Starting From Ameliasburgh:

Sharing the Past J.A. Weingarten, 2019-07-15 Sharing the Past is an unprecedentedly detailed account of the intertwining discourses of Canadian history and creative literature When social history emerged as its own field of study in the 1960s it promised new stories that would bring readers away from the elite writing of academics and closer to the everyday experiences of people Yet the academy's continued emphasis on professional distance and objectivity made it difficult for historians to connect with the experiences of those about whom they wrote and those same emphases made it all but impossible for non academic experts to be institutionally recognized as historians Drawing on interviews and new archival materials to construct a history of Canadian poetry written since 1960 Sharing the Past argues that the project of social history has achieved its fullest expression in lyric poetry a genre in which personal experiences anchor history Developing this genre since 1960 Canadian poets have provided an inclusive model for a truly social history that indiscriminately shares the right to speak authoritatively of the past

Words, Words, Words George Bowering, 2012-10-25 Words Words Words is a wide ranging collection of literary essays that astonish the reader with their candor insight and generosity Many of them reveal the absurdity that so often underlies our most passionate thoughts our most cherished moments even our most disturbing fears and recognitions They echo everywhere with a kind of cosmic laughter that never lets us forget we are constructs of our own capacity to see through language that at a most fundamental level what we think about our selves is inevitably an extension of what we learn in our reading of others Here we also get to find out what Bowering most cherishes about writers and writing who Al Purdy was what David McFadden's work pays attention to when the world of poetry changed where Artie Gold appeared as a light fixture in our darkness how bpNichol's Martyrology legitimized the vernacular why we cannot read
