language and linguistics rhetoric and composition bibliography and textual criticism and women s studies Metaphors Stefano Arduini,2007 Purple Passages Rachel Blau DuPlessis,2012-03-15 What is patriarchal poetry How can it be both attractive and tempting and yet be so hegemonic that it is invisible How does it combine various mixes of masculinity femininity effeminacy and eroticism At once passionate and dispassionate Rachel Blau DuPlessis meticulously outlines key moments of choice and debate about masculinity among writers as disparate as Ezra Pound T S Eliot Louis Zukofsky Charles Olson Robert Creeley and Allen Ginsberg choices that construct consequential models for institutions of poetic practice As DuPlessis writes There are no genderless subjects in any relationship structuring literary culture not in production dissemination or reception not in objects discourses or practices not in reading experiences or in interpretations And as she reveals in careful and enthralling detail for the poets at the center of this book questions of masculinity loomed large and were continuously articulated in their self creation as writers in literary bonding and in its deployment These gender laden choices debates and contradictions all have a striking influence today In this empathic yet critical historical polemic DuPlessis reveals the outcomes of these many investments in the radical reconstruction of masculinity in their strains incompleteness tensions and failures At the heart of modernist maleness and poetic practices are contradictions and urgencies gender ideas both progressive and defensive In a striking book on male behavior in poetic dyads the third book in a feminist critical trilogy DuPlessis tracks the poetic debates and arguments about gender that continuously affirm patriarchal poetry Historical Research, Creative Writing, and the Past Kevin A. Morrison,Pälvi Rantala,2023-07-12 Although historical research undertaken in different disciplines often requires speculation and imagination it remains relatively rare for scholars to foreground these processes explicitly as a knowing method Historical Research Creative Writing and the Past brings together researchers in a wide array of disciplines including literary studies and history ethnography design film and sound studies who employ imagination creativity or fiction in their own historical scholarship or who analyze the use of imagination creativity or fiction to make historical claims by others This volume is organized into four topical sections related to representations of the past textual and conceptual approaches material and emotional approaches speculative and experiential approaches and embodied methodologies and covers a variety of temporal periods and geographical contexts Reflecting on the methodological theoretical and ethical underpinnings of writing history creatively or speculatively the essays situate themselves within current debates over epistemology and interdisciplinarity They yield new insights into historical research methods including archival investigations and source criticisms while offering readers tangible examples of how to do history differently Picturing Animals in Britain, 1750-1850 Diana Donald,2007-01-01 From fine art paintings by such artists as Stubbs and Landseer to zoological illustrations and popular prints a vast array of animal images was created in Britain during the century from 1750 to 1850 This highly original book investigates the rich meanings of these visual representations as well as the ways in which animals were actually used and abused What Diana Donald discovers in this fascinating study is a deep and unresolved ambivalence that lies at the heart of human attitudes toward animals The author brings to light dichotomies in human thinking about animals throughout this key period awestruck with the beauty and spirit of wild animals people nevertheless desired to capture and tame them the belief that other species are inferior was firmly held yet at the same time animals in stories and fables were given human attributes though laws against animal cruelty were introduced the overworking of horses and the allure of sport hunting persisted Animals are central in cultural history Donald concludes and compelling questions about them then and now remain unanswered International Who's
