Starting Smart National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment, Federal Facilities Council, Standing Committee on Organizational Performance and Management, Michael P. Pappas, G. Edward Gibson, Jr., 2004-01-05 Although most federal facilities projects are successfully completed i.e. they reasonably meet the agency's requirements and expectations the perception is that development of the scope of work for design for these projects is challenging and in some cases poorly performed Based on this perception a study was commissioned by the Federal Facilities Council FFC of the National Research Council to identify the elements that should be included in a scope of work for design to help ensure that the resulting facility is one that supports the fulfillment of a federal agency's program or mission Its objectives also included identifying key practices for developing effective scopes of work for design involving new construction or major renovation projects and identifying key practices for matching the scope of work with the acquisition strategy given a range of project delivery systems and contract methods Project Planning and Project Success Pedro Serrador, 2014-11-24 Project planning is generally accepted as an important contributor to project success However is there research that affirms the positive impact of project planning and gives guidance on how much effort should be spent on planning To answer these questions this book looks at current literature and new research of this under studied area of proj Design Professional and Construction Manager Law Stephen A. Hess, 2007 Green Schools National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment, Committee to Review and Assess the Health and Productivity Benefits of Green Schools, 2007-01-25 Evidence has accumulated that shows that the quality of indoor environments can affect the health and productivity of adults and children One consequence is that a movement has emerged to promote the design of schools that have fewer adverse environmental effects To examine the potential of such design for improving education several private organizations asked the NRC to review and assess the health and productivity benefits of green schools This report provides an analysis of the complexity of making such a determination and an assessment of the potential human health and performance benefits of improvements in the building envelope indoor air quality lighting and acoustical quality The report also presents an assessment of the overall building condition and student achievement and offers an analysis of and recommendations for planning and maintaining green schools including research considerations Achieving High-Performance Federal Facilities National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment, Committee on High-Performance Green Federal Buildings: Strategies and Approaches for Meeting Federal Objectives, 2011-11-07 The design construction operation and retrofit of buildings is evolving in response to ever increasing knowledge about the impact of indoor environments on people and the impact of buildings on the environment Research has shown that the quality of indoor environments can affect the health safety and productivity of the people who occupy them

Buildings are also resource intensive accounting for 40 percent of primary energy use in the United States 12 percent of water consumption and 60 percent of all non industrial waste The processes for producing electricity at power plants and delivering it for use in buildings account for 40 percent of U S greenhouse gas emissions The U S federal government manages approximately 429 000 buildings of many types with a total square footage of 3 34 billion worldwide of which about 80 percent is owned space More than 30 individual departments and agencies are responsible for managing these buildings The characteristics of each agency s portfolio of facilities are determined by its mission and its programs In 2010 GSA s Office of Federal High Performance Green Buildings asked the National Academies to appoint an ad hoc committee of experts to conduct a public workshop and prepare a report that identified strategies and approaches for achieving a range of objectives associated with high performance green federal buildings Achieving High Performance Federal Facilities identifies examples of important initiatives taking place and available resources The report explores how these examples could be used to help make sustainability the preferred choice at all levels of decision making Achieving High Performance Federal Facilities can serve as a valuable guide federal agencies with differing missions types of facilities and operating procedures

Advancing the Competitiveness and Efficiency of the U.S. Construction Industry National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment, Committee on Advancing the Productivity and Competitiveness of the U.S. Industry Workshop, 2009-12-09 Construction productivity how well how quickly and at what cost buildings and infrastructure can be constructed directly affects prices for homes and consumer goods and the robustness of the national economy Industry analysts differ on whether construction industry productivity is improving or declining Still advances in available and emerging technologies offer significant opportunities to improve construction efficiency substantially in the 21st century and to help meet other national challenges such as environmental sustainability Advancing the Competitiveness and Efficiency of the U S Construction Industry identifies five interrelated activities that could significantly improve the quality timeliness cost effectiveness and sustainability of construction projects These activities include widespread deployment and use of interoperable technology applications improved job site efficiency through more effective interfacing of people processes materials equipment and information greater use of prefabrication preassembly modularization and off site fabrication techniques and processes innovative widespread use of demonstration installations and effective performance measurement to drive efficiency and support innovation The book recommends that the National Institute of Standards and Technology work with industry leaders to develop a collaborative strategy to fully implement and deploy the five activities

