Shahrokhi,1990 This volume contains a number of papers presented at the Space Commercialization Symposium The papers cover a broad spectrum of topics including those relating to current and future launch vehicle capability space infrastructure elements space law and space policies They provide insight into both the current and future supply and demand for space related products and services and opportunities and potential problems to be encountered by both the developed and developing nations The papers in this volume expand on five broad topics including launch vehicles advanced propulsion systems operations space power and commercial space and the developing countries The first four topics include papers describing space related capabilities and the last topic includes papers describing commercial opportunities and developing countries experiences and needs Space Commercialization F. Shahrokhi,George A. Hazelrigg,R. J. Bayuzick,1990 space commercialization activities are mainly in the areas of telecommunication and Earth observation The commercial use of space for microgravity processing remains elusive The reasons for this are the knowledge base for microgravity processing is inadequate and flight opportunities and hardware are too expensive lengthy and risky to provide a reasonable return on investment Furthermore previous unrealistic predictions of large benefits from space manufacturing of crystals biomaterials and other materials have created a negative image of microgravity opportunities especially in connection with the justification of manned space flights and the construction of a large space infrastructure This volume reports on the progress in Space Commercialization activities Large Space Structures & Systems in the Space Station Era ,1990 Large Space Structures and Systems in the Space Station Era ,1991-12 Research Reports: 1991 NASA/ASEE Summer Faculty Fellowship Program ,1991 NASA SP. ,1991 Rarefied Gas Dynamics Bernie D.
