Senate,1915 Report of the Public Service Commission for the First District of the State of New York New York (State). Public Service Commission. 1st District,1912 Invisible Empire Jean-Guy Rens,2001-07-10 It is impossible to understand Canada without looking at the history and development of its telecommunications industry In the nineteenth century Canada was the only country in the world constructed on the basis of technology first the railway and in its shadow telegraphy In the 1930s this technological nationalism came of age and telecommunications became Canada s national technology The Invisible Empire provides the first overview of Canadian telecommunications from the laying of the first telegraph line between Toronto and Hamilton in 1846 to the separation between Nortel then known as Northern Electric and the American Bell System in 1956 Rens shows us that Louis Riel was beaten as much by telegraphy as by the Canadian army and how Bell Canada then known as Bell Telephone escaped nationalization by Sir Wilfrid Laurier s government He follows the construction of the first trans Canadian telephone line in the midst of the Great Depression of the 1930s and explains why in the context of the Cold War Canada built an electronic Great Wall of China in the far North Rens examines the context that allowed the telecommunications industry to take hold so successfully in Canada and explores how the industry grew so quickly and managed to escape American domination He situates Canadian accomplishments in telecommunications by comparing them with those of other countries The Post Office Electrical Engineers' Journal ,1913 Left Half Harmon Ralph Henry Barbour,1921 CHAPTER I THE THREE GUARDSMEN At a few minutes past three o clock on a particularly warm afternoon in late September of last year three boys removed themselves and their luggage from the top of a Fifth Avenue stage in New York City and set forth eastward along Forty second Street Although decidedly dissimilar in looks and slightly dissimilar in build they showed nevertheless a certain uniformity of carriage and action and to a lesser degree of attire There was nothing strange in that however since for the last two years at least they had spent nine months of the twelve in the same place at the same pursuits and under the same discipline The likeness of attire was less in material and color than in a certain tasteful avoidance of the extremes Joe Myers and Martin Proctor wore blue serge and Bob Newhall a brownish gray tweed and in no case was the coat snugged in to the figure or adorned with a belt in conformity to the dictums of the Rochester school of sartorial art Joe and Bob wore gray and gold ribbons about their straw hats Martin a plain black Each of the three carried a brown leather suitcase and had you looked closely you would have discovered on each bag amongst numerous other labels a gray triangle bearing two A s in gold snugged together in a pyramid shaped monogram At Grand Central Station they crossed the street showing a superb indifference to the traffic The driver of a pumpkin hued taxi cab whose countenance and manner of driving suggested that he had cut many notches in his steering wheel yielded to a momentary weakness and jammed on his emergency brake thereby allowing the three boys to step calmly and unhurriedly from his path They seemed not to have observed their danger and yet having gained the sidewalk unharmed one of them turned and rewarded the taxi man with a grave wink which threw the latter into a state of apoplectic anger Guess observed Bob with a chuckle we spoiled his entire day Don t worry responded Martin He ll kill enough to make up for losing us Inside the station they turned their steps toward the right and set their bags down near one of the ticket windows You get them Joe said Bob Here s mine He proffered a five dollar bill but Joe waved it aside
