Learner Corpora in Language

Testing and Assessment Marcus Callies, Sandra Götz, 2015-04-15 The aim of this volume is to highlight the benefits and potential of using learner corpora for the testing and assessment of L2 proficiency in both speaking and writing reflecting the growing importance of learner corpora in applied linguistics and second language acquisition research Identifying several desiderata for future research and practice the volume presents a selection of original studies covering a variety of different languages It features studies that present very thoroughly compiled new corpus resources which are tailor made and ready for analysis in LTA new tools for the automatic assessment of proficiency levels and new methods of self assessment with the help of learner corpora Other studies suggest innovative research methodologies of how proficiency can be operationalized through learner corpus data The volume is of particular interest to researchers in applied corpus linguistics learner corpus research language testing and assessment as well as for materials developers and language teachers Classroom-Based

P. C. Nagasubramani, Adult learners have more options for enrolling in postsecondary education than ever before and they are able to use their learning style preference in deciding which program best meets their needs For some of these students those programs are fully online and for others there is minimal use of technology As technology grows and become more integrated into individual lives the unique learning styles and preferences of adults need to learn to be incorporated into instructional design Drawing on a regional sample of US colleges 545 adult learners in a graduate programs were surveyed about how to effectively build community in their online classes Results indicated some agreement with these instructional tools Mature adult learners however were found to have stronger agreement with strategies that included work outside of the formal online class These results suggest perhaps a greater comfort for adults in working in spaces where there is less likelihood of being judged or graded and that they might value relational work with other students in different ways than younger adults Proceedings of the 12th METU International ELT Convention Sema Turan, Burcin Kagitci

Yildiz, 2018-06-11 This edited collection contains sixteen papers presented at the 12th METU International ELT Convention Celebrating Diversity held in 2015 in Ankara Turkey With the social cultural and technological changes the 21st century has brought to our lives every learner today has more diverse needs and expectations which makes us consider the concept of diversity as one of the core points in English language education Based on the core principle One size does not fit all this volume presents a wide range of topics and covers issues related to diversity in student and teacher profiles teaching and learning practices assessment techniques world Englishes and cultural elements in EFL ESL classrooms As such the proceedings of the 12th METU International ELT Convention are an invaluable reference for those interested in diverse perspectives applications and practices in the teaching of English as a foreign and second language Individual

Differences in Second/Foreign Language Speech Production: Multidisciplinary Approaches and New Sounds Peijian Paul Sun, Boping Yuan, Xun Yan, Jimin Kahng, 2023-09-01 Second foreign language L2 speech production is a complex process requiring individuals combined efforts to utilize various processing components such as conceptualiser formulator and articulator Since the publication of Pim Levelt's book Speaking From Intention to Articulation in 1989 a considerable number of studies have examined L2 speech production in the field of neuroscience with a particular focus on the link between speech perception and speech production Undeniably a neurolinguistic examination of speech production can enrich our understanding of how human brains compute linguistic information at a cognitive level However it is insufficient by only focusing on the neurocognitive dimension of speech production given that individuals' speech production can be subject to various individual differences factors either cognitively affectively or socio culturally It is therefore necessary to move beyond the neurocognitive understanding of speech production by taking every possible perspective into consideration Individual difference as an umbrella term covers psychological traits personal characteristics cognitive and emotional components that distinguish learners from each other Given that individual difference factors can reveal disparities in L2 learning and performance among learners such factors have attracted researchers' growing interest concerning their influences on L2 speech processing their relationships with L2 speech performance and their contributions to L2 speech development Nevertheless our understanding of L2 speech production is not only insufficient compared to other L2 skills such as writing and reading but also limited to the neurocognitive account of L2 speech production More research therefore is in urgent need to uncover the influence of various individual differences factors on L2 speech production from multidisciplinary perspectives
