Technical feasibility study on the chromium recovery from electroplating effluents Daniel Wiemken, 2014-04-11 Inhaltsangabe Introduction Rapid industrialisation and growth in population over the past two hundred years exert an increasing pressure on natural resources and the environment Billions of tons of controlled and scheduled waste are generated every year by the industrial sector worldwide which is often either pre treated on site or at a licensed contractor prior to disposal in landfills This practice if continued is leading to resource depletion and creates a potentially harmful legacy for future generations In order to move towards a more sustainable development as outlined in the Bruntland Report waste reduction reuse and recycling coupled with pollution prevention measures play an important part to slow down if not reverse this practice Heavy metals such as cadmium mercury lead and chromium are not degradable or renewable like biomass hence if they are to be used in future processes reuse and recycling are the only options At present heavy metals are used in the chemical industry sector for applications ranging from batteries to catalysts and surface coatings and can be found at various concentrations in gaseous liquid or solid waste Chromium is of particular interest owing to its legislative status and unique chemistry Chromium exists in nature primarily in one of two oxidation states There are other chemical oxidation states of chromium which include 0 II IV and V but they are considered transitory compared to more stable Cr III and Cr VI species Hexavalent chromium is a strong oxidizer which can react with DNA causing mutation while the trivalent organically complex form is a dietary supplement to help with proper glucose metabolism weight loss and muscle tone Unlike many other metals Cr VI can combine with oxygen to form water soluble negatively charged anions known as yellow chromate  $\text{CrO}_4^{2-}$  or orange dichromate  $\text{Cr}_2\text{O}_7^{2-}$  which adsorb to positively charged sites in contrast to cationic metal species Therefore hexavalent chromium species are not strongly bonded in many soils under alkaline to slightly acidic conditions for example Thus they can be very mobile in subsurface environment while other metals precipitated out and exert toxic effects on biological systems Various well established methods may be used to treat industrial effluents and contaminated water such as reduction and precipitation reverse osmosis evaporation ion exchange and adsorption While these processes are able to remove

Bipolar fuzzy hypersoft set and its application in decision making Ashraf Al-Quran, Faisal Al-Sharqi, Kifayat Ullah, Mamika Ujianita Romdhini, Marwa Balti, Mohammed Alomair, 2023-01-01 Smarandache developed the idea of hypersoft set HSS theory as an extension of soft set SS theory. HSS provides a general mathematical framework for handling data that can be formulated as several trait valued disjoint sets which blend to various traits. The major goal of this article is to lay the footing for supplying a new model called bipolar fuzzy hypersoft sets BFHSSs by linking both fuzzy sets FSs and HSSs under bipolarity property. By using positive and negative membership functions and multi argument functions these structures work best for testing uncertainty. This makes them better at solving real world problems especially ones that have both good and bad sides. This paper also has different operations for BFHSSs such as absolute BFHSS, null BFHSS, complement, subset, union, intersection and their related properties. Moreover, operations like OR and AND for BFHSS have been instituted. Some properties are demonstrated and some numerical examples are given to illustrate the mechanism of using these tools. Finally, these tools are applied in the decision making process based on an algorithm that is built.
