The Crisis In Economics And The Hong Kong Response:

The Crisis in Economics and the Hong Kong Response Hong Kong Institute of Economic Science, 1984 Responding to Globalisation Jeffrey A. Hart, Aseem Prakash, 2002-11 This comprehensive analysis of the way in which governments and firms have responded to globalisation examines closely the options available to both and the historical contexts of the strategic decisions made Southeast Asian Responses to Globalization Francis Kok-Wah Loh, Joakim Öjendal, 2005 Focuses on the globalization democratization nexus and shows how governance is being restructured and democracy sometimes deepened in this new global era Policy Responses to External Imbalances in Emerging Market Economies Mr. Chorng-Huey Wong, Luis Carranza, 1998-07-01 A bivariate vector autoregression VAR model is used to test causal relations between the current account and the capital account in four emerging market economies The results show that high capital mobility could be a major cause of current account instability Therefore macroeconomic policy to restore external balance must deal directly with capital inflows The paper recommends making nominal exchange rate sufficiently flexible to avoid inconsistencies between short run and long run real exchange rates complementing credit tightening by fiscal restraint to reduce interest rate differentials and strengthening reforms and surveillance of the financial system to prevent banks from excessive risk taking Managing Social Change and Social Policy in Greater China Ka-Ho Mok, Maggie K. W. Lau, 2013-11-07 East Asia is at the heart of the global economic transformation and the countries of the region are witnessing rapidly changing labour markets alongside the pressure to cut production costs and lower taxes in order to become successful competition states These changes have resulted in increased welfare demands which governments organizations and agencies across the region have had to address This book examines welfare regimes in the Greater China region encompassing mainland China Hong Kong Macao and Taiwan In so doing it explores the ways in which the rapid growth and internationalisation of the economy across Greater China is presenting new social policy challenges that governments social welfare organizations and agencies in the region are having to respond to Rather than simply describing and categorising welfare systems the contributors to this volume add to our understanding of how one of the major economic transformations of the contemporary era in East Asia is shaping welfare provision in the region In turn in this context of economic change they examine the new strategies and measures that have been adopted in order to reduce the heavy burden on the state in terms of welfare provision whilst also attempting to diversify funding and provision sources to meet the pressing welfare needs Based upon extensive fieldwork by leading scholars of social policy this book will appeal to students and scholars of Asian social policy comparative development and social policy social welfare and Chinese studies New Welfare States in East Asia Gyu-Jin Hwang, 2011 The fast changing economic climate is creating substantial pressure for welfare state restructuring worldwide Yet the discussion regarding challenges faced and the responses required has been confined to the standard welfare states in the West This book examines whether these challenges also apply to the countries in the East

whether these countries have generated different responses to their Western counterparts and whether they have undergone a process of regime transformation while responding to these pressures Comparative in approach this book offers lively discussion on the new social challenges faced in East Asia following the unprecedented scale of the recent global financial crisis It reaches beyond policy descriptions to offer more systematic analyses of welfare restructuring in the region in relation to the fast changing global economic order By examining the dynamics of welfare state restructuring both in terms of continuity and change it explores intensified impacts of global restructuring of welfare and the nature of welfare state adaptation in the region Handbook on East Asian Social Policy Misa Izuhara,2013-01-01 Dramatic socio economic transformations over the last two decades have brought social policy and social welfare issues to prominence in many East Asian societies Since the 1990s and in response to national as well as global pressure there have been substantial developments and reforms in social policy in the region but the development paths have been uneven Until recently comparative analysis of East Asian social policy tends to have focused on the established welfare state of Japan and the emerging welfare regimes of four Tiger Economies Much of the recent debate indeed preceded China's re emergence onto the world economy In this context this Handbook brings China more fully into the contemporary social policy debates in East Asia Organised around five themes from welfare state developments to theories and methodologies to current social policy issues the Handbook presents original research from leading specialists in the fields and provides a fresh and updated perspective to the study of social policy Providing a comparative international approach this Handbook will appeal to academics researchers and students at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels working in the fields of social policy as well as policy makers and practitioners who are interested in social policy lessons from other societies Full and Productive Employment in Developing Economies Rizwanul Islam,2019-07-30 The United Nations Sustainable Development Goals include a specific target for full and productive employment However what constitutes full employment in developing countries is not yet clearly understood And likewise there is no clear direction for developing strategies and policies to address this challenge Drawing on the author's deep knowledge of employment and inclusive development this book presents a broad framework which could enable us to pursue the challenging goal of full productive employment in developing countries It revisits the conceptual foundations of full employment and carefully examines the issue of suitable indicators for monitoring progress It also examines the challenges created by globalized production chains and labour market fluctuations caused by economic crises This book throws light on a major lacuna in development thinking on how the challenge of creating productive employment for all in developing countries needs to be addressed It provides a solution by re examining relevant theories and empirical evidence and by bringing out their implications for development strategies and policies Finally the focus falls on the effective implementation of employment strategies and policies This authoritative work will appeal to a diverse readership of academic researchers think tanks international organizations and development partners

