The Swing of the Pendulum Diane Caracciolo, Courtney Lee Weida, 2017-11-13 Current educational policies particularly in the United States have swung so far in the direction of overtly politicized and decontextualized testing that we are losing opportunities to support the imaginative and expressive capacities of a generation of children and adolescents with implications for our individual and collective health Enter arts education and the healing arts as urgently needed remedies for this imbalance to swing the pendulum of educational practices back to a place of balance and wholeness Informed by an arts based sensibility this book explores how imaginative creative and artistic experiences can heal and why we urgently need them at the heart of our educational discourses and practices These chapters invite teachers teacher educators and therapeutic professionals to reclaim imaginative arts based experiences as central to the human conditions that they serve The narratives and case studies included here are of interest for any arts based qualitative research course as an example of narrative inquiry and in arts and general education programs for their pedagogical implications As Blake invited us to find the world in a grain of sand and showed us how poetry could materialize this so too these storytellers discover and shape their personal meanings in ceramic pots paintings poems drama and poetry While the stories told here are deeply ingrained interior journeys all reflect ways of observing and embracing the world of others of becoming wise becoming self and becoming skilled practitioners of meaning making By naming and framing they suggest that clarity becomes possible and personal freedom achieved Judith M Burton Teachers College Columbia from the Foreword This anthology offers a substantial number of narratives that represent seeking wholeness sustenance and renewal In many cases the authors provide a tribute to those who have impacted their lives in profound ways This is an important contribution to both art education and literary education in the world of scholarly research Laurel H Campbell Purdue University

Triple Entendre Herve Vanel, 2013-11-15 Triple Entendre discusses the rise and spread of background music in contexts as diverse as office workplaces shopping malls and musical performance Herv Vanel examines background music in several guises beginning with Erik Satie's Furniture Music of the late 1910s and early 1920s which first demonstrated the idea of a music not meant to be listened to and was later considered a precedent to modern functional background music Vanel argues that when the Muzak Corporation's commercialized ambient music became a predominant feature of modern life in the 1940s both as a brand and a genre of background music it also became a powerful instrument of social engineering in an advanced capitalist society Different kinds of music were developed to encourage or incite greater productivity in the workplace more energetic shopping or more animated socializing Vanel's discussion culminates in the creative response of the composer John Cage to the pervasiveness and power of background music in contemporary society Cage neither opposed nor rejected

Muzak but literally answered its challenge by formulating a parallel concept that he called Muzak Plus Forty years after Satie presented his work to general critical puzzlement Cage saw how background music could be combined with mid century technology and theories of art and performance to create a participatory soundscape on a scale that Satie could not have envisioned again reconfiguring the listener's stance to music By examining the subterranean connections existing between these three formulations of a singular idea Triple Entendre analyzes and challenges the crucial boundary that separates an artistic concept from its actual implementation in life
