Sex in Public Eric Naiman, 2019-01-15

Sex in Public examines the ideological poetics and the rhetoric of power in the Soviet Union during the 1920s, a period of anxiety over the historical legitimacy of Soviet ideology and Bolshevik power. Drawing on a wide range of sources, Party Congress transcripts, the classics of early Soviet literature, sex education pamphlets, the cinema, crime reports, and early Soviet ventures into popular science, the author seeks to explain the period's preoccupation with crime, disease, and especially sex. Using strategies of reading developed by literary scholars, he devotes special care to exploring the role of narrative in authoritative political texts. The book breaks new ground in its attention to the ideological importance of the female body during this important formative stage of Bolshevik rule. Sex in Public provides a fundamentally new history of the New Economic Policy and offers important revisionist readings of many of the fundamental cultural products of the early Soviet period. Perhaps most important, it serves as a model for the sort of interdisciplinary work that is possible when historians take literary and ideology theory seriously and when ideology theorists seek to conform to the standards of documentary rigor traditionally demanded by historians. It thus becomes a study that can be read as both positivistic and postmodern. Eric Naiman is Associate Professor of Russian and Comparative Literature at the University of values of interiority order privacy and enclosure associated with the American home come to define selfhood in general By analyzing writings by Stowe Hawthorne Melville Fern and Gilman and by examining other contemporary cultural modes abolitionism consumerism architecture interior decorating motherhood mesmerism hysteria and agoraphobia she reconfigures the parameters of both domesticity and the patterns of self it fashions Unfolding a representational history of the domestic Brown s work offers striking new readings of the literary texts as well as of the cultural contexts that they embody

The Psychology of Women's Health and Health Care Jo Campling, Paula Nicolson, Jane Ussher, 2016-07-27 The psychology of women s health is an area traditionally controlled by male orientated scientists psychologists and doctors Women by definition have been unquestioningly seen and treated as deviant from the male norm This model has been challenged by feminist historians and sociologists but not by psychologists who seem to have implicitly accepted the medical model and emphasised the pathology in women s behaviour and emotions In this book women s views and their experience of their own health and health care are taken seriously and analysed within a psychological and a feminist angle

Religious Melancholy and Protestant Experience in America Julius H. Rubin, 1994-01-06 This original examination of the spiritual narratives of conversion in the history of American Protestant evangelical religion reveals an interesting paradox Fervent believers who devoted themselves completely to the challenges of making a Christian life who longed to know God s rapturous love all too often languished in despair feeling forsaken by God Ironically those most devoted to fostering the soul s maturation neglected the well being of the psyche Drawing upon many sources including unpublished diaries and case studies of patients treated in nineteenth century asylums Julius Rubin s fascinating study thoroughly explores religious melancholy as a distinctive stance toward life a grieving over the loss of God s love and an obsession and psychopathology associated with the spiritual itinerary of conversion The varieties of this spiritual sickness include sinners who would fast unto death evangelical anorexia nervosa religious suicides and those obsessed with unpardonable sin From colonial Puritans like Michael Wigglesworth to contemporary evangelicals like Billy Graham among those who directed the course of evangelical religion and of their followers Rubin shows that religious melancholy has shaped the experience of self and identity for those who sought rebirth as children of God
