The Cultural Landscape During 6000 Years In Southern Sweden:

Ecological Bulletins, The Cultural Landscape During 6000 Years in Southern Sweden B. E. Berglund, 1991-08-26

This volume presents the results of the project The Cultural Landscape during 6000 Years based on interdisciplinary collaboration between six disciplines at Lund University during the period 1982-90. Before this project was initiated, researchers and teachers had long shown an interest in studies of the interaction of society and landscape in a historical perspective, but this interest led to only limited collaboration between the humanities and the natural sciences. One of the enthusiasts behind such collaboration in Lund has been Professor Berta Stjernquist, who also played a major role in designing the present project with its theoretical background and investigation area, the Ystad area. Nordic Landscapes Michael Jones, 2008. The first in-depth presentation of the Nordic landscapes to be published in nearly twenty years. Norden, the region along the northern edge of Europe, bordered by Russia and the Baltic nations to the east and by North America to the west, is a particularly fruitful site for the examination of the ever-evolving meaning of landscape and region as place. Contributors to this work reveal how Norden's regions and people have been defined by and against the dominant culture of Europe, while at the same time their landscapes and cultures have shaped and inspired Europe's ways of life. Together, the essays provide a much-needed picture of this culturally rich and geographically varied part of the world. pub desc The Cultural Landscape Hilary H. Birks, 1988. The Cultural Landscape: Past, Present and Future considers different aspects of man's intervention with natural vegetation and the landscape resulting from a long equilibrium of co-existence. These landscapes are not stable, and the recent and ever-accelerating changes in technology and life style have increasingly affected many ancient landscapes as old land use practices are abandoned and traditions forgotten. The papers in this book describe and trace the development of cultural landscapes in different climatic and biogeographical regions in Europe. Remnants of traditional land use still remaining are described particularly from Western Norway, where traditions have lingered because the rugged topography of the region is inimicable to high technology. Each chapter is by an expert in the field. The topics cover the documentation of present cultural landscapes, their maintenance and restoration, and the history of the development of cultural landscapes from the Stone Age onwards, linking the intensity of landscape utilization with population dynamics and technological attainments. The disciplines involved include vegetation science, vegetation history, ecology, palaeoecology, archaeology, sociology, geography, and history. Sustainable Forestry in Southern Sweden Kristina

Blennow, Mats Niklasson, 2006-05-22. The latest findings about the environmental, social, and economic impact of sustainable forestry. Forestry is one of the most important foundations of the Scandinavian economies. Sustainable Forestry in Southern Sweden. The SUFOR Research Project closely reviews the findings from the eight-year research program first launched in 1997 that searched for ways to maintain sustainable forestry in the region. Respected scholars and experts discuss ways to bridge the chasm separating the world of research with the world of trade and industry. Biodiversity: the impact of humans environmental conditions and other facets of sustainability are all presented and discussed in detail Sustainable Forestry in Southern Sweden begins with an overview of Swedish forestry and the sustainability debate in Sweden The full range of human impact is examined in detail with an eye on biodiversity issues Other research includes the effect of deer browsing on forest development the importance of root distribution nutrient sustainability fresh strategies for long term forest sustainability active risk management and important policy issues The book is extensively referenced and includes several tables to ensure clarity of data Sustainable Forestry in Southern Sweden discusses in detail the background of the SUFOR program the impact of lower fire frequency on forest biodiversity transforming research results into useful knowledge for forest practitioners balancing costs and benefits related to deer and moose population density effects of adverse environmental conditions on sensitive trees nutrient availability in plant productivity applicability of mixed stands in sustainable forestry weathering rates of forest soils analysis of sustainability conditions from environmental social and economic standpoints multi objective forest landscape projection models risk management in sustainable forestry moving from policy to implementation of sustainability and biodiversity policy implications resulting from the SUFOR program Sustainable Forestry in Southern Sweden is enlightening informative reading for scholars students and practitioners in land management issues

The Conservation of Cultural Landscapes Mauro Agnoletti,2006 The conservation and management of cultural landscapes interpreted as the result of the interrelationships among economic social and environmental factors through time and space emerges as essential components in the definition and application of a modern approach to sustainable development Cultural landscapes are the result of management practices and knowledge accumulated in human history and contribute not only to the cultural heritage of the world but also to biodiversity and aesthetic beauty providing also multiple goods and services for the development of rural areas. However, landscapes are severely endangered not only by some effects of the socioeconomic development but also by inappropriate policies in agriculture, forestry and nature conservation. This interdisciplinary book presents a range of different methods developed to analyse, restore and manage cultural landscapes, reporting a number of case studies from Europe and North America but raising some questions about the need for a revision of some past orientations.

The Cultural Landscape & Heritage Paradox Tom Bloemers, Henk Kars, Arnold Van der Valk, 2010. The basic problem is to what extent we can know past and mainly invisible landscapes and how we can use this still hidden knowledge for actual sustainable management of landscapes' cultural and historical values. It has also been acknowledged that heritage management is increasingly about the management of future change rather than simply protection. This presents us with a paradox: to preserve our historic environment we have to collaborate with those who wish to transform it, and in order to apply our expert knowledge we have to make it suitable for policy and society. The answer presented by the Protection and Development of the Dutch Archaeological Historical Landscape programme (PDL-BBO) is an integrative landscape approach which applies inter- and transdisciplinarity, establishing links between archaeological historical heritage and planning and between research and policy.