Construction Dispute Research Sai On Cheung, 2014-07-08 There are three specific purposes of Construction Dispute Research First this volume aims to summarise studies on construction dispute Second apart from the theoretical constructs where appropriate empirical tests are also included This approach serves to go beyond the commonly used anecdotal approach for the subject matters Third it is the sincere hope of the authors that this book will help shaping research agenda of construction dispute The studies are mostly framed from a management perspective drawing on methods and concepts in contract law economics psychology and management science The book has twenty chapters that are arranged in four parts covering conceptualisation avoidance negotiation and mediation Part 1 is devoted for dispute conceptualisation A building is only as strong as its foundation Thus it is no better start to study construction dispute by conceptualisation The theme of Part 2 is dispute avoidance The conventional wisdom of prevention is better than cure seems can be applied to all problems As far as construction dispute is concerned equitable risk allocation and trust are the two most commonly accepted avoidance strategies Part 3 focuses on negotiation that is the gateway to resolution as almost all disputes are negotiated first before the service of other mechanisms Negotiation is sometimes described as an art because settlement may not be obtained solely from legal and rational approaches Part 3 discusses the behavioral dimensions of construction dispute negotiation Part 4 deals with Mediation a form of assisted negotiation Specially the skill of the mediators in facilitating settlement the interrelationships among dispute sources mediator tactics and mediation outcomes are explored The studies presented in Construction Dispute Research collectively demonstrate holistic approach in dispute management Each chapter can be read as a study on its own Practitioners will find the book a handy reference in dispute management and resolution Students would find the book useful in explaining in details the causes of dispute the processes to resolve them The research design and empirical approaches are particularly useful to students in construction management architectural surveying and civil engineering programs

Managing Construction and Infrastructure in the 21st Century Bureau of Reclamation National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Infrastructure and the Constructed Environment, Committee on Organizing to Manage Construction and Infrastructure in the 21st Century Bureau of Reclamation, 2006-02-19 In the more than 100 years since its formation the U S Bureau of Reclamation of the Department of Interior DOI through its construction program has brought water electric power and recreation facilities to millions of people in the Western United States With major water and power systems in place the Bureau s attention has now turned to operation maintenance repair and modernization of those facilities in an environmentally and economically sound manner To help with this effort DOI asked the NRC to advise the Bureau on appropriate organizational management and resource configurations to meet its construction maintenance and infrastructure requirements for its missions of the 21st century This report presents an assessment of the requirements facing the Bureau in the 21st century an analysis of good practices and techniques for addressing those challenges and a review of workforce and human resource needs The report also provides alternative scenarios that describe possible future organizations for infrastructure management Proceedings of the 18th Conference of the Associated Research Centers for the Urban Underground Space Wei Wu, Chun Fai Leung, Yingxin Zhou, Xiaozhao Li, 2024-08-29 This book presents peer reviewed articles from the 18th Conference of the Associated Research Centers for the Urban Underground Space ACUUS 2023 held in Singapore from November 1 to 4 2023. It highlights new opportunities and challenges in underground space use amid a re-focus on exploring and developing the underground space as a strategic resource and part of sustainable development. The new frontier presents unprecedented opportunities for simultaneously improving urban infrastructure urban livability and resilience. At the same time special challenges exist in developing underground space both from a human design perspective and in terms of complexity. 3D planning system integration technical and life cycle costs. Equally important is the need to move from the creation of underground space as a haphazard last resort solution to a well planned and integrated use of underground space that can serve the needs of society for future generations as well as our own. As the world emerges from the COVID 19 pandemic and is faced with the many challenges in climate resilience the works presented in this book provide a timely opportunity and an excellent forum for engaging discussions and exchanges among planners designers engineers researchers and policy makers.

Project Scope Management Jamal Moustafaev, 2014-12-03 Incomplete or missed requirements omissions ambiguous product features lack of user involvement unrealistic customer expectations and the proverbial scope creep can result in cost overruns missed deadlines poor product quality and can very well ruin a project. Project Scope Management A Practical Guide to Requirements for Engineering Product Construction IT and Enterprise Projects describes how to elicit document and manage requirements to control project scope creep. It also explains how to manage project stakeholders to minimize the risk of an ever growing list of user requirements The book begins by discussing how to collect project requirements and define the project scope Next it considers the creation of work breakdown structures and examines the verification and control of the scope Most of the book is dedicated to explaining how to collect requirements and how to define product and project scope inasmuch as they represent the bulk of the project scope management work undertaken on any project regardless of the industry or the nature of the work involved The book maintains a focus on practical and sensible tools and techniques rather than academic theories It examines five different projects and traces their development from a project scope management perspective from project initiation to the end of the execution and control phases The types of projects considered include CRM system implementation mobile number portability port upgrade energy efficient house design and airport check in kiosk software After reading this book you will learn how to create project charters high level scope detailed requirements specifications requirements management plans traceability matrices and a work breakdown structure for the projects covered

Adding Value to the Facility Acquisition Process Standing Committee on Organizational Performance and Metrics, Federal Facilities Council, Ralph S. Spillinger, 2000-03-03 The federal government like private corporations and other organizations acquires buildings and other facilities to support specific functions and missions and the general conduct of its business The federal government is in fact the nation s largest owner of buildings and spends more than 20 billion per year for facility design and construction Adding Value to the Facility Acquisition Process identifies a range of best practices and technologies that can be used by federal agencies and other owners to provide adequate management and oversight of design reviews throughout the facility acquisition process
