Litigation Funding for the Property Industry David Horsfall,David Layard,2000-04-30 The funding of litigation is now a major factor in the property industry This book examines new legal developments in the field in the UK The book provides technical detail and also practical examples to ensure the manager is in a better position to negotiate with his her lawyers The new Court rules combined with the stated aim of Government policy of removing legal aid and at the same time ensuring access of Justice through contingency fees has meant a revolution in the manner of funding litigation But this has meant an even more acute conflict of interest between solicitor and client because the lawyer needs to be able to recoup funding the action by taking a share of the proceeds of the claim The commercial client needs to be aware of the parameters to negotiate the conditional fee agreement The aim of this book is to provide a clear outline of the meaning of conditional fees and contingency fees provide an outline of the costs that may be payable under the new regime provide a breakdown by way of summary of different types of legal insurance available on the open market including after the event insurance give an overview of the fast track small track and multi track procedures relate litigation to service charge recovery programs for residential and commercial property

Experiencing Other Minds in the Courtroom Neal Feigenson, 2016-12-26 Increasingly in America's courtrooms lawyers litigants and expert witnesses attempt to recreate what it's like to be inside the litigant's mind But is it really possible to claim this perception as evidence Is seeing really believing Can anyone really know what it's like to have another person's perceptual experiences when only that person has direct access to them And why should courts ever admit visual or auditory evidence that purports to convey what another person's consciousness is like How might these simulations affect the ways that judges and jurors do justice Experiencing Other Minds thoughtfully explores this evidentiary and cognitive terrain Whether a simulation actually provides reliable knowledge about the other person's inner experience depends on the strength of our grounds for believing in it And that depends largely on how the simulation was made Primarily a descriptive and analytic work Experiencing Other Minds conducts a legal anthropological inquiry into a novel and distinctive evidentiary practice situating each example of digitally simulated subjective perception in its case context and drawing on cognitive psychology media studies science and technology studies and other disciplines to understand how each simulation produces specific epistemological and rhetorical effects By paying closer attention to the different kinds of simulation and the different knowledge claims they offer we can develop best practices for responsibly incorporating such evidence in the courtroom and thereby improve the quality of justice as well
