About Sustaining Supply Technology for Manned Spacecraft Christian Zschoch, 2020-02-19 At the present time space travel is characterized by separately developed technologies of the space traveling nations Depending on fixed financial budgets and expensive technology companies the developed spaceships are strongly designed just for a specific mission profile in order to reduce costs and risks as far as possible Because of their less sustainable supply concept these spacecraft allow only a limited mission duration and require regular supply deliveries in addition On the other hand side mission periods continue to lengthen with the planned exploration of Mars asteroids or other objects that are even more distant These missions will require high sustainable supply concepts in order to enable autonomous and long term life support of human mission participants The now existing solutions do not yet meet these requirements so the current approach of spacecraft design had to undergo a conceptual review The research made in the context of this work led to the design of a new generation of spacecraft which supports with its optimized hull construction such extended long term missions in terms of durability variability and life support All its embedded biological and chemical processes have on the one hand the primary aim to enable humans a long stay in space and on the other hand to be independent of an external mission supply The performed research activities also included the necessary mechanical and energetical functions for which an extreme lifetime extension of up to 60 years was aimed

Design of Supporting Systems for Life in Outer Space
Annalisa Dominoni, 2020-11-07 This book is a rich source of information on design research and solutions for the support and development of space missions International experiences and researches are presented in order to cast light on the role of space design in improving living and working conditions in outer space and to highlight the particularities of the necessary design skills taking into account specific requirements and constraints The challenge facing designers is how to approach environmentally extreme conditions in such a way that they are transformed from limitations into opportunities The author has herself developed products that have been tested during on orbit experiments on the International Space Station Drawing on this unique experience and other case studies the author proposes a new design methodology for space and demonstrates how the discipline of design is able to generate innovation thanks to the strong capacity of visioning Ultimately this will lead to the development of further new equipment for astronauts that will facilitate space travel While the book is intended primarily for students and researchers it is also of interest for a broad readership attracted by space innovation and future scenarios

Skylab Experiments, Volume 7, Living and Working in Space, 1973 Deep-Space Probes Gregory L. Matloff, 2013-11-27 This excellent book by Dr Gregory Matloff could be viewed as a large multi disciplinary compendium of past research current investigations and future research in astronautics However unlike conventional works that are usually closed this book is an open guide in three main respects it contains progressive exercises as the chapter and section topics evolve it provides the reader with many updated references and it clearly indicates projected research areas that could become current research in the near future For a student the included exercises could be transformed into small worksheets or notebooks featuring many modern symbolic or algebraic computation systems that run on desktop or laptop computers Thus rapid and progressive study is possible a sort of learning library driven by the author and by the bibliography at the end of each chapter More than 340 references for both professionals and students have been selected to provide the reader with a sound basis for expanding his or her knowledge of the many different subjects dealt with authoritatively by the author who for several decades has worked actively in various fields of astronautics A systematic and unhurried study of this book will produce for the reader an extraordinarily enlarged number based view of spaceflight and its significant impact on our future global society Foundations of Space Biology and Medicine: Space as a habitat ,1975