The Origins of Agriculture in Europe I. J. Thorpe, 2003-09-02. The Origins of Agriculture in Europe takes a look at current ideas in the light of a considerable mass of literature and archaeological evidence, examining the transition to agriculture through the comparison of social and economic developments across Europe. In this volume I. J. Thorpe manages to evaluate various alternative explanations in detailed examples whilst also succeeding in addressing the broader theoretical questions which form the nucleus of contemporary debates. This clearly written and accessible text is an extremely valuable resource for students of European prehistory.

Landscapes of Power, Landscapes of Conflict Tina L. Thurston, 2005-12-11. Tina Thurston's Landscapes of Power, Landscapes of Conflict is a third-generation processual analysis of sociopolitical evolution during the Iron Age in southern Scandinavia. Several red flags seem to be raised at once: Are not archaeologists now postprocessual, using new interpretive approaches to understand human history? Is not evolution a discredited concept in which societies are arbitrarily arranged along a unilinear scheme? Should not modern approaches be profoundly historical and agent-centered? In any event, were not Scandinavians the ultimate barbarian Vikings parasitizing the complex civilized world of southern and central Europe? Tina Thurston's book focuses our attention on the significant innovations of anthropological archaeology at the end of the twentieth century. A brief overview of processual archaeology can set the context for appreciating Landscapes of Power, Landscapes of Conflict. During the 1960s the emergent processual archaeology, aka the New Archaeology, crystallized an evolutionary paradigm that framed research with the comparative ethnography of Service and Fried. It was thought that human societies progressed through stages of social development and that the goal was to d cover the evolutionary prime movers such as irrigation warfare trade and population that drove social and cultural change By the 1970s prime movers had fallen from favor and social evolution was conceived as complicated flows of causation involving many variables

Developing Principles and Models for Sustainable Forestry in Sweden H. Sverdrup, Ingrid Stjernquist, 2013-04-18 In this book is summarized those management principles that should be valid in areas where forests continuously are used for production where biodiversity aspects are important as well as economy and productivity and where demands on soil status and water quality are set Especially the very long term aspects are emphasized and it is shown how system model thinking is used to reach the goals Biogeochemical aspects are put forward as they are very important in areas on poor bedrock with acid soils Forest vitality and stress on trees are treated as well as the importance of wildlife and their effects of browsing The balance between social and recreational demands from the society and the economical needs of the landowner is of great concern Experiences from a special area in South Sweden are presented

People, Land and Time Brian

Roberts, Peter Atkins, Ian Simmons, 2014-05-12 This major new text provides an introduction to the interaction of culture and society with the landscape and environment It offers a broad based view of this theme by drawing upon the varied traditions of landscape interpretation from the traditional cultural geography of scholars such as Carl Sauer to the new cultural geography which has emerged in the 1990s The book comprises three major interwoven strands First fundamental factors such as environmental change and population pressure are addressed in order to sketch the contextual variables of landscapes production Second the evolution of the humanised landscape is discussed in terms of processes such as clearing wood the impact of agriculture the creation of urban industrial complexes and is also treated in historical periods such as the pre industrial the modern and the post modern From this we can see the cultural and economic signatures of human societies at different times and places Finally examples of landscape types are selected in order to illustrate the ways in which landscape both represents and participates in social change The authors use a wide range of source material ranging from place names and pollen diagrams to literature and heritage monuments Superbly illustrated throughout it is essential reading for first year undergraduates studying historical geography human geography cultural geography or landscape history

Climate Development and History of the North Atlantic Realm Gerold Wefer, Wolfgang H. Berger, Karl-Ernst Behre, Eystein Jansen, 2013-03-09 The global environment is changing rapidly under the impact of human activities and an important element of this change is related to global climate modification Can the study of climate and history help in devising strategies for coping with this change What might be the type of information most useful in this context What are the pitfalls awaiting the unwary These are the kinds of questions that led us to bring together experts from the natural and social sciences with a strong interest in history to promote discussion between workers in different disciplines by focussing on a common topic of great interest to society The meeting was arranged in the framework of a Hanse Conference within the interdisciplinary program of the Hanse Wissenschaftskolleg a foundation set up to promote interdisciplinary studies in collaboration between the universities of Bremen and Oldenburg The aim of the Hanse Conferences in general is to provide opportunities for experts from different fields of the sciences and humanities to come together and explore the larger framework of topics of common interest What unites the participants is their desire to look over the fence to neighboring disciplines Young colleagues who wish to build an interdisciplinary career are particularly welcome In the Hanse Conference on Climate and History we have endeavoured to build bridges between the climate sciences and the sociological sciences concerned with environmental impacts on human activities The geological sciences we felt are especially well suited to the purpose because they already comprise historical aspects

Vestal Fire Stephen J. Pyne, 2012-04-01 Stephen Pyne has been described as having a consciousness composed of equal parts historian ecologist philosopher critic poet and sociologist At this time in history when many people are trying to understand their true relationship with the natural environment this book offers a remarkable contribution breathtaking in the scope of its research and exhilarating to read Pyne takes the reader on a journey through time exploring the terrain of Europe and the uses and abuses of its lands as well as through migration and conquest many parts of the rest of the world Whether he is discussing the Mediterranean region Russia Scandinavia the British Isles central Europe or colonized islands whether he is considering the impact of agriculture forestry or Enlightenment thinking the author brings an unmatched insight to his subject Vestal Fire takes its title from Vesta Roman goddess of the hearth and keeper of the sacred fire on Mount Olympus But the book's title also suggests the strengths and limitations of Europe's peculiar conception of fire and through fire of its relationship to nature Between the untamed fire of the wilderness and the tended fire of the hearth lies a never ending dialectic in which human beings struggle to control natural forces and processes that in fact can sometimes be directed but never wholly dominated or contained
