relations in the Republic of South Africa while Pieter Willem Botha was prime minister 1978-89 The author's controversial thesis is that Prime Minister Botha recognizing that his country had reached the historical juncture when it needed to establish a new political order encompassing all of its diverse peoples moved effectively to prepare the ground for fundamental constitutional change What was needed above all were stabilization measures to assure the support of the white population for reform Botha used the South African defence force as his primary instrument By 1989 Professor Roherty maintains a striking degree of stabilization had been achieved within the country and throughout South Africa and the groundwork for epochal change had been prepared The author makes use of exclusive interviews with South Africans from the political military intelligence corporate and academic worlds

Evolving Dynamics of Nuclear South Asia, 2014-03-15 India and Pakistan have both never really accepted each other's existence Their ties have been characterised by a lingering hostility and a pronounced qualitative and quantitative military imbalance in favour of India Additionally India took the lead in developing nuclear weapons while Pakistan only seriously embarked on this endeavour after India had already conducted its peaceful nuclear explosion in 1974 Having lost half of their country in 1971 and realising that they could never really hope to match India in conventional military might Pakistan embarked on nuclear weapons development in the early 1970s more as a necessity rather than as a need Despite adopting the more difficult route of uranium enrichment Pakistan proved virtually unstoppable While China provided some assistance to Pakistan the United States maintained a marked ambivalence towards her quest for nuclear weapons it sometimes applied sanctions against Pakistan while at other times it opted to ignore what was happening by turning a blind eye The weaponisation of their nuclear capability in 1998 led India and

Pakistan to venture into the realm of doctrinal rethinking Commencing with a revision of the conventional military doctrines this led to India publishing its draft nuclear doctrine whereas Pakistan preferred ambiguity The essential consideration herein was on how the conventional military thinking of both the countries has been influenced by the availability of nuclear weapons in their respective inventories Along with this process of doctrinal evolution both countries were required to establish viable and internationally acceptable nuclear weapon control systems The doctrinal evolution was responsible for inducing several systemic changes in their armed forces and their entire military system had to undergo significant changes Simultaneously these led to a fresh assessment of the comparative nuclear military potential of the two countries and how this could possibly be employed in a future conflict

from the start of the Reagan administration in 1981 through the end of the Soviet era the collapse of the communist bloc the end of Gorbachev's failed perestroika and the demise of the Soviet Union itself at the end of 1991 While standing on its own the book is a sequel to the author's earlier acclaimed Détente and Confrontation American Soviet Relations from Nixon to Reagan which covers the period 1969-1980 This volume features a detailed examination of the perspectives and actions of both the United States and the Soviet Union and their interaction including the interrelationships of domestic factors with foreign and security policies in both countries and the involvement of both powers with other countries around the world which infringed on their direct relationship Besides analyzing the turn from confrontation to détente over the years of the Reagan and Bush administrations and Brezhnev through the Gorbachev administration it reflects on the significance of the great transition from the cold war to a new era It thus illuminates the very relevant recent history that underlines and informs American Russian relations and the new situation of a post Soviet post cold war world Garthoff has obtained access to many formerly secret Soviet documents on this period in the Russian archives as well as to a number of official American documents that have only recently been declassified In addition he has been able to interview and discuss the issues with many active or former Soviet and American officials The author concludes that the key development was the advent of a Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev who recognized the need to cast off a failed world view and to end the cold war and who successfully moved with the United States under the Reagan and Bush administrations and others to achieve that goal notwithstanding his failure in the parallel attempt to revitalize and transform the Soviet Union Selected by Choice as an Outstanding Book of 1994