Asian Health Sectors Growth in the Next Decade - Optimism despite Challenges Ahead Mihajlo Jakovljevic, Liang Wang, Chiranjivi Adhikari, 2023-04-05

China and the World Economy Yih-chyi Chuang, Simona Thomas, 2010 China's integration in the world economy is perceived as one of the major events in the world economy in recent decades. As a result of the large inflow of foreign direct investment (FDI), China has become one of the leading trade nations worldwide. China's opening to the outside world, privatization of state-owned enterprises, urban and rural industrial development, and pursuit of economic plus ecological policies (green GDP) are presented as key elements of the so-called socialist market economy of Chinese origin. The situation in China tends to present some very contradictory features in terms of GDP per capita. China still belongs to the group of developing countries, but on the other hand, Chinese enterprises are set to become highly competitive and active in the international business arena. China and the World Economy is a topic-oriented edition of the bi-annual journal Berliner China Hefte (Chinese History and Society) which analyzes issues related to China's integration in the world economy and the related impacts. Employing interdisciplinary approaches, the authors ask whether the driving force of global economic trends will lead to profound changes not only in foreign and domestic business but also in China's overall economic and societal development. What kinds of new trends can be identified, for example, in the fields of investment, innovation, trade, and finance? How are institutional, regional, and/or environmental changes observed at global and domestic levels? And consequently, how do these trends introduce new analytical perspectives on China's economic rise after three decades of reform?

Central Bank Policy Mix: Issues, Challenges, and Policy Responses Perry Warjiyo, Solikin M. Juhro, 2022-01-22 This is an open access book. This book is an integration of keynote speeches, lectures, and related teaching materials during the five years of the Central Bank Policy Mix: Issues, Challenges, and Policy Responses flagship program of the BI Institute, the learning and research centre of Bank Indonesia. The book examines the interactions among central bank policies, including monetary policy, exchange rate policy, macroprudential policy, and capital flow management, and also elaborates on modeling issues and quantitative analysis of the interaction between macroeconomic variables and policy instruments.

