Foreign Direct Investment in Western China, 1994-2004 Xianming Yang, Ning Huang, Guoqing Zhao, 2024-12-28 This book focuses on the FDI in western China and aims to explore the logic behind the regional development. From 1994 to 2004, China's economy enjoyed a golden stage of rapid growth. As the top destination for foreign investment, China has integrated into the international production system and global value chain. However, it is apparent that the FDI distribution was unbalanced as the eastern region absorbed far more FDI than its western counterpart, a situation that remained unchanged even after China launched the Western Development Strategy (WDS). This book begins with the question of why it is difficult to introduce FDI to western China, followed by discussion on the gap of technology, human capital, industrial foundation, location selection, institutional factors and investment environment between the western and eastern China. The author analyzes how the lack of FDI growth affects the long-term growth of the western region.

China in the Global Economy: Foreign Direct Investment in China: Challenges and Prospects for Regional Development OECD, 2002-06-24 This book provides a selection of papers presented at the Foreign Direct Investment in China's Regional Development Conference organised in Xian on 11-12 October 2001 at the request of the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Trade and Economic Cooperation.

International Investment Perspectives 2002 OECD, 2002-09-23 This new annual publication offers broad overviews of recent trends in FDI with analysis of issues of recent interest.

Chinese Science and Technology Industrial Parks Susan M. Walcott, 2017-11-30 Title first published in 2003. This book examines types of advanced technology Chinese districts set aside for developing products for national and global markets. Culminating in a proposed best practice model for Chinese integration into global networks based on China's own particular political economy.

The Political Economy of Foreign Direct Investment in Korea You-il Lee, Richard Lee, Yoon-Jong Jang, 2025-08-15 One of the most spectacular phenomena in the South Korean political economy has been the remarkable escalation of international capital investment particularly inward foreign direct investment FDI This book provides an in depth look at the evolution of FDI in Korea from the late 1990s to the present day Charting Korea s transition from state led capitalism to a more liberalized market this book assesses the complex interplay between government policy foreign capital inflows and multinational corporations MNCs It analyzes the key economic policies of the past as well as more recent measures by the Moon Jae in and Yoon Suk Yeol administrations The book then conducts an analysis of the socio economic cultural and political dynamics that shape strategies of MNCs today The book draws on 36 interviews with CEOs of foreign companies operating in Korea to seek their insights into the realities of doing business in Korea It closes by highlighting the current challenges Korea faces today in integrating into the international economy and suggests solutions for sustaining its economic growth This book will appeal to scholars of political economy Korean studies and economic development It will also interest business leaders and policymakers seeking a deeper understanding of insights into Korea s economic climate

Where FDI Goes in Decentralized Authoritarian Countries Kelan Lu,2023-05-02 Among all the decentralized authoritarian countries China is distinctive not only because of its emergence as one of the largest foreign direct investment FDI recipient countries with one of the highest levels of fiscal decentralization but also because of the combination of its fiscal decentralization and the cadre promotion system as incentive institutions for attracting FDI inflows China is an important case to empirically investigate the impact of fiscal autonomy on adversarial investment because it has become the largest investment destination of its long term adversary Taiwan with Taiwanese FDI being among the largest FDI in mainland China Given the special role played by local Chinese governments in attracting and hosting Taiwanese FDI it is important to study the differences between where Taiwanese FDI and other FDI goes Given the uniqueness of the China case and that of Taiwanese investment in mainland China this book explores the following questions What determines where FDI goes in authoritarian countries like China Fiscal decentralization has been argued to be a driving force of skyrocketing FDI inflows in China due to its impact on local governments incentives However is the impact of fiscal autonomy on FDI monolithic with the dynamically changing levels of FDI inflows at the lower administrative levels in China especially with its special cadre management system Does the impact of fiscal decentralization on FDI strengthen or weaken or stay the same when attracting FDI inflows from adversarial states And what are the implications of such adversarial investment especially as it diffuses from coastal cities to the interior regions or from key cities to peripheral regions of decentralized authoritarian countries targeted by this investment Chinese International Investments Ilan Alon,Marc Fetscherin,2015-12-17 This book provides authoritative academic and professional insights into the strategies of Chinese Foreign Direct Investments in Europe Asia Africa and the Americas Distinguished authors from across the world will make a contribution to the growing literature on OFDI outward foreign direct investment from China Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998
