The International Grain Trade Nick Butler, 2017-03-16 The mood of the international grain market changed remarkably in the decade before this book was originally published in 1986 In the early 1970s which were years of buoyancy and high prices the concern was with feeding the starving millions and subsequently in the United States with the use of the grain embargo weapon to put pressure on the Soviet Union In the mid 1980s after a long period in which the recession kept prices down the climate was much gloomier The book considers the state of the major supplier countries and their particular problems It charts the changes in the market and discusses major issues of international concern It concludes by surveying prospects for the market     Water Resources Management David Lewis Feldman, 1995-03 In one slim volume Feldman has managed to combine a history of U S water policy two in depth case studies on the politics of water an analysis of the institutional biases affecting U S water policy and a discussion of water policy in France Nor is that all The opening and closing chapters of the work set this panoramic view of water policy within a normative framework derived from theorists as disparate as John Muir and John Rawls Journal of Politics     The Politics of Hunger John W. Warnock, 2019-07-19

Originally published in 1987 This important and provocative book explains the persistence of hunger poverty and the lack of balanced development in many countries and the central role of agriculture in economic development Most theories of agricultural development are based on the experiences of western Europe and the United States while the two models for successful late development have been Japan and the Soviet Union This book surveys the evolution of agriculture under colonialism in Latin America Africa and Asia and concludes that this long period distorted the development prospects for these areas and retarded the production of food Under strong state capitalist governments a few underdeveloped countries have broken the colonial patterns of development However other post revolutionary societies are having far less success because of economic blockades and outside military intervention While the primary focus of the book is on the short run problems of inequality the author examines the long run ecological and resource constraints to a sustainable food system and raising the standard of living in the underdeveloped world     Routledge Library Editions: Food Supply and Policy

Various, 2021-08-29 Reissuing works originally published between 1952 and 1999 this set provides a wide spread of scholarship on issues surrounding food provision throughout the world The earlier books look at import and export changes during times when previous trade routes and options changed while later ones mostly consider food assistance policies poverty and famine and welfare These books cover third world studies economics anthropology politics environment agriculture and population studies as well as food and nutrition     Holding Our Ground Deborah Bowers, Tom

Daniels, 1997-03-01 Farmers who own or rent most of the private land in America hold the key not only to the nation's food supply but also to managing community growth maintaining an attractive landscape and protecting water and wildlife resources While the issue of protecting farmland and open space is not new the intensity of the challenge has increased

Farmers are harder pressed to make a living and rural and suburban communities are struggling to accommodate increasing populations and the development that comes with them. Holding Our Ground can help landowners and communities devise and implement effective strategies for protecting farmland. The book discusses the reasons for protecting farmland and how to make those reasons widely known and understood, describes the business of farming, federal government farm programs and the role of land in farmers' decisions, analyzes federal, state and local farmland protection efforts and techniques, explores a variety of land protection options including purchase of development rights, transfer of development rights, private land trusts and financial tax and estate planning, reviews the strengths and weaknesses of the farmland protection tools available. The authors describe the many challenges involved in protecting farmland and explain how to create a package of techniques that can meet those challenges. In addition, they offer appendixes with model zoning ordinances, nuisance disclaimers, conservation easements and other documents that individuals and communities need to carry out the programs discussed. Holding Our Ground provides citizens, elected officials, planners and landowners with a solid basis for understanding the issues behind farmland protection and will be an invaluable resource in developing techniques and programs for achieving long-term protection goals.

Water Scarcity Ernest A. Engelbert, Ann Foley Scheuring, 2023-11-10
Agricultural production in the semi-arid western United States is dependent on irrigation. Population in the seventeen western states has been and is expected to continue increasing. Groundwater levels are declining throughout the region with long-term pumping and increased demands leading to greater pumping lifts and costs, land subsidence and salt water intrusion into groundwater basins. Construction and operation costs of future water development in these states will be great both in dollars and in economic and social effects. Competition for the available water supply due to increased demands in both agricultural and non-agricultural sectors continues to increase. Although considerable attention has been given to some aspects of declining water supplies for irrigated agriculture in particular areas, this is the first volume to address in a comprehensive manner the effects of scarce water supplies on agricultural production and the resultant impacts at regional, state, national and international levels. Over seventy experts representing all the major physical and social sciences as well as industries examine the issues and conclude that important decisions must be made at all levels of government and private enterprise if the prosperity and quality of life in the region are to be maintained. Specific technical, economic, institutional and managerial solutions are recommended to forestall an impending water crisis. All segments of society: agriculturalists, urbanites, food processors, land developers, environmentalists and others have major stakes in the outcome of any action for future water supplies and distribution in the West.