International Economic Scoreboard, 1998

Networked Disease S. Harris Ali, Roger Keil, 2011-07-05 A collection of writings by leading experts and newer researchers on the SARS outbreak and its relation to infectious disease management in progressively global and urban societies. Presents original contributions by scholars from seven countries on four continents. Connects newer thinking on global cities, networks, and governance in a post-national era of public health regulations and neo-liberalization of state services. Provides an important contribution to the global public debate on the challenges of emerging infectious disease in cities. Examines the impact of globalization on future infectious disease threats on international and local politics and culture. Focuses on the ways pathogens interact with economic, political, and social factors, ultimately presenting a threat to human development and global cities. Employs an interdisciplinary approach to the SARS epidemic, clearly demonstrating the value of social scientific perspectives on the study of modern disease in a globalized world Regions and Economic Resilience Raul Ramos ,Matías Mayor,2020-12-14 The term resilience originated in environmental studies and describes one s biological capacity to adapt and thrive under adverse environmental conditions Regional economic resilience is defined as the capacity of a territory s economy to resist and or recover quickly from external shocks often even improving on its prior situation before the shock The contributions in this book analyse different channels related to processes of mitigation resistance recovery and adaptive resilience reorientation renewal in a wide variety of geographical settings and scales While the different chapters include relevant methodological advances in this literature they also obtain relevant results from a policy perspective Moreover the wide spectrum of topics and analyses among the contributions in this book extend the current framework to analyse regional economic resilience from the intersection of several disciplines involving geographers economists and demographers as well as environmental scientists Financial Crises and the Politics of Macroeconomic Adjustments Stefanie Walter,2013-10-31 When are policy makers willing to make costly adjustments to their macroeconomic policies to mitigate balance of payments problems Which types of adjustment strategies do they choose Under what circumstances do they delay reform and when are such delays likely to result in financial crises To answer these questions this book examines how macroeconomic policy adjustments affect individual voters in financially open economies and argues that the anticipation of these distributional effects influences policy makers decisions about the timing and the type of reform Empirically the book combines analyses of cross national survey data of voters and firms policy evaluations with comparative case studies of national policy responses to the Asian financial crisis of 1997 8 and the recent global financial crisis in Eastern Europe The book shows that variation in policy makers willingness to implement reform can be traced back to differences in the vulnerability profiles of their countries electorates The Political Economy of the New Asian Industrialism Frederic C. Deyo,2018-08-06 The newly industrializing countries NICs of East Asia have undergone rapid economic expansion over the past twenty years Unlike NICs elsewhere in the Third World those in the Pacific basin South Korea Taiwan Singapore and Hong Kong have managed to achieve almost full employment a relatively egalitarian distribution of income and the virtual elimination of poverty In this collection of essays nine development specialists explore the Asian NICs exceptional ability to capitalize on the favorable economic environment of the 1960s and then to adapt flexibly to worsening conditions in the 1970s and 1980s Power, Perception and Foreign Policymaking Scott Brown,2017-11-13 This book examines the changing dynamics of power in the international arena since the end of the Cold War Brown engages in analysis of how the United States and the European Union have responded to the so called rise of China through an examination of how policymakers perceptions of China have changed over time and influenced their policy choices This study undertakes rigorous analysis of how these perceptions have evolved between 1989 and 2009/2016 offering a comparative perspective on the similarities and differences between the policy discourse and behaviour within these two Western powers Brown argues that China s rise is a contested notion with varied perceptions of how the implications of China's ascendancy have shaped policy preferences in ways that are inconsistent with concerns over the threat of an impending power transition. Combining concepts and methods derived from IR and FPA, the book examines the linkages between great power politics and policymakers' competing interpretations of key international actors and their influence upon foreign policies. The main objective of the study is to illuminate the different ways in which the US and the EU have responded to the rise of China through a close analysis of their decision-making processes and outcomes across a series of key encounters and events, including the transatlantic debate over the EU's proposal to lift its China arms embargo (2003–2005). Undertaking qualitative analysis of the development of American and European policymakers' perceptions of China, this book will be of interest to graduates and scholars of post-Cold War international politics, Foreign Policy Analysis, policymaking, US-China relations, and EU-China relations.

Handbook of Public Administration Reform Shaun F.

Goldfinch, 2023-11-03. Reform is a politicized ideological, sometimes drifting and chaotic process. As such, what public administration reform means, why it occurs, whose interests it serves, and whether it makes the world a better place remain contested. Addressing these questions, this major comparative study sheds new light on existing and emerging issues in the field of public administration reform.

Misery beneath the Miracle in East Asia Arvid J. Lukauskas, Yumiko

Shimabukuro, 2024-12-15. Misery beneath the Miracle in East Asia challenges prevailing views of the East Asian economic miracle. Existing scholarship has overlooked the severity, persistence, and harmful consequences of the social welfare crises affecting the region. Arvid J. Lukauskas and Yumiko Shimabukuro fill this gap and put a major asterisk on East Asia's economic record. Combining big picture analysis, abundant data, a dynamic interdisciplinary framework, and powerful human stories, they shed light on the social ills that governments have failed to address adequately, including low wages, child abuse, elderly poverty, and substandard housing. One of the major forces behind the multidimensional welfare crises is the region's productivist welfare strategy, which prioritizes economic growth while abandoning a robust social safety net, leaving the most vulnerable segments of society largely unprotected. Misery beneath the Miracle in East Asia brings the region into debates over the dangers of seeking growth at all costs that are currently embroiling the United States and other advanced industrialized countries.

Internationalization of Higher Education in East Asia Ka-Ho Mok, Kar Ming Yu, 2013-11-12

The rise in demand for higher education in the Asia Pacific region is an undeniable reflection of the growing pace of globalization and the subsequent pressures imposed by it. Aspiring to become globally competitive and to position favourably in the global university league tables, governments in Asia have either engaged in a serious quest to become a regional education hub or they have concentrated on developing transnational higher education to create more opportunities in order to meet their citizens' pressing demand for higher education. Internationalization of Higher Education in East Asia critically examines and provides comparative perspectives on the major strategies that selected Asian countries and societies have adopted to transform their higher education sector and enhance their national competitiveness in the increasingly globalized world This volume by leading scholars in the field of education development and policy studies makes critical reflections on how Asian governments in particular and universities in general have responded to the growing challenges of globalization by promoting more internationalization student mobility and entrepreneurship in higher education This book is an essential collection for policy makers researchers and postgraduate students studying higher education Asian education and international education
