Beyond Transformative Learning in African-American Adult Education Gerald D. Redwine,2019-11-12 By exploring how the religious beliefs scientific knowledge and social surroundings of African American sufferers of type 2 diabetes mellitus T2DM impacts their understanding of the condition this book develops a new model of effective adult learning Presenting the findings of rigorous qualitative research undertaken with five individuals with T2DM this volume considers how individuals educational background their personal experiences and their relationship with African American theism have impacted on their efforts to understand and manage the disease Identification of the social and spiritual dynamics which govern adults acceptance of a chronic condition such as diabetes and their ability to manage the illness according to modern medical principles informs the development of a new theory of adult learning known as permeated learning This model which extends beyond transformative learning to recognize the influence of social constructs specific to African American communities will have broad application to adult education and the management of chronic diseases This scholarly text will be of great interest to graduate and postgraduate students researchers academics and policymakers in the field of adult education African American education transformative learning lifelong learning and multicultural education

Adult Education and the Formation of Citizens Andreas Fejes, Magnus Dahlstedt, Maria Olson, Fredrik Sandberg, 2018-05-08 Adult Education and the Formation of Citizens turns attention towards normative claims about who adults should become through education and what capacities and skills adults need to develop to become included in society as full citizens Through these debates adults are construed as not yet citizens despite already being citizens in a formal sense this book problematises such regimes of truth and their related notions of the possibilities and impossibilities of adult education and citizenship Drawing on empirical examples from the two main adult education institutions in Sweden folk high schools and municipal adult education it argues that through current regimes of truth these institutions become spaces for the re shaping of the abnormal citizen The book suggests that only certain futures of citizenship and its educational provision are made possible while other futures are ignored or even made impossible to imagine Offering a unique focus on critically problematising the role of adult education in relation to the fostering and shaping of citizens the book addresses the important contemporary challenges of the role of adult education in a time of migration Adult Education and the Formation of Citizens will be of great interest to academics researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of adult education lifelong learning and education

Understanding the Adult-Child Relationship William Lyman Camp FACAPP, 2022-02-09 Is there really more of a generation gap today than there was in the past We believe there is There has always been a struggle between the generations just there has always been a struggle between the sexes In the past however in an autocratic society this rebellion could not come out into the open With the advent of the state of equality which we have reached in the United States since World War II however this evolution has begun to change or emerge more rapidly We now see a low level rebellion of all those persons who were earlier in an inferior position Said more generally we cannot understand this change including a rebellion of youth if we consider it as an isolated phenomenon This quiet struggle of youth is part of a general sometimes not so quiet rebellion of the disenfranchised in our society Many women no longer let themselves be controlled by men children no longer allow it by adults labor no longer allow it by management and minorities especially Blacks and Hispanics no longer accept the supremacy of Whites Caucasians So we have to understand that this struggle on all fronts is part of the same rebellion The goal of this book is to outline the dynamics and processes involved The author s intent is to highlight the evolving relationship between adults and children as part of this process
